Two of Crooked River's young men indulged too freely in a change of grand rights and lefts at the dance at Price the other night. A hat time was had at the dance. It was so hot that it was difficult for several to keep their coats on, but the men should not be blamed for this, as it was the "spirite" within them that made them so hot.

Many believe, however, that Glenbrook instead of the present town of Rid ile will be the final location of Rid ile will be the final location of Rid ile will be the final location of the division terminal. Whatever it is, it is pretty certain that the repair shops for the Oregon division will be located and other permanent improvements made. There is a report, also, that Eugene will get the freight division north of Koseburg in the place of Junction, and that the Roseburg local will then be cut off at the former place.
