Arrangements are being made for s blowout after the convention, a harmo ising affair with defeated candidates.

Not a Saloon Kerper.—In noticing the suicide of Mr. Max Friendly in Portland the Democrar referred to Mr. Friendly as a saloon keeper. The idea was taken from the Telegram which referred to him as a liquor dealer on Morrison street. The two terms are generally used for the same meaning. The Democrar is informed that Mr. Friendly was not a saloon keeper, but was simply the agent of a California vintage, and only sold wines by the bottle. Those familiar with his record refer to it as an honorable one, particularly his payment of about 95 cents on the dollar at a time when many try to get off without buying anything. His family are very deservedly popular and worthy people.

Stranger reading dispatches from Roseburg concerning the primary meetings last Saturday, would think some body lied, and truly they may, for there is a flat contradiction in the dispatches to the Oregonian concerning it. D. S. K. Buick states that the delegates are for Hermann and Simon Caro says they are against him. The fact is that they are for Hermann originally, pledged his honor as a man that if chosen a delegate he would not oppose Mr. Hermann, and on those assurances he secured votes enough to elect him.

A Political Joks,—One of the delegates to the democratic convention from North Harrisburg is W. S. Bean, Thereby hangs a tale. Mr. Bean, a newcomer there, is a red hot republican. Last Saturday on primary day, Mr. Sam May said to Mr. Bean: "Lets go up to the primaries" Mr. Bean, thinking Mr. May was a republican went along, took part in the meeting and was electe is part in the meeting and was elected a delegate. He did not learn of the fact until the next day. He will not take

At Oregon City the Albany and arrived in Albany an hour ahead of the Ruth. At Oregon City the Albany was two minutes ahead, and at Salem one or two minutes. The number of stops made by the boats, though, makes it impossible to judge of it as a race.
