From our regular correspondent. WASHINGTON, Dec. 30, 1889.

General Hancock uttered a great truth, when he said a few days after he was nominated for the Presidency, "the tariff is a local issue."

If evidence had been necessary to prove this statement it has been supplied in large quantities by the statements made to the House committee on Ways and Means in the hearing now going on upon the proposed new tariff bill which the republicans of that committee are engaged in preparing.

For instance, the New England manufacturers say that unless they are given free coal and free iron they will shortly be ruined, while the iron and coal people of Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia and Ohio, to say nothing of others, stoutly maintain that unless the present tariff on coal and iron is kept where it is, or raised, they will be ruined, and will have to abandon their mines.

When Gen. Hancock called the tariff a local issue the smart-alecks thought it was because he was ignorant of the subject, but since then many able men, after years of study, have arrived at exactly the same conclusion, because there is no other logical conclusion.

No tariff bill that has been gotten up or ever will be, will give satisfaction to the entire country. It is simply impossible because the interests of one section are always directly opposed to those of another section.

Mr. Harrison returned to the White House late Saturday night from a duck-hunting expedition down the Potomac and James river. He also visited Lower Brandon on James, which was the home of his fathers several generations ago and which is still owned by another branch and iron in the numerous Harrison family.

He came through Richmond, Virginia, where he was given a very cordial reception. The decorations given the late S. S. Cox by the Sultan of Turkey are on exhibition at the National Museum in this city and are attracting much attention.

According to royal etiquette they are to be returned to the Sultan in a short time. The order of the Emperor of the latest warship in the world has been formally accepted by the navy department, and will be placed in commission as soon as she can be made ready.

It is denied at the navy department that our squadron was sent to Lisbon to compete Portugal to comply with certain demands made by the State department, as was stated in a New York paper last Friday.

Look out for squalls early in January. Corporal Tanner has accepted an invitation from the Butler club of Boston, to make a speech on the Jackson anniversary January 8.

Now that everybody regards it as certain that the House will pass the resolution instructing the committee on Reform in the Civil Service to investigate the various charges made against the Commissioner, the Commissioners have begun telling folks how glad they are, and how much they court the strictest investigation. Let them wait until the investigation is ended and then tell the people how they feel.

Representative Moore of Texas, who is a member of the House committee on elections, thinks the large number of contested elections from the South is the direct result of a republican conspiracy to unseat every democrat to give them a good working majority. His only hope is that the chairman of the election committee will be fall enough to put a stop to the revolutionary program. A rather slim hope.

Senator Voorhees is back from Ohio, where he has been conducting the defence in a sensational murder trial. Mr. Clark is running the Postoffice department while Mr. Wamamaker is in Philadelphia straightening up the years business and getting things in shape for the coming year in his big store.
