As Oasson Parest.—Something of in-terest to every cyclist is the recently pat-ented invention of Mr. Unruh, of Mc-Minnville, whereby the cranks on the pedals of a wheel may be adjusted by an automatic arrangement to a greater length. The great advanage of a long crank shaft in driving USA hill is in-stantly apparent to every sheelman. It is claimed for Mr. Wuruh's invention that it is going to start a revolution in ideas about how to ride a wheel uphil. By the simple device of a spring and an can, at the rider's will, be automatically adjusted to nine inches by merely put-ing the increased pressure on the ped-als. In going up a hill, for example, the six-inch crank becomes nine inches in length on the 'over and down stroke' of the pedal, and than, after passing the that without any difficulty of hindrance to the rider's feet, the crank again becomes six inches long.
