PRIMARY ELECTION LAW.

The primary election law passed by the legislature and now awaiting the approval of the governor is for the regulation and control of primary elections held by any political party and applies to incorporated towns and cities of 2500 population or more. It provides that the managing committee, (county central committee,) of the party calling the primary election shall, not less than seven days before the day of such election, cause a notice to be published in some newspaper of general circulation published in the city, signed by the secretary of the committee, stating the purpose of such election, the date when it will be held, the places where polls will be opened and during what hours they will be open for the reception of votes, and the number of delegates to be elected in each precinct or ward. Three judges, legal voters and householders of their respective precincts or wards, shall be named in the notice. The judges must appoint two clerks who must be legal voters of the precinct in which they act as clerks. These clerks keep poll books showing name and residence of every person who votes as well as those whose votes are rejected. The judges and clerks take an oath of office and conduct the election the same generally as similar officers do at general elections. At the close of the election they canvas the vote and certify up the poll books one of which is returned to the county clerk and the other delivered to the county central committee. If judges and clerks shall receive and record votes knowing they are not legal they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine of not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than two nor more than six months or both. The penalty is the same for voting illegally, bribing one to vote, hiring him not to vote, tampering with a ballot box etc. The laws of the state governing the conduct of persons about polling places shall apply to primaries as well.

POPULAR ELECTION OF SENATORS.

The legislature of Indiana has adopted a resolution asking congress to submit a constitutional amendment providing for the election of United States Senators by popular ballot. This proposition has been favored by quite a number of political conventions, but the present is the first legislative indorsement, so far as we are aware.

The one particular in which the constitution of the United States cannot be amended is "that no state, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the senate" (article 5); and the senate here meant is that for which the constitution provides in saying that "the senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, chosen by the legislature thereof;" so that, read together, the fundamental law is that no state shall, without its consent, be deprived of its equal suffrage in a senate elected by the state legislature. In the convention which framed the constitution it was three times moved that the senators be chosen by a popular vote and three times that proposition was defeated, once by nine states to two, once by ten to one, and the third time unanimously. Any one state could defeat such an amendment as that now suggested. Each is entitled to that equality which the constitution prescribes in the kind of senate which it prescribes, and all the other states combined cannot deprive her of it.—New York World.

The World is evidently in error in this matter. Section 3, article one, says: "The senate of the United States shall be composed of senators from each state, elected by the legislatures thereof." Is it not within the power of three fourths of the states to amend this by striking out the words "legislatures" and insert the words "legal voters," so as to make it read, "elected by the legal voters thereof?" This would not be depriving any state "of its equal suffrage in the senate." This would only change the manner of electing senators, and it is certainly within the powers of the states to do so.

The Railway Age says: "The railway construction the past year has only been exceeded seven times during the past twenty years, namely, in '71, '80, '81, '82, '83, '86, '87, '88, and it was exceeded by the record of three of those years, '80, '83, '88. The average construction for the past twenty years has been 5700 miles annually. The year just closed will increase the total mileage of the country to more than 167,000 miles.

At the Bath (Me) City Hall, Thursday, Edward Brown of Bath regained the world's championship for endurance in club swinging, held by him for five years, but recently won by Homer Crawford, by swinging nine-pound clubs six hours forty-one minutes, or ten minutes longer than Crawford, who used eight-pound ten-ounce clubs. Brown averaged sixty-five full swings to the minute.

When a senator elect from the state of Kansas, and that senator elect the successor of the hydrophobic Ingalls, says "I would like to see the McKinly bill torn to pieces," and adds, "The race issue is for the southern people to settle among themselves," it is time for the president to issue a proclamation setting aside some happy day for National thanksgiving. IN UNITY.

A dinner was recently given by Col. Brown of New York City to which Gov. Hill and Ex-president Cleveland were invited. Every one was curious to know what would be the bearing of these two great leaders towards each other. No arrangements had been made for any speaking, but as the repast was finished it was noticed that a hurried consultation was being held between Cleveland and others at his end of the table. Shortly a call was made for the Ex-president.

Mr Cleveland did not appear at the least disconcerted when he arose to speak. He was upon his feet almost before Mr Coudert had resumed his seat. His remarks were delivered in a forcible manner, and the guests unite in saying that his praise of Gov. Hill was given with much feeling and sincerity. According to several of the prominent guests, Mr Cleveland spoke as follows:

"It is with much pleasure that I accepted the invitation to be present here this evening. And while appreciating the honor of attending this banquet, you will pardon me for referring to my first introduction to the Manhattan Club, which occurred over eight years ago. I had then just been to discharge the untried duties and unknown responsibilities of the office of Governor of this state. The Manhattan tendered me a reception at the old club house, corner Fifteenth street and Fifth avenue. I had the good fortune to meet on that occasion distinguished members of the democratic party from nearly every state in the union. They gave me good words of cheer and encouragement and I entered upon the duties of an honorable and exalted office buoyed up with the kind words and wishes of those whose acquaintance I had formed at that reception.

"Since then I have passed through devious and crooked paths, through Albany and Washington, until I now find myself occupying the highest position vouchsafed to any individual in this broad land, namely, the station of a private citizen."

After thanking the host, Col. Brown, for being responsible for his presence at such an elegant banquet and auspicious gathering, Mr Cleveland then continued about as follows:

"Before concluding my remarks I desire to propose the health of a distinguished citizen of this state who is present; one who has discharged the responsible duties of Governor of the commonwealth to the satisfaction of the people; one who has been rewarded for his signal fidelity to public interests by an election to the high office of senator in the congress of the United States. I propose the health of the Hon David B Hill."

It was an entire surprise to Gov. Hill. He was not taken aback, however, but immediately arose and returned the compliment. His reply, as well as several of the guests could remember it, was as follows:

"I must appologize to our host and to you gentlemen for having been late. My coming here is a fitting end to my evening's duty, for in the early part of it I found myself in the Twenty-second Regiment Armory, and now I come here and find myself in the company of such old soldiers as Col. Brown and Lieu.-Gov. Jones. I am indeed very glad to be here the guest of Col. Brown, who is one of our staunch democrats and a royal entertainer as well.

"In reply to Mr Cleveland's kind words, I can only say that my highest ambition is to serve the people in the high office to which I have been elected in such a manner as to merit the same encomiums as bestowed upon Mr Cleveland for his administration of the exalted office he held for four years. I hope I may also follow the example of that gentleman, at least to the extent of ultimately becoming a member of the Manhattan Club."

The Governor then proposed the health of Mr Cleveland.

"After the guests had arisen from the table," said one of the prominent banqueters yesterday, "Mr Cleveland and Gov. Hill were surrounded by those who were in their immediate vicinity. In a few minutes the ex-President and Senator-elect approached each other. The greeting was most cordial, and they held a long conversation."

THE FORKS AGAINST DIVISION.

Five hundred and eighty voters and tax payers in the Forks of the Santiam have signed a remonstrance against the creation of a new county. This makes a large majority of the voters and tax payers of the proposed county. Many of those who signed the petition say they did so without consideration and now after considering the matter deliberately say they are opposed to division.

The new senator from Kansas is not in any way what is known as a society man. He has seldom appeared at public gatherings in Topeka, and was never known to go to the theater or to wear evening dress. Like Mr Ingalls, he is frequently attired in a Prince Albert coat, but he leaves it unbuttoned, and wears a soft hat of liberal dimensions. He carries a cane, and his beard is not so long or so prominent as it has been represented in pictures. His daughter, Miss Nellie Peffer, is often seen in the society of the Kansas capital.

The oxide of lead found in the bread of the Chicago baker has been traced to the stenciling of the name of the miller on the bag containing the flour from which the bread was made, the color having been put on so heavily that it soaked through the cloth.

Congressman Washington C Whitthorne, of Tennessee, ends his twenty years of continuous service, including a year in the senate, on the 4th of March and retires to private life. He is sixty-six years old and has always enjoyed the respect and confidence of his party.

The whole country seems to have plunged into the grand work of finding some suitable occupation for the late Senator Ingalls. But Mr Ingalls seems to be doing well enough for the present in the role of the awful example.

SALEM.

SALEM, Feb. 7, 1891.

Editors Democrat:

Eleven more days for "nubs". Now for corners. Joe Simon tacked the "primary rider" on to the Australian ballot bill, that compelled his enemies to give him a special primary law before he would recant. Now his enemies claim this their victory. What will they not claim when thus whipped? It takes all the grand army of political manipulators of Portland to fight Simon and then they cannot capture him. The Lotan faction must soon reduce Joseph or they will land into the darkest Egypt together.

The effort of Geo. Collins, Jasper Minto and Company to displace the present Superintendent Dowing, of the penitentiary, is still on hand. If the question is left between the two men, (Collins and Dowinng,) to the people of Salem, I am told by republicans that Collins would not get a respectable vote. Both men are well known here. The scheme is regarded as an outrage and it will meet with no favor among those members who will be just regardless of party. It will not carry. Veatch's bill to repeal Railroad Commission Act, came within two votes of passing. He can depend on one more and if he gets another he will have votes enough to wipe out the expensive luxury. It is believed that the House will warm it to a crisp if it gets a crack at the law. One more vote in the senate and the "dog will be dead."

Holme's humane bill to prevent the blind, deaf mutes, scrofulous, etc,—persons marrying failed to pass. This is horrible. Such a bill should become a law.

Many road bills have passed and many more will become laws. In some there are personal jobs with some benefits to the public. These roads all lead to points for the aid of travel and traffic. Some will reach into timber lands and over $100,000 will go from the taxable property of the state to pay for the roads. The "five per cent fund" from which these roads were to be built is not mentioned in the bills. Nor is it intended to use that fund for these roads? It will be reserved for future schemes.

In all this sudden boom for more roads where are the timber lands and what is to become of them? It is a leading fact that the great underlying wealth of Oregon is in her forests. The timber lands of our state will afford employment for a great portion of our people for ages to come. These forests are necessary to protect our people from the ravages of disease and sudden and damaging changes of climate. Wherever the world is habitable there we will find forests. Our timber lands protect our fruit trees and give a more equitable temperature of climate for the production of fruits, cereals and vegetables. If protected, though in time, culled out, trees will be still growing and perpetuating their numerical strength. In short, the wealth, health, and prospects of our people all hang upon the preservation of our forests, whether in valleys or upon the mountains. And this legislature will pass without a thought having been expended upon this important subject—the preservation of our timber.

Let the summer months come and with them the atmosphere tainted with the heat and smoke of forest fires the result of the purpose or criminal carelessness of some bad man, then we will recall once more, and too often, the almost criminal neglect on our part in not, by law, putting a stop to this annual devastation of our forests. The legislator who will lay aside his trifles, and pass a bill for the protection of our forests, will prove himself to be the greatest benefactor among law makers. Are we to wait until such a man is born? At an early date in her history England saw where her wealth and health lay and she created her "Commission of woods and forests." The world knows the result. Every state should have a commission. And when it is too late, then all that can be said will be "I told you so.".

The new assessment law will be riddled about Tuesday. To follow all precedents, as soon as it comes up, it will be in order to indefinitely postpone the bill. The state has first and last paid out about $10,000 for these new bills, and all have gone in the one direction. Is there any good reason why this should not be thus insanely disposed of.

What is the matter with Scio? Does she like her namesake really want to become an island, "off the coast" of old Linn —all by herself? Contention should be a warning to Scio. Old Scio was unfortunate in her wars. In the Greek revolution her inhabitants rose against the Turks, but she lost in two months 25,000 Sciotes without distinction of age or sex; these were put to the sword, 45,000 were sold into slavery, and 15,000 sought safety in other parts of Greece. The former christian population of nearly 104,000 was reduced to 2,000. And old Scio was not trying to divide the county either. All she wanted was to drive out the Turks. From a population of 162,000 she was reduced to less than 20,000. Old Scio had only 508 sq. m. From the lesson old Scio gives us we are taught that strength lies in the greater number, the larger it is, the easier the burden is carried and weight of taxation lighter on the purse strings. The larger the territory, the greater are the facilities for supporting a large population —the larger the population the greater number of warriors may be had. We see from this bit of history that old Scio had pluck but she did not have the territory nor the warriors to make a successful fighting people. Moral—Don't get mad before you are able to back your belligerency with a result that will not impoverish the people in maintaining hostilities. It is not a question of Turks or christians now, "but will it pay."

I have read with tearful pleasure Frank Carpenter's bill of receipts of the wives of Presidents, Senators, etc., how to fry tripe on Friday etc., but at our boarding house I was completely captured when my plate of coddsh, family style, came to me. The fish was covered with strawberry bloom now so prevalent in the valley. A pie was handed to me as white as Mt. Hood in winter. I pretended to ask what it was. It was "cream de pumpkin." It is made a pumpkin pie then about an inch of whipped cream covers it. Eat with grated cheese. These dishes are "poems" If one has no pumpkins use carrots.

We will acknowledge that Oakville is ahead of us on the prunes, and now Amicus, we doubt your being acquainted with this Mr Cummings. You must remember that there is more than one Mr Cummings, and if you are acquainted with this one you are badly mistaken about him being a Missourian. We did not claim he was an Illinoisian, nor we won't acknowledge that he is a Missourian, for this Mr Cummings was born in New Hampshire, although he has lived in Illinois and Missouri both, and now Amicus, we would advise you to not hint to loud or we may guess who you are.

We had the pleasure of a call from Mr Thompson, a young man deeply interested in the welfare of his fellow-man. Mr T. had the papers of remonstrance in regard to the division of Linn county. When with us he was having good success in securing signers against the division. It looks to us like one and every man could see what is best for his own interest and for the interest of others, instead of thinking it would be better to have our county divided.

What has become of the Force bill; has it gone to the same place our new county has?

Candidates for the legislature in the future will have some hard questions to solve. To favor a division would be sure death, and to oppose will cripple or kill, so it will be hard to run for office in Linn county hereafter. There is an element in this part which will not down, and, are going to have a new county up this way. We had no thought of a division up here until the Forks showed their hand, then we all thought we saw our chance and got in tolerable good shape considering our limited time. We think up here that if the county is to be divided here is the place for division, and shall press the matter now that we have got a start.

Disorders that affect the Kidneys.

Are among the most formidable known. Diabetes, Bright's disease, gravel and other complaints of the urinary organs are not ordinarily cured in severe cases, but they may be averted by timely meditation. A useful stimulant of the urinary glands has ever been found in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which not only affords the requisite stimulus when they become inactive, but increases their vigor and secretive power. By increasing the activity of the kidneys and bladder, this medicine has the additional effect of expelling from the blood impurities which it is the peculiar office of these organs to eliminate and pass off. The Bitters is also a purifier and strengthener of the bowels, an invigorator of the stomach, and a matchless remedy for biliousness and fever and ague. It counteracts a tendency to premature decay, and sustains and comforts the aged and infirm.

A SCARED EDITOR.

A rugged farmer stalked into the sanctum with a big whip under his arm.

"Be you the editor?" "I am," was the half apprehensive reply.

"Here's two dollars—send me your paper, for life," he said.

"You see," he went on, "our daughter was sick and like to die; she drooped and grew weak and pale, had headaches, no appetite, back ached, hands and feet like ice, couldn't sleep, hacked with cough, and we thought she had consumption. No medicine helped her until she tried that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription mentioned in your paper, when she began to mend in no time and is now well and handsome as a rose—put me down as a life subscriber."

Now the editor is looking for another scare. The medicine has cured thousands afflicted as was the farmer's daughter, restoring the female functions to healthy action, and removing the obstructions and suppressions which caused her trouble. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or price ($1.00) refunded. It's a legitimate medicine, not a beverage. Pendleton Excited.

PENDLETON, Feb, 10.—After a delay of ten years the long expected procamation for opening that grand body of land known as the Umatilla Indian reservation was received yesterday, setting the date of sale for April 1. The land to be sold involves rich farming, grazing and timber adjoining the city of Pendleton, Oregon, comprising 140,000 acres. It sells at public auction to actual settlers only. There is tremendous excitement. Cannons are booming, fireworks illuminating the heavens, brass bands playing, torchlight processions mass meetings and speeches in progress. The Indians join in the festivities

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Frank Warde, aged 21, who yesterday morning robbed Father Hayden, of Toronta, of a gold watch, was sentenced today to state prison for five years. Warde's crime was an instance of speedy justice. He was arrested for the crime yesterday afternoon, had a hearing in the police court this morning, a little later the grand jury indicted him, and in the afternoon the prisoner pleaded guilty in the court of general sessions, and in a few minutes was on his way to state prison.

Failing's [illegible]

OLYMPHIA Feb 10.—As predicted in these dispatches last night, the senate concurred relative to the indorsement of Hon Henry Failing, of Portland, for secretary of the treasury, which was passed without a dissenting voice. The matter came up in the senate in the concurrent resolution quoted last night. It was then sent to the house, where the following petition, signed by the leading bankers and business men of Spokane Falls, was added to it, addressed to the senators and rebresentatives from Spokane county at Olymphia. We respectfully request that you offer and urge the passage of a joint resolution of the Washington legislature favoring the appointment of Hon Henry Failing, of Oregon, for secretary of the treasury.

A Den of Vice.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb 11.—About 150 children, in various stages of intoxication, were discovered early this morning in the Sarpare wine cellar, a resort frequented by the low-class Italian and Spanish residents of this city, and located in the Italian quarter. The children were dancing to the music of a wheezy old accordean played by a 13-year old boy, and after each tune each boy engaged in dancing was compelled to buy a glass of wine for his girl or he would be debarred the privilege of the floor. How long the place has been running is not known.

A Peculiar Case

GRANTS PASS, Feb 11.—Miss Ollie Lindsay the daughter of pioneers of this county, was taken suddenly ill Saturday afternoon and pronounced dead Monday by physicians. The funeral took place in the Methodist Church South this afternoon. At the close of the service, when the friends were passing around the coffin to take the farewell glance, someone noticed that her cheeks were flushed, and the body was taken back home and all known means of resuscitation are being used. Many are confident that she is only in a trance, as a consequence of congestion of the brain.

Destitution

FARGO, N D, Feb 10.—At a meeting of the Board of Trade yesterday a communication was presented from the county commissioners of McIntosh county, appealing for aid for the destitute there. It was represented that 150 families in that county are in need of immediate assistance in the way of fooe, to prevent absolute suffering and starvation.

WEST NANTICOKE, Pa, Feb 9.—The three miners who were hemmed in by water and supposed to be drowned in No 3 colliery of the Susquehanna Coal Company last Wednesday afternoon, were rescued alive this morning. They could not have lived much longer, on account of the scarcity of air. The names of the men are John W Riner, William Cragle and Michael Shelank.

Cases Transferred

SALEM, Feb 9—In the circuit court petitions and bonds have been filed for the removal of most of the Lake Labish damage suits to the United States court far trial. Among them were suits brought by Shroat, Miller, Page, Penjilly, Bartholomew, the two H mmells and the two Magnusons. This will take the cases before Judge Deady.

A Big Swindle.

OCEANSIDE, Cal, Feb 9—A story has been floating about that a passenger on the north bound train was robbed at this point of $25000 in cash, anb a $6000 draft. It now seems to be W R Howard, a friend of Tom Fitch, and three more prominent San Diego business men were taken in by two gold brick swindlers.

Blizzarding.

CHEYENNE, Feb 9.—A terrible blizzard has been raging throughout tais vicinity for the last twenty-four hours Stockmen are apprehensive of severe losses of cattle, and no west-bound trains reached Cheyenne yesterday over the Union Pacific. A Burlington relief train was sent out to the fast mail and overland flyer, stuck in the snow forty miles east of here

A Damage Suit.

PENDLETON, Feb 9.—The jury in the case of Mrs Lowry vs. O & W T, railway gave the plaintiff judgment for $600, an as the statutes provide that when damages result in such cases abatement of nuisance causing them must fallow, her attorney, Judge William Ramsey, moved that an order be made requiring the sheriff to pull up and remove that portion of the side track in front of Mrs Lowry's premises.

Columbia Shipping.

ASTORIA, Feb 8—Business on the bar was lively today. Ten vessels, with a registered tonnage of over 10,000 tons, crossed in and out, carrying as cargoes over 15,000 tons of freight. The fleet Included four foreign bound wheat ships, four coasting steamers and two lumber schooners. Two of the grain fleet, the Scottish Glens and the Marion Ballentyne, are bound for Antwerp direct, and some betting has been indulged in as to which will reach the end of the 17,000 mile journey first.

A Dangerous Office.

LONDON, Feb 8.—A shocking suicide is reported from Galway, Ireland. The chief of police of that place killed himself with a revolver, owing to the fact that he was charged with having been concerned in the recent rows between the soldiers and the police, in which a number of persons were injured. It is a coincidence of interest that the former chief, preceeding the one who has just shot himself, ended his life by taking a dose of poison.

Another Candidate.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—The Herald's Washington special says: There is good ground for the belief that President Harrison is considering John F Swift, of California, in the treasury portfolio. Swift is one of the president's intimate friends.

ST PAUL, Feb 8.—A Pioneer Press correspondent at Pierre, says: The worst blizzard since 1888 has been raging here since last night with little prospect of cessation.
