D. R. & N. TO THE EAST

TO THE EAST. GIVES THE CHOICE OF TWO TRANSCONTINENTAL ROUTES. GREAT UNION NORTHERN PACIFIC.

Mitchell Pointers. Senator Mitchell spoke in Albany this afternoon. Following are pointers from his speeches in the U. S. senate.

"Can the eight million and odd farmers in this country be hounded and deceived by the pretense that their interests are to be advanced by the demonization of silver and the maintenance and perpetuity of the single gold standard? Can they be so blind to their own interests as to be made to believe that the elimination of one of the precious metals from the circulation...

"The great argument is the old, threadbare one of the unmetallists. It is the argument of the creditor against the debtor, of the banker against the farmer, of the rich against the poor, of the bondholder against the interest-bearing masses...

On a par with the senseless tangle about the dishonest dollar, the 60-cent dollar—continually coming, not from senators or members of the house—we do not hear where a decent respect is not only for truth but for the proprieties has an abiding place...

This is an error. Gold has no more intrinsic value than iron, or nickel, or any other metal. Nothing is financially valuable if anything can be properly said to be intrinsically valuable, then I would say there is more intrinsic value in an apple, pear, or orange, or cantaloupe than in all the three thousand and odd millions of gold in the world...

Not one of these, no less any of the latter that of gold has in and of itself and alone, separated from all other external objects or things, any intrinsic value. Gold, therefore, derives its value from external operations, from the uses to which it can be and is applied by man. It is the function of money, the impermanent recognition of the government that gives it value, and in virtue of which it does duty in the world in the interests of society and civilization.

Equally untenable is the assertion of free bimetallic coinage. In this country would result in making the U. S. a dumping ground of the silver of the world. There are many reasons why this would not be so.

Senator Mitchell Reviewed. Editor Democrat: Hon. J. H. Mitchell is a pleasant speaker, and his speech delivered here yesterday was free from abuse and a fair one. His speech though gave no encouragement to gold standard republicans. The fore part of the Senator's speech was devoted to a discussion of our political position in regard to the free coinage of gold under our present "Constitution."

Among other things he said that if a country exports exceeded its imports it would be in a prosperous condition. According to this the United States is now most wonderfully prosperous. I take the figures herein after given from the World's Almanac for 1896, they being taken from the Bureau of Statistics Washington D. C. and are correct.

Our exports have exceeded our imports during the last three years by hundreds of millions of dollars. In 1894 our exports exceeded our imports by the enormous sum of over two hundred and thirty seven millions of dollars, the highest since the year 1881. During the year 1895 our exports exceeded our imports by over seventy million dollars.

Not long ago some people thought, lately when the gold was leaving us, without looking up the facts that our imports were exceeding our exports and that it was owing to our tariff laws. By an actual comparison of the scheduled and the unscheduled tariff with the Wilson tariff one cannot help but note the strong protective features of each bill. That great oracle of truth (The Oregonian in its issue of 16th inst., says: "The truth is we have been economizing for several years and are just beginning to reap the fruits. In the last six years we have exported nearly one billion of dollars worth of merchandise more than we have imported."

Some mills are not running because of want of capital and some who depend solely for their operation on local or home trade, cannot run because the people have no money to buy, and they can do no more than the statistic show. In 1894, then in any year of our history but one. There was less wool imported into this country in 1894 than any year since 1870. Less wool has been imported under the present tariff than ever before.

The truth is that our woolen manufacturers in the East who have been energetic and successful in the export to operate their mills have prospered as never before, and we now are shipping more American merchandise every month than ever in our history before. In July of this year our exported merchandise over our imported merchandise was nearly sixteen millions of dollars.

Many persons out of health have found an excuse in hot weather for doing nothing toward getting well. "I will wait until fall," they have promised themselves. It is now time, if ever, in thousands of cases, to keep that promise.
