The Democrat.

Corvallis has a Tally Revolt in Prosecuting Attorney Wilson.

Pendleton is to have a woolen mill. It took routing, and is very commendable right in the midst of the hard times.

Times are certainly better, for nearly every paper in the Northwest says so; but there is a big field for improvement.

Albany's Woolen Mills took first prize at the Portland Exposition on general display. Another Albany victory we are all proud of.

Thousands of people opened their eyes at the Linn county exhibit at Portland. It is well shown. Linn county will certainly be heard from.

Millionaire's sons die just as easily as the sons of the hood carrier, and they have nothing behind but their record, and that's what they take with them too.

A suit begun fifteen years ago has just been decided by the courts in Seattle. Wain's Shakespear who said something about the law's delays.

A Salem paper keeps telling about what Salem wants. If they would keep their powder dry they might kill a creamery and a few things like that occasionally.

The Oregon Bar Association is after the shysters in the business. That's right, clean them out. The profession isn't honorable one, and men should not be contented for belonging to it because a few members of it in Portland are rascals.

The true patriot is the one who honors the highest type of virtue. The virtuous manhood and the virtuous womanhood decide the character of the government. The true patriot will honor his country's institutions. The true patriot will honor the Sabbath as a day of rest and worship.—David M. Skilling, Presbyterian, Allegheny, Pa.

The Newburg paper says: The A. O. U. W. gave another edition of the best blessing it is proving to the widows and the fatherless of this country, by paying to Mrs. J. D. Bell last week the sum of $2,000.

This sum will serve to smooth many rough places in life's pathway, and we are glad that Mr. Bell was able to make such provision. The wisdom of such life insurance is yearly becoming more and more apparent.

Ah, there you fellows that declared that the Wilson bill favored the pauper sheep of Europe, and would stamp out the wool and gation industry of the United States. The facts are against you, and the amount of sheep in Europe are having a harder time than ever before.

American wool is worth from 2 to 3 cents a pound more than it was when the McKinley bill was in force, and every mill in the country is running up to its full capacity—the output is supplying the domestic sheep of Europe and millions of yards of woolens are being exported to Europe and sold right under the noses of the pauper sheep of Europe—this too, with American labor receiving higher wages than they did in the days of McKinleyism and steady work.—Green Castle Star Press.

At a sitting of Referee Woodcock Monday afternoon in the O. P. matter, the following bills and claims were filed therefor:

Farmers' Loan and Trust Co., Turner, McClure, Baitson and J. R. Brown, attorney's fees, etc., $18,176, $14,176 and $4,000, additional compensation, $5,000; total, $41,352.

J. W. Whalley, additional referee fees, beside the $4,000 already received by him, $600.

John Burnett, attorney's fees, $1,250; J. R. Brown, $548.

Supplemental report of E. W. Hadley, showing payment on labor claims accruing under T. E. Hogg, $39,850.

Claim of C. E. M. Rand, expert, $11,102 and interest, $1,650.

Claim of F. M. Johnson, insurance commissions, $1,413.

School district No. 9, for Benton county, Oregon, for taxes, $580.

City of Corvallis, for taxes from 1888 to 1892, $423.

John P. Fay, attorney's fees under Receiver Hadley, expense, $2,470; legal services, $5,125.

Linn county claim for taxes, $1,050.

F. K. Peddleton attorney fees, $3,000. Page & Zeller attorney's fees, $4,000.

Chas. Clark, receiver, reports receipts during his administration from January, 1891, to October, 1895, $100,410; disbursements $100,228; leaving cash balance in the hands of $185. Mr. Clark gives a detailed account of his acts as such receiver closing his report with these words: "By the most rigid economy and the strict compliance with business principles, and the earnest co-operation of those associated with me, I have been enabled to care for all liabilities, and to pay every cent indebtedness, to my employees, and legal advisors, office rent, supplies, and all singular other liabilities by me incurred and now bring into court a cash balance of $185."

Oregon's First Census.

The first census of Oregon was taken in 1851 by Joseph L. Meek, U. S. Marshall, and Dan O'Neil, deputy. As recently published in the Oregonian it is as follows:

The county of Washington contained a population of 2,650; 417 males; 334 females; 1,909 children under 16 years of age; 11 deaths during the year.

The Nicaragua Canal.

Pacific coast people to a man see the necessity of the Nicaragua canal. There is no division on that subject. We need it in our business. On the other side of the Rockies it is not so much a local necessity, hence when a paper speaks for it it is more effective. Here is something to the point from the Jacksonville, Florida, Times:

A year ago the construction of a canal across the isthmus of Nicaragua and its operation under the auspices of this government was a necessity to American commerce. Now it is doubly necessary, for the changes of the past year have been more important, in a commercial sense, than any that the world ever saw in so short a period.

Japan has emerged from her war with China more progressive and more energetic than ever before. The energy that overthrew a nation nearly ten times her superior in population must now be turned to the construction of a canal across the isthmus of Nicaragua and other nations more highly than Japan.

China's vastness has also been broken, and that vast empire, by the terms of the treaty, is much more open to trade than ever before. Besides this, even China is capable of learning by experience. She shows that her defeat was due to her exclusiveness, and that if she would become powerful she must cultivate European and American commerce.

The trade of India has enriched England. The trade of China and Japan will give a new impetus to the commerce of the world. By present trade routes England will come in for the lion's share of that trade. England and France are nearer than the eastern coast of the United States to China and Japan, and the products we would offer to these countries would be found almost exclusively on the eastern coast.

Both China and Japan have a friendlier feeling for the United States than for any other country. Other things being equal, they would prefer trading with this country, but transportation charges would not be equal.

This hindrance would be changed to an advantage by the construction of the Nicaragua canal. By the routes of trade we would command their trade.

No country ever had a greater opportunity than ours now enjoys. The Nicaragua canal is an essential part of that opportunity, and its construction will make the United States the greatest commercial nation the world ever saw.

There is good music and bad music, high and low. All people nearly enjoy some kind of music, but it generally takes a trained ear to enjoy the classical. There are many laboratories to it, seemingly intricate, but plain, when understood. Every note means something.

It was placed in position by the hand of the genius for a purpose. It is to be enjoyed by all. The note is given you have a musical structure that towers above the jingles of the day.

Those Music Laws.

A great deal is being said about those old Connecticut blue laws. Here are some of them:

SATURDAY NIGHT THOUGHTS.

The editor of a newspaper could have a fun that a boy at a circus were he to publish a weekly paper. There would need a body guard and an underground hiding place.

The editor of the San Francisco Call in an article in an eastern paper, this Saturday night, says he doesn't believe in coupon schemes, club methods, lotteries, etc., by newspapers to get circulation. He believes in legitimate, straight forward newspaper work, giving the news in a clean way. His head is level. The same may be carried into any line of business. It pays in the long run to do a straightforward business without any prize elephants, etc., to draw trade. What the public wants is just dealing in all lines of business.

Raffles often become the rage. One hundred men put a dollar apiece in a wheel and let it run. The wheel gets it, and a hundred articles come out of it. Ninety nine men help him buy the thing. The Democrat doesn't want things that way. It had rather buy the article right out and have the satisfaction of having paid for it all along.

During the week the defense rested in the Durran case, and the lawyers began creating. In a few days the case will go to the jury, led by the case who have been making the case a business over two months. The testimony of the witness is not very convincing. The defendant is a man of good character, and the prosecution is a man of bad character. The jury will find for the defendant.

Ex-Governor Fletcher, of the Salem Post, has returned home from a trip to Alaska, and has a number of interesting stories to tell. He says that the gold fields of Alaska are not what they were once, and that the mining industry is in a state of decline. He also says that the government is doing a great deal to improve the condition of the territory.

Yamhill county knocked Linn county out in one thing. It furnished three out of four copies of the paper in the county. The Linn county paper has too high an idea of getting married to permit a copy to be presented in the form of a note to the proprietors.

Most of the valley papers have made comments on the Red Crown Roller Mills case. The opinion of the court is almost universal that courts of justice should make examples in such cases on account of the great wrongs done to the public. The government should take care to see that the law is not broken with impunity.

Police Judge James Campbell, of San Francisco, has a number of interesting stories to tell. He says that the city is doing a great deal to improve the condition of the territory. He also says that the government is doing a great deal to improve the condition of the territory.

Some Alaska young men would have their hands full if a Kansas ruling were in force here. A court there has held that a man who is upon a woman regularly and takes her to entertainments occasionally is legally engaged to marry her. The ruling is not without a grain of sense.

The hop crop this year was one-fourth larger than last year. The yield per acre was 84,000 lbs. of hops, or 1,000 bales, 22 per cent less than last year. The crop is said to be 100,000 bales less than last year. The yield per acre was 84,000 lbs. of hops, or 1,000 bales, 22 per cent less than last year.

Albany is probably unique among cities of its size on the coast. It proposes to have a cash basis, that is, it is to have work done unless it can pay for it. Most cities in the kind of Albany do not have a cash basis. Albany is probably unique among cities of its size on the coast.

A well-known farmer of this section, says the Rhode Island law is a law with a load of apples, and after he had disposed of them he drove up in front of a store and saw a crowd of holiday makers on the other side of the street he went over to see what was the trouble. On arriving there his curiosity was aroused by the fact that a large hole in the door had been made, and he had never seen one. For the fun of the thing and to get reckless he blew in it with a long article in the Times says: After listening a moment he made a dash across the street, exclaiming: "Gosh! the Rhode Island law is a law with a load of apples, and after he had disposed of them he drove up in front of a store and saw a crowd of holiday makers on the other side of the street he went over to see what was the trouble.
