Mrs. Barney anounces the result of the contest in trese words: "Victory in the name of G d. Ruad Exedus uf con'n, first to twenty-first." There will be rejoicing a song all our unious over this news, or all of them have been praying for Rhode Island in this struggle. The shortness of time elapsing between the action of the legislature submitting the prohibitory amendment and the popular vote led to the very grave fears that it bould not be carried, but, as usual, God was better to us than our fears.

In this office we keep the two classes of men-abstatuers and moderate drinks s-sutirely separate. During the last syventeen years, the expected deaths a nong the abstaining rection of the insurers were 2644; but the actual deaths were 1861. Among the mederate dinkers—we take no immoderate d inkers-the expected deaths during the same period were 4408, while the actual deaths were 4339, scarce y any lifference at all. These figures therefore show that among the temperate or total abstainers, the actual deaths were only seventy per cent, of the expected leaths; whereas in the moderate drinking section the actual deaths had come advertising in American within the merest fraction of the exproted deaths. - H ...
