The democratic nominees met at the Hon W. R. Bilyen, chairman of the democratic central committee, who im-mediately introduced Mr. Henry Mc-Elmurry, nominee for representative, who disclaimed being a politician, but simply a farmer. He did not discuss the tariff, or even the money question, the great issue of the day, though he expressed himself pointedly in favor of the free coinage of silver. Speaking of local matters he asked the Lord to forgive us for having such an ignorance as give us for having such an ignoramus as Hartmus around. He touched up the running of the three republican representa-tives without a platform. He promised to go to the legislature pledged to live up to the reforms advocated in the platform upon which he shall be elected. He was key, C. W. S. M. Garland spoke plainly a few momenta, right from the beginning against a politician for the office of county judge, which he disclaimed being, and promise ed if elected not to mix politics with the office. He would not do like Judge Duncan, give so many figures as to leave his audience in darkness. He was opposed to falsehood even in politics. He would not compare two republican administrations, but showed conclusively that Judge Duncan's administration has cost the county an average of $44.618 while Judge Whitney's cost only $31,792, $45,452 less in the four years. He showed that while we had more people the cost of every thing during Judge Whitney's administration was so much, highers as to offiset it. A dollar today is contained to the mature of the case. Judge Duncan had an opportunity to make a record, but it was an extravagant one at a time when we should have had economy. He charged Duncan with permitting money to be taken by officials not authorized by law, and proved his charge conclusive ly. He showed how he allowed bills of the sheriff of $5 for board of prisoners in
