

The Democrat.

The state of Massachusetts shows very considerable democratic gains as a result of the poll of the state. It is believed that Gov Russell will certainly be elected by five to ten thousand plurality, and that the vote for president will be close.

A vote for Weaver is a vote lost. Why should any man who has been a democrat throw his vote away by voting for a man who called him and all other democrats thieves, robbers, murderers etc. Vote for Cleveland the coming man.

Four ex-republican cabinet ministers are supporting Mr Cleveland in this campaign—Hugh McCulloch, Walter Q Gresham, Carl Schurz, and Wayne MacVeagh. Two of them, Messrs McCulloch and Gresham, are distinguished ex-citizens of Indiana. It is McKinley's own force bill, the billion-dollar and Harrisonism that is driving such men out of the g. o. p.

Dr. L. P. Mullins of Astoria, one of the most enthusiastic and able demagogues in Oregon, is accompanying Hon Geo No land, one of the democratic candidates for elector, in his campaign through the Willamette valley. Both are able speakers and the people will be well paid to turn out and hear them.—Portland Dispatch.

At the republican state convention at Fort Worth, Texas, an invocation was pronounced by a colored minister, who for the course of prayer requested the Lord to bless George Clarke, who was a candidate for governor. Thereupon Delegate Knox, of Navarro, rose and proposed to amend the prayer by including the name of Judge Nugent, another candidate.

Albert R. Leitch, professor of chemistry in Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, has announced the republican party and will henceforth support the cause of Democracy. In his letter Professor Leitch says the McKinley ticket is a palpable robbery.

Mr Blaine is to contribute an article on the "Political Issues of the Presidential Campaign" to the November number of the North American Review, which probably will not be issued in time to make a very extended impression on the campaign.

An Associated Press reporter showed Governor Cleveland a dispatch which had pronounced the present-generally to Governor Gray of Indiana, in case he was elected. After reading it carefully, he inquired the day of the month. On being told, he said the election was 21 days later and suggested that questions as to his cabinet were somewhat premature. He then advised the interviewer to call a clergyman. He made no more definite reply.

The Stamford, Conn. Record has removed the republican ticket from the head of its editorial columns, and announces that hereafter it will be independent-democratic in politics, and will support the candidates of the democratic party. It says it came to the conclusion that the masses advocated by the democratic party are for the best interests of the country.

Bernard H. Woodcock, an extensive manufacturer of furniture, one of the best known and most respected of Albany N. Y.'s business men, a veteran of the war and hitherto an influential republican, said yesterday: "I have always voted the republican ticket, but in November I shall vote for Cleveland and Stevenson. The republican party has become the party of monopoly."

The committee on ceremonies of the world's fair have received a letter from Gover Cleveland, stating that he would not be present at the ceremonies. It had intended to do so, but the reason for his absence is given in the following extract from his letter: "I may be over-enthusiastic and even morbid on the subject, but I cannot allow myself to take a political advantage over the opportunity afforded in the address which keeps President Harrison away from Chicago."

A dispatch from Des Moines, Iowa, published in Sunday's Oregonian says: "Mr. Leach of Kansas has been asked for a number of speeches in Iowa. R. G. Scott, chairman of the people's party state committee to vote telegraphed him that, if he published reports that he had advised the people to vote for Harrison were true, she need not come into the state."

It seems from this that Mr. Leach has been a secret agent for the republicans to secure votes for that party. That Mr. Leach has been in this movement for money seems to admit of no doubt.

A dispatch from New York city says: "The Business Men's Democratic Association announced today that Mr. Cleveland had accepted an invitation to review the parade of the association on October 29th, and to make a speech in Madison-square Garden in the evening. Mr. Mackay made the statement that the only objection that democrats urged against the force bill was that it would secure honest elections. This statement, though made with great deliberation and repeated, is without even the semblance of truth in it. Mr. Leach knew so at the time he made it. He never, in all the discussions in the United States, has ever been known to make a single statement that objection. He never heard any democrat in the house or anywhere else urge it. He never saw any democratic newspaper support it. He never knew of it anywhere except in his own imagination. He manufactured it out of whole cloth. His treatment of the tariff question was equally unfair. He urged that men are better fed and better clothed than England, and that when that country had a high protective tariff. They are much better fed and better clothed and have better wages now in that country than in Italy, France or Germany, all of which have high protective tariffs. So the fact that men are better fed now than formerly is no argument in favor of the tariff. In another place we shall notice what he had to say about public lands and pensions."

The United States supreme court by Chief Justice Fuller yesterday reaffirmed the judgment of the Michigan supreme court, upholding the constitutionality of the famous Miner act providing for a choice of presidential electors by congressional districts instead of by the state as a whole. The court holds by the 14th amendment, to the constitution of the United States did not limit the right of the states to fix the mode of choosing electors. It is conceded the effect of the decision is to give a pair, at least, of the Michigan electoral vote to Cleveland.

The opinion was unanimous. This means the democrats from 4 to 6 electors in that state. The check shown by republican leaders in going into the courts on a question fully settled by the constitution of the United States itself shows the straits to which they feel reduced.

The New York World says: "Ex-Congressman R. T. McDonald, of York, Pa., died at the Hoffman House. He is a prominent republican of the House state, and at the Minneapolis convention he was at the head of 2,000 shouters and boomers for James G. Blaine. Mr. McDonald believes Cleveland will carry Indiana and is elected. He said this yesterday."

Harrison's vote in 1888 in the congressional district in which Fort Wayne is located was about fifty-eight thousand. I do not think it will exceed thirty-five hundred at the next election. Mind you, I am a republican, and shall support the republican candidate for governor of Indiana, but I shall not vote for Mr. Harrison, neither will a large number of republicans of my district. We propose to stay away from the polls. I would not be surprised if Cleveland carried Allen county by 6,000 plurality. The attitude of Judge Gresham in the campaign means at least a republican loss of 10,000 in the state. There is no doubt in my mind that Indiana will go for Cleveland, and I would not be surprised if the majority would give him 10,000.

DOLPH ON PENSIONS AND PUBLIC LANDS

On the mind of any one who heard Senator Dolph's speech, the impression would be made that when the democrats came into power under Cleveland, the surveys and sale of public lands ceased by order of Sparks, and that every obstacle was thrown in the way of settlers entering upon those lands. But let facts, which Mr Dolph said loudly, suppress, at least the truth or falsity of this charge. The aggregate amount of public lands disposed of in the four years of 1885-8, both included, was 90,702,883 acres. This was during Cleveland's term. Up to the present in Harrison's term there has been disposed of 54,083,588 acres. But to make a fair comparison: In the first three years of Cleveland's administration a number of acres disposed of was 70,589,300 acres. In the first three years of Harrison's term the amount disposed of was 38,940,555 acres. What kind of showing do these hard facts make in view of the wild demagogic statements made by Mr Dolph? Under Cleveland in the first three years 23,416,100 acres were taken as homesteads. Under Harrison in his first three years only 18,383,188 acres were homesteaded. Does this show any unkindness on the part of Cleveland? No, it is all both. Dolph simply thought the masses of the people are not informed as to facts about land matters and that it would be safe to risk imposing upon them. The criticisms which are being made by Dolph are more numerous by Sparks in suspending the issue of patents until investigations into the abuses that had grown up as shown by the illegal acquisition of land titles by fictitious pre-emption entries could be made, were of like character with those made with reference to the force bill. Commissioner McKee, in his annual report of 1884, denounced the frauds and abuses which he declared existed in the public land system in the most vigorous language, and he declared that he had found it necessary to suspend all entries of timber culture on account of the gross fraud which had prevailed in order to secure title to these lands. It was to correct these abuses that Sparks found it necessary to suspend the issue of patents. For this effort to crush out frauds republican leaders denounce Sparks. His manner of treating the subject of land grants was equally kind and untruthful. Listening to his speech one would suppose that the public lands had voted as many acres away as republicans, but here again the facts are against Mr Dolph. The facts are that in 72 years from 1789 to 1861 all political parties granted only 29,824,033.37 acres for rail and wagon roads. During 14 years from 1861 to 1875 the republicans voted away one hundred and eighty-five million acres. The democrats have declared over fifty million acres (50,987,840) of these republicans grants forfeit because the conditions upon which they were granted had not been complied with by the railroad companies to which they had been granted. Mr Dolph is so earnestly to make it appear that the democrats opposed the force bill of President Harrison that the truth was that the democrats wanted to declare all the lands forfeit not earned within the time specified in the act granting the lands to the company, while Mr Dolph favored the forfeiture of the grant only from "Walden to Portland" which part of the grant no railroad had ever been built. The N. P. had built scores of miles along the line further east after the expiration of the time fixed in the grant for the building of the road in order to secure the grant. The democrats held that the N. P. company had earned the lands along this part of the road and should be declared forfeit. Mr Dolph was the real representative and attorney of the N. P. company and that this was the secret of his opposition.

A TARIFF FOR CINCINNATI.
The general and oft-mentioned orator, Morris M. Estee, copies the statement of the McKinley organs in denying that the beneficiaries of the tariff sell their goods cheaper abroad than at home.

The McKinley organs have done their share of stout denial, but they will have to do a good deal more of it before they can wipe out the facts. Of what sixty-dollar American sewing-machines sold in England and Australia for $25, American agricultural machinery selling at a reduction of 50 per cent over the Canada list and at a similar or greater discount, freight paid, in the South American market, it will take a good deal of oratory and mendacity to show the American country that the tariff is not for the purpose of clobbering him and helping out the foreigner.

A local instance of the effect of the tariff was published on the 17th in a McKinley contemporary that has been particularly loud in denouncing the story of the high American and low export prices. The body of the paper shows that date was devoted to an attempt to show that the McKinley taxes are paid by the foreigner, but in the commercial columns the following appeared:

Trade in Quakeberries.—At least 375 flasks of quakeberries were shipped to Sydney, and on July were brought back to Sydney, and on the same steamer that carried them away, leaving because the apparently strange procedure because the price for export is always less than the price for local consumption. This difference amounts to about 45 per cent. The loss is not to be extended to other goods brought back, and after paying the freight for the round trip, to be sold for less money for the same goods than if purchased from other parties in the market.

On May 28th the Mariposa took 125 flasks of quakeberries to Sydney, and on Aug. 5th she brought back 125 flasks. On June 24th the Mariposa took away 100 flasks, and on the 24th she brought back 100 flasks. On July 22d the Alameda took away 150 flasks, and on Sep. 23d she brought back 150 flasks. The quicksilver miners are protected by a tariff of cents per pound, which is just about the difference between the price in San Francisco and Australian buyers. The San Francisco can buy California quicksilver in Sydney nearly to cents cheaper than in San Francisco and can make a profit on buying it there and paying the freight back to American goods returned may be entered free of duty.

The McKinley organs and Mr. Estee will find some difficulty in explaining the beauties of protection that are exemplified in this sample tariff fact. The matter indeed cannot be explained. Doubtless the best policy is to keep on denying the facts, and to explain a McKinley organ will never find out the truth—S. F. Examiner.

THE MASSACHUSETTS INDEPENDENTS.
The independent voters of Massachusetts have issued an address on the issues and candidates of the campaign. The list of signatures includes some of the best known names of the commonwealth. At the head is the name of Henry L. Pierce, once a republican congressman, and now a democrat. Other names are: Win. Lowell Garrison, Prof. N. S. Shaler, President Eliot of Harvard University, S. B. Aldrich, Martin Brimmer, Col. Theodore Lyman an ex-congressman, Charles Francis Adams, Prof. Charles Eliot, Norton and Richard H. Dana.

These men, all old-time republicans, arraign President Harrison for attempting to subvert the independence of the country by removing editors who voted for Blaine in the Philadelphia caucus and by crowding the Minneapolis convention with the recipients of his favors bestowed at the public cost.

The address asserts that many of the independent voters of Massachusetts who voted for President Harrison in 1888 because Mr. Harrison promised to be a more consistent civil-service reformer. They now acknowledge that Mr. Harrison deceived them, and charging him with a breach of faith, conclude as follows: "We trust that Cleveland will be elected, in our judgment, is demanded by every public consideration, and we urge all our fellow citizens, therefore, to give him their hearty support."

Following on the declaration of Judge Gresham and Wayne MacVeagh, this address is of deep import. It shows the importance of the current showing in Mr. Cleveland's favor.

EVALUATION IN NEBRASKA.
J. Gordon Fitcher, a prominent politician of Nebraska, who is making a tour in the north west in the interest of politics, was in Portland today. He has just come from New York, where he has been in consultation with the democratic leaders at national headquarters.

"I was pleased to find in New York," he said, "harmony among the democratic leaders and all the factions. Put New York state down as democratic by 50,000 majority. I certainly look for a landslide in that direction. A whirlwind of indignation and wrath descended upon the people here in the same mood now. There is no question that the g. o. p. will die hard. It is loaded down all money collected from the beneficiaries of the robber tariff, and the leaders intend to stop at nothing to gain their ends. On the other hand, the democrats are comparatively poor. The west cannot expect to secure much aid from the national committee. In Nebraska we shall do our own fighting and ask nothing from the national committee. I am positive every democrat in the state will vote for the alliance electors and thus we will keep the electoral vote from the high tariff party. Two thirds of the people in Nebraska are against the republican party and its days are numbered in the west."—Evening Telegram.

Bleeding Murder.
MOUNT VERNON, Wash. Oct. 17.—News came to the city today of the murder, at Hamilton, on the Skagit river, last night, of James Warner, a well known citizen, by Frank J. Moody, watchman at the single mill. The single mill furnishes the power for the electric light works, of which Warner was manager. The story is that Warner ordered Moody to do something. Moody came mad, pulled his revolver and shot Warner through the heart. As soon as Moody heard about the shooting, they began to talk of lynching the murderer, but the constable immediately had Moody and the mob was baffled.

A Mining Accident.
MUSKOGEE, Mich. Oct. 17.—Nineteen miners employed in the Colby mine were descending shaft No. 7 this morning in a cage when the broken arm of the mouth of the tunnel noticed that the rope on the drum had nearly given out. He shouted to brakeman Ryan, in charge of the machinery, to apply the brake. Instead of doing this he pulled the rope out, and for a moment dashed, then grabbed his hat and coat and made for the woods, where he is still wandering. Only one of the men escaped unhurt. The other 18 are in the hospital, and every one of them is suffering from broken arms or shoulders. Four are believed to be fatally injured.

The Same Elixir.
BALTIMORE, Md. Oct. 17.—A sensational case, instituted against Secretary of War Stephen H. Ekin and ex-United States Senator John A. Logan, a leading coal operator, was begun in the circuit court here today. It was charged that he was systematically robbing by Ekin and Logan, who managed his affairs and who owned a majority of the stock of the West Virginia Central & Pittsburgh Railroad Company, which he was a stockholder.

A Good Law Upheld.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The United States supreme court, by Chief Justice Fuller, today reaffirmed the judgment of the Michigan supreme court, upholding the constitutionality of the famous Miner law, providing for a choice of presidential electors by congressional districts instead of by the state as a whole.
