Spread Himself.—The Washington orator has a competitor in young Wilkinson of Lane. The pliot bill was up. Here is the account of his speech: In florid rhetoric he maintained that when a storm was on the deep and the waves were lashed into foam, the ship rolling in the trough of the sea and life and property in danger, the place for pilot commissioners is not at Portiand but at Astoria, where they could direct the movements of pilot boats and send the pilots out on their mission of mercy to distressed seamen.

A HARD TIME.—The Astoria Budget says: Gamblers are having a hard time of it lately. Chased from Portland, they land in Tacoma only to be again forced to wander and seek green fields and pastures new. Like our noble redmen, their sphere is contracting more and more daily and it is only a matter of time when they will have no abiding place save cold Alaska. Up there, no doubt they could enjoy a quiet game of freeze out.

A dispatch from Chicago says:

Judge Walter Q Gresham is the central figure in a new political sensation. Judge Egbert Jamieson of Chicago, a personal friend of the coming secretary of state, sprung the matter today. The disclosure was elecited by expressions of opinion here that President-elect Cleveland had not only made a mistake in calling Gresham into his cabinet, but that the Judge had violated political decency in accepting the office, in the light of the fact that the appcintment might be construed as a reward for deserting a party that had honored him.

Judge Jamieson said: "I do not speak from hearsay but from direct personal knowledge. Part of the Pennsylvania delegation to the republican national convention stopped over in this city on its way to Minneapolis. The day of their arrival was suplained to me that while Pennsylvania was for Blaine, the contingency of a failure to neminate him had entered into their calculations. Gresham was their second choice, and they recognized in him elements that might consolidate the anti-Harrison strength to a greater extent even than Blaine. It occurred to me that it wasn't my funeral, and I laughingly asked what was wanted of me in connection with a national republican convention of any sort.

a national republican convention of any amounted to nothing more substantial than to make its certain that no silver legislafriend and a friend of Judge Gresham I will do what I can.

"I found Judge Gresham in his chambers, and had a conversation with him that lasted over an hour. I told him frankly what I had called for and outlined the situation as it had been given to me. The Judge said he appreciated the high compliment paid him, but that under no circumstances could he be considered as a possibility. 'I no not think it is possible to defeat Mr Harrison for the nomination,' he remarked, 'but even if it were, and the nomination were offered me, I could not, as an honest man, accept it.'

present failed to take some action that would stop the purchase of silver by the government, but now that congress has by votes in both houses given notice of its failure to take such action no one seems to be certain that an early session will be called, and there appears to be a doubt in the minds of quite a number of democrats as to whether Mr Cleveland ever authorized those statements.

If Mr Harrison's influence be strong an honest man, accept it.'

"He then went on and defined his views on the tariff question. He was in thorough accord with Mr Cleveland, and came out flat footed for revenue reform. "On the tariff issue, be said, 'I am as much of a democrat as you are, and entertaining such views, you must see that I could not be the candidate of the republican party for president."
