JUDGE WILLIAMS' SPEECH.

A fair sized audience collected at the Court House Monday night to hear Judge Williams. He was introduced by Mr. C. E. Wolverten, and launched into his subject at once. For a quarter of an hour he made war upon Cleveland and his administration, and this was the burden of his song: Cleveland vetoed the river and harbor bill. This amounted to almost a crime in the Judge's eyes, and all this in the face of the fact that the last republican president had been guilty of doing the same thing, and, if our memory serves us right, Grant did the same thing at the very time when Williams occupied a seat in the cabinet. Another matter that seemed to fearfully shake up and disturb the Judge was the fact that over 40,000 republicans holding federal appointments at the time Cleveland went into office had given way to democrats, who now fill the same places. This was truly fearful to contemplate. The Judge's statement that a large majority of these faithful adherents of his party had been removed to make way for democrats was far from the truth. Not one in four had been removed at all, and those that were removed were displaced because of incompetency, neglect of duty, etc. The terms of nearly all had expired before their places were filled. Very few removals were made, in fact, as is clearly seen here in Oregon. Were any of the postmasters at the following places removed by Cleveland, to-wit, Portland, East Portland, Astoria, Oregon City, Salem, Albany, Eugene City, Roseburg, Jacksonville, Ashland, Corvallis, Dalles, Pendleton or Baker City? Not one. Some of the republican appointees are still serving. So it has been all over the country. The Judge damaged his case very much by these misrepresentations. The Judge declared that many had been appointed to office from the South with nothing else to recommend them except the fact that they had borne arms against the government, when in fact he knew that no man had been appointed for that reason. The Judge declared that he had no desire or intention to revive the memories of the late war, (flout the bloody shirt), yet he put in about 15 minutes solid work in berating the "brigades of the South," including Justice Lamar, whom he evidently hates with a "whole lot" of venom. During all the time he was denouncing Lamar and Fuller as traitors, every one present could see a vein of intense bitterness running through all his remarks. Those who had not forgotten a little incident in the Judge's history could easily trace its cause. When Grant was president, for some cause which the country never comprehended, he appointed Justice Williams to the very office to which Lamar and Fuller had been appointed. No sooner had the appointment been announced than "Rome began to howl!" all over the country, and such was the strength and character of the opposition among both republicans and democrats that the president was compelled to withdraw the nomination, as it was evident that the Senate would reject it. Comparing this with the fact that a republican Senate confirmed Lamar and will soon confirm Fuller, and we have the cause of the Judge's disposition to wave the "bloody garment." The Judge then discussed the Mill's bill and placed his opposition to it upon the ground that it was sectional and partisan, removing tariff from Northern commodities and leaving all on Southern commodities. In order to prove that it was sectional, he had to resort to subterfuge and open misrepresentation. He said the Mill's bill removed all the six millions a year from wool and left the fifty-eight millions on sugar. The Mill's bill makes reduction of $11,000,000 on sugar, but the Judge says it makes none. He attempts to deceive the people about the matter, and also attempted to do the same when he said no reduction had been made on rice, when all know who have read it that it makes a material reduction on rice. His fallacies about a protective tariff effecting higher wages for laboring men were so patent that they need no notice here. We give the Judge credit for stating explicitly that he favored the reduction of the surplus in the treasury by removing the fifty-eight millions' tax on sugar, putting that article on the free list, and removing the tax from tobacco, but this is so intensely partisan and sectional that it did no credit to the Judge's candor, in view of the fact that that was his main reason for opposing the Mill's bill. He asked the editor of the DEMOCRAT to explain why the Mill's bill removes all the six millions duty from wool and retains all the fifty-eight millions on sugar, and the Herald, through ignorance of the reason of the truth which it told, said the DEMOCRAT would not answer it. Of course, the DEMOCRAT, nor no one else, could be held to answer a proposition that is not true. The Mill's bill removes the $6,000,000 duty from wool and $11,000,000 on sugar, hence the speaker is entitled to no answer to a question false on its face. The Judge is getting old and seems to be dwelling in the political barbarisms of the past, vainly endeavoring to resist the enlightened progress of the present, and his speeches lack the force, clearness, fire and consistency that characterized those of former years.

THE CANDIDATES AT SCIO.

The candidates for county officers spoke at Scio yesterday. The discussion was opened by Judge Blackburn, who stated that if elected to the office of County Judge he would do his duty to the best of his ability. He was followed by Judge Whitney, who showed from figures taken from the record that no county is managed so carefully and economically as Linn has been. He showed that he had stood up in the interest of the tax payers, whose money he had to spend, and it was clear that the audience was clearly satisfied that the Judge made out a conclusive case. The vote the Judge will get there will show this to be true. He was very courteous to Judge Blackburn, his opponent. Judge Blackburn was equally courteous to Judge Whitney. These were followed in turn by O. H. Irvine, W. W. Richardson, republican candidates, and Jeff Myers and Mr. Morelock democratic candidates for the legislature, Mr. Denny and Mr. Goodman for the prohibitionists, also by Mr. Williams, republican, for School Superintendent, and Mr. Carl, democrat, for the same office. By the way we are informed that Mr. Carl floored his opponent in the discussion. The democrats of the "forks" are more harmonious this year than they have been for a long time. They will give a good account of themselves on the 4th of June. Every democrat we talked to while there seemed to appreciate the importance of doing their whole duty this presidential year.

HOW MEN DIE.

If we know all the methods of approach adopted by an enemy we are the better enabled to ward off the danger and postpone the moment when surrender becomes inevitable. In many instances the inherent strength of the body suffices to enable it to oppose the tendency toward death. Many however have lost these forces to such an extent that there is little or no help. In other cases a little aid to the weakened lungs will make all the difference between sudden death and many years of useful life. Upon the first symptoms of a Cough, Cold or any trouble of the Throat or Lungs, give that old and well-known remedy—Boschee's German Syrup, a careful trial. It will prove what thousands say it to be, the "benefactor of any home."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The number of Democratic state conventions that have declared for Grover Cleveland corresponds exactly with the number of states in which conventions have been held.

The Eugene Journal very pointedly condemns mud-slinging and other "salangy" conduct in political campaigns and then in the very same article calls Governor Penney a "free-trade crank." The Journal very innocently means that no one shall throw mud at it or its political associates, but it shall have liberty to use all the mud it chooses.

Day by day the cheering news reaches us from various parts of the county that democrats are closing up the lines and will march on to complete victory on the 4th of June. This is presidential year, and the bright outlook for President Cleveland's re-election inspires democrats everywhere to stand together in solid phalanx to elect the whole county ticket.

Say, now, are Swift and Tanner republican emissaries sent here by the leaders of that party to interfere in the politics of this state? Isn't this outside interference an insult to the republican voters of this state? Are they authorized to come here to tell republican voters how to vote? Honor bright, now, right up to the mark.

Let every democratic voter in the city turn out to hear Hon. Geo. H. Williams on next Monday evening. He is a man of ability and will present the republican side of the tariff with both skill and ingenuity. Democrats will always be the gainer where this question is discussed coolly, deliberately and with candor.

From every republican paper in Southern Oregon we find indubitable proof that Col. Irish's speeches have had telling effect on the minds of the voters in that region. Every republican exchange has its editorial columns filled with long and elaborate articles to break the effect of Mr. Irish's speeches. "Truth crushed to earth will rise again."

The democrat who bolts his ticket this year will be called a bolter two years from now. In these days when republican papers like the Oregonian are lashing their voters into line and demanding that they shall vote the "straight ticket," it would be well for every democrat in Linn county to carefully consider what his duties are in the premises.

While Mr. Blyeu was making his speech Saturday at Brownsville, urging voters to vote for Mr. Gearin for Congress, he asked what Mr. Hermann had done to entitle him to the vote of the people again. He paused a moment and then asked any republican present to tell what Mr. Hermann had done. He paused again when an old republican answered "he drew his salary."

There is a significant sentiment growing up among voters all over the state, and taking deep hold in the minds of many. It is that Oregon ought to be represented in Congress by both parties and for this reason many republicans consider very favorably the business proposition of sending Mr. Gearin to Congress. It is believed that Oregon would fare much better if both parties were represented. As a matter of business and legislative interest many republicans will vote for Mr. Gearin.

Every true democrat should lay aside all personal dislikes concerning candidates and labor to promote the union of democratic sentiment and democratic action. Each democrat, as a member of the great democratic partnership, owes something to every candidate member of the party. A certain candidate may not suit you, but he may be exactly the chaf of hundreds of democrats who have equal rights and privileges in the party with you. Vote as a democrat this presidential year.

Mr. Conser, republican candidate for Sheriff, we understand is going round advising republican voters to vote the straight ticket and not scratch a single man from Congress to Coroner, and at the same time soliciting democrats to vote for him. He would thus make too's of these democratic voters, and two years from now would denounce these democrats as bolters. Democrats beware of the honied words of these enemies who try to slip into office on your votes. If any of these republican candidates should by hook or crook be elected, they will throw their hats into your faces and crow over the way they hoodwinked you.

The Eastern Oregon Scout, an independent paper, has this to say: "During the last month we have talked with many republicans who are in favor of low tariff. Such naturally belong to the opposite party and should vote the democratic ticket. Dolph, Mitchell and Hermann and the rest of the republican members of Congress, with but few exceptions, vote for the retention of the present high protective tariff, while the democratic members, with few exceptions, are in favor of substantial reductions. A vote for Hermann or the republican legislative ticket is a vote for high tariff. No other issue is before the people and men should be frank and honest in voting upon the question."

Now I am free from all pain and soreness, and am able to do all my own household work. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters for having renewed my youth, and removed completely all disease and pain."
