

QUOTE US CORRECTLY, PLEASE.

The Prohibition Star copies our article of week before last, replying to certain questions asked by T. W. Bryant, and makes much confusion in the sense by leaving out part of a sentence in one place and changing a word in another. We said: "We find no such power delegated to Congress in the constitution, and, as the powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively or to the people," we conclude that the power to prohibit the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors is one of the reserved rights or powers of the states.

The Roseburg Review opposes the adoption of the constitutional amendment changing the time of holding our elections from June to November. It thinks that state and county officers should be elected on state and county issues and not on national issues, as they would largely be if they were elected at the same time that a President is. The Democrat believes the Review is right. There is but one single argument in favor of the change—that, once in four years the expense of holding an election will be saved. While every reasonable change should be made that would save expense to the people, yet the real welfare of the state and counties in securing the election of competent and honest officials should not be overlooked.

The Telegram says: "For the past three years the course of the Democratic press of this country toward the organization of the Grand Army of the Republic has been one of constant abuse and vilification." We have never known of a more deliberate and brazen-faced falsehood in all our lives. No one who is conversant with the course of the Democratic press for the last three years towards the Grand Army, and who has any spark left of regard for the truth, would make such a statement. This lie of the Telegram was conceived in sin and brought forth in iniquity, and its author is justly entitled to be classed with those "who trust in vanity and speak lies."

A dispatch from Utica, New York, says that a drive through the hop regions south of that city shows the crop to be in a fair condition, as far as it goes. The reduction in acreage amounts to fully one-third. Contrary to expectations, the vines have done fairly well and now give indications of about half a crop. Several growers have contracted their yield at 20 cents a pound. The yield will be less than half that of 1885. Prices promise to be 20 cents or better, and some think they will reach 30 or 35 cents. The yield for the state is estimated at 50,000 bales.

Latest crop reports show that the winter wheat yield in the different states, is as follows: Fifteen counties in Illinois, 12 1/2 bushels; thirteen Wisconsin counties, 12 bushels; twenty-three Michigan counties, 14 bushels; twelve Indiana counties, 12 1/2 bushels; ten Ohio counties, 14 1/2 bushels. LaRue county, Kentucky, reports the yield at 90 per cent of an average Webster county, 90 per cent, and others to bushels. Eleven Missouri counties, 30 bushels, and eleven Kansas counties, 10 bushels.

The United labor party in New York is showing signs of a collapse, according to the papers of that city. The socialists have succeeded in getting the control in many of the districts, and finding themselves strong are insisting on the adoption of their peculiar views. This frightens the more conservative element among the laboring element, and they are quietly dropping back into the old party lines, so that it seems probable that by election time the new party will be in entire control of the socialists.

In the cattle grazing counties of Central Illinois, there is considerable suffering among stock. Water has almost entirely gone out and grass has in many places disappeared. Farmers are shipping their cattle to market before they are ready, in order to keep them from starving, while others are feeding green corn in lieu of grass. This will be a bad year for the cattle men.

In at least a half dozen Republican papers we have seen the statement made that if St. John should come to Oregon to publicly advocate the adoption of the prohibitory amendment he would injure the cause very much. These papers make this statement as though they regretted to see the prohibitory cause thus injured, and yet nearly all these papers are opposing the amendment. Can any one explain this inconsistency?

The Portland News announces that the Plumed Knight of Maine, the man, who in his checkered life, has seen "so many channels in which he could make himself useful," is the choice of that paper for President. Democrats would heartily welcome his nomination. They lapped him before and feel more than able to do it again.

Gov. Penneyer has received from Bancroft, Whitney & Co., publishers of San Francisco, an advance copy of Hill's Annotated Code, which is required by law to inspect and approve before it shall be recognized as the statute of the state. It is in two volumes and contains 1840 pages.

The New York World by its very foolish warfare upon the administration is working itself into the same attitude of the Sea occupied at the time of the Chicago convention. Let Democrats beware of the silly course of the World.

If protection is a good thing for the country, we have too little of it. If it is a bad thing, we have too much of it.

PARTISAN BIAS. For unadmitted, partisan political bias commends us of one of those papers that makes a great pretense of being independent. The Ashland Tidings taking a circular sent out by Harvey Flak & Sons, bankers of New York, says: "The treasury department of the present administration issues monthly bulletins assuring the people that 'the national debt has been reduced some eight or ten millions during the past month,' while in fact the debt has not been reduced at all." What is strange about this matter is that the treasury department of past Republican administrations for years did the very same thing without a single criticism from the Tidings. And why did not the Tidings criticize that is a Republican administration which it so freely criticizes in a Democratic administration? Simply because that paper is a Republican paper, in fact, and it refrains from doing any damage or injury to that party. That's all.

GOOD SENSE. The National Veteran's Association, lately held a meeting at Des Moines, Iowa, at which they passed resolutions repudiating utterances of certain members of the G. A. R. in connection with the proposed visit of the President to St. Louis. The resolution commenting on the President's veto of the Pension bill, condemns the efforts of those who seek to make use of the rebel flag episode to rekindle the flames of sectional hate and contention as unmanly, unpatriotic and meriting the contempt of intelligent men. The resolution also compliments General Black's administration of the Pension Office. Charles Whitehead, chairman of the committee that presented these resolutions to the Association, sent copies of them to the President, through Gen. Rosecrans, and assures the President that they represent the sentiment of at least 10,000 ex-Union soldiers of Iowa. The effort to use the G. A. R. as a Republican machine against the President is proving a miserable failure.

BRITISH AGGRESSIONS. For some time Canadian authorities have been seizing American fishing vessels for fishing, as Canadian's assert, in Canadian waters. England stands at the back of Canada. Now, the United States authorities have been capturing British vessels for catching seals in forbidden waters near Alaska. "Tit for tat." Johnny Bull should not forget her foolish policy that led to the war of 1812, in which the flower of the British Army was routed by Gen. Jackson at New Orleans. The spirit of Jackson calls aloud to the patriotism of the American people, and the wearer of the blue and the wearer of the gray with unalloyed earnestness yearn to exemplify their common devotion to a common country by standing side by side to resist the aggressions of Great Britain.

REPUBLICAN VIEW. The Ashland Tidings, in speaking of the surplus in the treasury of the United States, says: "Reduction of the revenue is proposed as one plan, but if it cannot be accomplished except by removing the tax from tobacco and spirits, while the necessities of life are still held under the existing taxes then the better sentiment of all parties will favor the continuation of the large income and the disposal of the surplus by liberal appropriations for solid public improvements." We agree. If a reduction is to be made let it upon the necessities of life, such as woolen and cotton goods, crockery, medicines and other things that the poor must have. But let the tax remain on luxuries, such as whisky, tobacco and other things not essential to the comfort of all persons.

SETTLED. "There is one little thing the people of Albany will inaugurate a serious quarrel against in the future unless it is remedied, which is nothing more than the present Postoffice hours on Sunday."

There, now, that settles it. The Postmaster who delivers mail and the people who receive it will take note of this.

It is a curious fact that the only men who know just how a newspaper should be conducted are generally engaged in some other business.

The Democratic majority in Kentucky will be near 20,000.

The prohibitory amendment in Texas was beaten by over 100,000.

Physicians Have Found Out. That a contaminating and foreign element in the blood, developed by indigestion, is the cause of rheumatism. This settles upon the sensitive subcutaneous covering of the muscles and ligaments of the joints, causing constant and shifting pain, and aggregating as a calcareous, chalky deposit which produces stiffness and distortion of the joints. No fact which experience has demonstrated in regard to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has stronger evidence to support than this, namely, that this medicine of comprehensive uses checks the formidable and serious disease, not in its late, positively established stage, but in its early stages, before it is used to arrest it, since the medicine contains only salutary ingredients. It is also a signal remedy for malarial fevers, constipation, dyspepsia, kidney and bladder troubles, debility, and kindred disorders. See that you get the genuine.
