PROMPT, GOOD WORK.

RHEUMATISM.

Mr. Wm. F. Cook, Canabharie, N. Y., writes: "Awake one morning with excruciating pains in my shoulders. Tried various remedies for months without effect. I went to my doctor; the pain became unbearable. Went home at 11 o'clock and used ST. JACOBS OIL; relief was instantaneous, and at 1 o'clock went to work; cure permanent."

NEURALGIA.

My wife suffered with such intense neuralgic pains in the face, she thought she would die. She bathed her face and head with ST. JACOBS OIL, and it cured her in four hours.

Oregon Giant.

Will Chop all Kinds of Grain. : Sure Death to Wild Oats

10 reasons why you should buy the Giant:—
1st. Because it is the best mill in existence.
2nd. Because it is made of home.
3rd. Because it will grind more grain than any other mill.
4th. Because it does better work than any other mill.
5th. Because it is no expense to you after you have bought it.
6th. Because it does not break the grain in grinding as other mills do.
7th. Because you can make more money with the Oregon Giant than with any other mill.
8th. Because we will give you the other three reasons why you should buy the Oregon Giant if you simply call and examine the mill.

LOCAL RECORD.

AFTER ELVEN YEARS.

About Christmas time in the year 1881, Homer McLarty went out on a deer hunt with three neighbors, Chas Williams, Enoch Sylvester and Mr. Luper. Mr. Sylvester now lives a few miles from Lebanon, but Mr. Luper has moved away. The party went to Bald Peter, and after a few days' hunt and finding no game, concluded they were too high up and resolved to move to a lower mountain in the afternoon.

A LONG CHASE.

L. R. Crow, who has been out after the fellows who stole the Jenkins horse, returned home Saturday afternoon, having succeeded in recovering the animal. Crow struck the trail of the fellows and followed them to a small town, where they were captured. The chase was a long one, and the horse was followed for two days and nights on their return home, evidently having heard they were in a fair way to be caught and wishing to return and avoid trouble. They went across the mountains with three horses, and at Klamath reservation he found that they had four horses. Howard Linkwick found a man to whom they had tried to trade the horse, but he was suspicious of them because of their anxiety to trade and left them. When Crow reached Linkville he heard of their capture, but followed their trail home, and he found that they had stolen their feed from the horses and begged for themselves on the trip. He got home just in time to be a very important witness in the trial before the circuit court. Eugene Register.

ELABORATE.

James McCune of this place and W. C. Crawford, formerly of Corvallis, have bought a grocery store in East Portland.

Some young men were arrested for disorderly conduct at the Bodaville dance, but were discharged without being fined.

W. H. Ribelin is now sole proprietor of the Lebanon photograph gallery, the Dodson brothers having gone to Southern Oregon.

A Jack Adams and E. R. Barker went to the coast with a machine recently invented by Mr. Kerton of Albany, which is said to separate gold dust from black sand.

Alex. Pardon, an old-time printer, is working for the Lebanon Electric Light company.

NEW POSTAL CARD.

Postmaster Monthelt has ordered some of the new double and reply postal cards. The card consists of two parts, one for the message and the other for the reply, the faces of the address being on opposite sides of the paper and the parts being easily separable by means of a score line where they are to be folded. The cards much resemble the ordinary postal card, except that one is printed on each of the two sides. The new "Message Card" on one side, and "Reply Card" on the other. The stamp is placed in the center of the card, and the address is printed in prominent letters with outline shading and the words "Postal Card" is printed in the center. The cards will be sold in an unfolded condition, and the message may be written or printed. The cards are printed on heavy paper and the ink is of a special quality and will be sold in an unfolded condition, and the message may be written or printed. The cards are printed on heavy paper and the ink is of a special quality and will be sold in an unfolded condition, and the message may be written or printed.

ROW AT JUNCTION.

A disgraceful row occurred in the Free Methodist tent at Junction, Wednesday night. Our informant gives us the following particulars concerning the row. It appears that George Boyd is a special deputy marshall appointed to keep order in the tent. He approached a young lady who is working at the Hotel Junction, and asked her to quit chewing gum, when a carpenter, whose name we could not learn, resented the remark and threw a brick at Boyd, and told the carpenter to "shut up" or he would put him out. After which a crowd gathered and the tent was soon in a state of confusion. The carpenter's "billy" and made for the worker of wood, but that individual was to quick for the officer to catch him. The carpenter was arrested and removed to the jail. The tent was closed for the night.

ELABORATE MONUMENTS.

E. W. Achison of Achison & Co., of Albany, was in the city last Saturday, setting up some elaborate monuments for E. B. and W. A. Wells. These monuments are taking the lead everywhere on account of their cheapness, elegance, durability and fireproof. Gold or silver does not affect the finish or appearance of this material, and the monuments are made of a hard wood. They have stood the test and need only to be seen to be appreciated. —Corvallis Gazette.

MONMOUTH GAMES.

The annual fall tournament of the Monmouth school was held last Saturday. W. N. Curtis won the 100 and 200 yard races. J. N. Blyden, of Salem, won the 440 yard race. Bruce Zepelin, of 100 yard hurdles; A. M. Rayburn, the 60 yard backward race; N. M. Olem, of Linn county, the one mile bicycle race; Ernest Tatam, the quarter mile bicycle race; E. F. Fiet, the half mile foot race; C. D. Tillston, the standing high jump, and running high jump, and W. N. Curtis the standing long jump. A foot ball game closed the contest.

APLOT EXPLORED.

The republican managers have sent out for use by the organs a table of the presidential vote, in which Harrison is credited with 210 votes. Cleveland with 131, and nine states with 143 votes are ranked as doubtful. The calm confidence with which everything is claimed as sure for Harrison in the west and northwest, with the exception of Nevada, and that is put in the doubtful list merely as a generous concession, is something sublime. Not less so the making up of the "doubtful" list with these states: New York, Connecticut, Indiana, Nevada, Delaware, West Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Alabama.

The secret of republican hopes in Tennessee was revealed two or three days ago by the publication of a correspondence between J. J. Davis, the editor of the leading republican paper in Tennessee, and G. W. Hill, the Tennessee member of the republican national committee. The correspondence disclosed the fact of a deal between Chairman Carter of the republican national committee and John H. McInelly, the third party leader in Tennessee. Not less so Dowell contracted to bring out Buchanan as a gubernatorial candidate, and to throw the populist vote for Harrison and Reid in consideration of $15,000 from the national committee and the promise of the republicans to support him (McInelly) for the United States senatorship. Irms, in his letter to Hill, recounts the terms of the contract.

McDowell for $15,000 and the guarantee of support for the senate, stipulated and contracted to bring Buchanan out as an independent candidate for governor, and to keep him in the field until the close, delivering to us the control of the state. This we all at first thought a gross deception. We have paid—mean the national committee have paid—about, if not quite—$10,000 of the money to date and promised to pay the remaining $5000 ten days before the election, Chairman Carter not being willing to pay the whole amount at once—a wise precaution I am led to suppose.

Circumstances led Mr. Hill to think the bargain was not a good one. McDowell had put up Buchanan, after the $10,000 had been paid, but had also put up third party candidates, which was a violation of the spirit, if not of the letter of the contract. Committee Chairman Hill confirmed the fact of the compact, although he feigns ignorance of questionable policy. "There is a danger line in politics," he wrote, "and we have got unaccountably close to it." His faith in McDowell was not firm. "If he would sell us out might he not sell out a little later on?" Mr. Hill regrets he did not stop at this point, but he must not do so. It is a common talk on the streets and in the highways, and is hurting the republican party.

Who gave the correspondence to the democrats is not revealed. Its genuineness is admitted and the only question before the party is: "Who gave the thing away?" Not that the corrupt deal has been exposed, there is no danger of its being successful, and Tennessee may as well be transferred from the doubtful list to the "sure Cleveland" in the republican table. For the other southern states can go with it. For there is no more chance of defeating Cleveland in them than there is expectation of defeating Harrison in Vermont.

WALTER Q. GREENHAM, JR.

His Biographical History, Springfield, Ill.
Dr. Mackin: I have your letter of the 21st instant. I did tell you at Springfield that after mature reflection I had determined to vote for Cleveland this fall, because I agree in the main with his views on the tariff and did not believe in the principles embodied in the McKinley bill. I adhere to that determination and have said nothing indicating a change in my purpose. It is not true that, by my knowledge of the nature of the President asked for my appointment to any office; it is not true that I requested any one to do anything to obtain the Republican nomination for my name; it is not true that I voted for Cleveland in 1888. I have voted the Republican ticket at every Presidential election since that party was organized, except in 1864, when I was not able to vote for the polls.

The Republicans were pledged to the regular ticket long before 1888, and during the campaign of that year the pledge was renewed with emphasis again and again. Instead of keeping the pledge the McKinley bill was passed, imposing still higher duties. It was passed in the interest of favored classes and not for the benefit of the whole people. It neither enhanced the price of farm products nor benefited labor. Wage and ever will be regulated by supply and demand. Duties are imposed upon some articles to destroy competition and foster trusts and monopolies. I think you will agree that such a course is the abandonment of the doctrine of moderate incidental protection. The tariff is now the most important question before the people, and whatever others may do, I shall exercise the right of individual judgment and vote accordingly to my own conviction. I think you should keep the Republic to vote for Cleveland without joining the Democratic party. How I shall vote in the future will depend upon the question at issue. Very truly yours, W. Q. GREENHAM.

Alcock's Porous Plasters are unsurpassed in the treatment of rheumatism and other painful affections. They are the only reliable plaster ever produced. They have successfully stood the test of over thirty years' use by the public; their virtues have never been equalled by the unscrupulous imitators who have sought to trade upon the name of Alcock's by making plasters with holes in them, and claiming them to be "just as good as Alcock's," and they stand today indorsed by some of the highest medical authorities, but by millions of grateful patients who have proved their efficacy as a household remedy. Beware of imitations and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for Alcock's, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

AT CLOSURE.

In experience on the influence of food and surroundings on the color of animals, Mr. E. B. Poston raised catfishes of the pepper moth under different conditions. Those confined among green leaves and "twigs became green, those having black or brown twigs mingled with their food were brown or black, and others were turned pink or red.

Senator Curtis's very proper declaration that all his plans made in this country in a year would not be for a week's consumption, and that the tariff which contains that measure production costs people $15,000,000 a year. But then, you know, every household in the land must contribute to stuffing the pockets of these instant industries.

Any and every attempt made by political partisans to impress the personal honor or professional integrity of Mr. Wayne MacVeagh can but return to plague the inventors. If those who are politically antagonistic to him really believe that his change of political color is due to corruption, they should not create a common impression to the contrary and excite universal doubt regarding their own faith in their contention by making attacks which cannot hurt him in the least, and which, with regard to both matter and manner, cast infinite discredit upon the political color.

This morning's dinner was given at the residence of Mr. Phil Goodwin in honor of the 30th birthday of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Goodwin, nee Allen, who is now residing in Albany. The Democrat hopes to see at least seven years added to the number and a century reached in this interesting phase of her life. Mrs. Goodwin died during the life of Washington.

Under the head, "A very neat wedding," the Oregon Telegram says: "Mrs. Jones Saltmarsh, a very young lady of the East Side, and Elmer E. Strong, of the same city, were united in matrimony last evening at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. R. H. Saltmarsh, on East Commercial street. East Harrison. The parlors were profusely decorated and the bride was neatly attired. The newly wedded pair were the recipients of many kind wishes and presents, and have the best wishes of a large number of friends."

By All Odds

The most generally useful medicine is Ayer's Pills. As a remedy for the various diseases of the stomach, liver, and bowels, these Pills have no equal. Their sugar-coating causes them not only to be easy and pleasant to take, but preserves their medicinal integrity in all climates and for any length of time. The best family medicine, Ayer's Pills are, unsurpassed for the use of travelers, soldiers, sailors, campers, and pioneers. In some of the most critical cases, when all other remedies have failed.

Ayer's Pills
—In the summer of 1861 I was sent to the Annapolis hospital, suffering with chronic constipation. While there, I became so debilitated that I could not speak and was compelled to write every word I wanted to say. I was then having some 25 or 30 stools per day. The doctors ordered a medicine that I was satisfied would do me no benefit to me. I did not take it, but persuaded my nurse to get me some of Dr. Ayer's Pills. About two o'clock in the afternoon I took six of these pills, and by midnight began to feel better. In the morning the doctors came again, and after deciding that my symptoms were unfavorable, gave me a different medicine, which I did not use, but took four more of the Pills instead. The next day the doctors came to see me, and thought I was doing nicely, and so did I. I then took one pill a day for a week. At the end of that time, I considered myself cured and that Ayer's Pills had saved my life. I was then weak, but had no return of the ailment, and my strength as fast as my health improved. I have since taken 6th Regt. Mass. Vol. Infanteries.

The Best

I have ever used for headaches, and they give me relief from the most distressing neuralgia sensation in the stomach after eating.—Mrs. M. J. Ferguson, Fulton, Va.
