CLARKSON'S FOUL MOUTH.

The Pendleton Tribune publishes a state ment made by first assistant Postmas'er General Clarkson, in which he states that 16,000 and others that he has made 14,000 changes in the postoffices since the begin-ning of this administration, but he says neither is correct, as the changes number 15,000. This is the way this administration is carrying out its pledges of civil in session here. service reform, as well as these made by Harrison in his letter of acceptance. Clarkson hints that those turned out were largely because the democratic postmasters were keeping the offices in grogshops. It takes a very foul mouth and depraved heart to make such a foolish charge, but Clarkson is fully equal to the occasion. We are surprised that the Tribune should publish such stuff approvingly. While we are not fully advised as to the matter, yet we have no hesitation in saying that the office in a grogshop, and Clarkson Frank Granahl, of Spokane. simply writes himself down as an ass by saying such things.
