Mothers' meetings have come to be a part of our moral machinery in many of our towns and cities, and this the unwholesome influences of alcohol "raison d' etre" le too evident for explanation. Why not fathers' meetings? Is not the responsibility of the proper training of children one that must necessarily be shared by both parents? Neglect of his duty does have looked over an audience, the manot absolve the father any more than indifference to her obligations will excuse the mother. Home protection stands in the relation to home authority, as a ruler's duty to see that his kirgdom is not invaded by enemies does to his requirement of obedience from those within that kingdom. They are necessarily co-existent whether the law be that of love or brute force, and with the duty comes the need of guiding wisdom, If methers are helped and helpful by meeting to talk and pray to their peculiar work, why would not fathers glory of a woman to have a clear, well be also? Mayhap the strength given them by the power of the ballot would cause their gathering to strike terror
