AN EXCITING EXPERIENCE is reported to the DEMOCRAT. Recently an Albany saloon keeper on leaving for his home at night was seen to take with him a sack of money. After he had retired awhile a noise was heard in an adjoining room. The truth at once flashed on the saloon keeper's mind. Quietly arising and tak-ing a gun that was in the room he faced a man in the adjoining room before he a man in the adjoining from belove he was aware of what was up. He was ordered to kneel and did it very quickly. Then on account of a long acquainsance and circumstances the man was permitted to go, promising to do better.

Known in The Dalles

From the Chronicle:

Charles Benson, who was employed in Parkins' barber shop for a few months last fall, has gotten into serions difficulty in Albany. Although at first he seemed to be a worthy fellow. Mr. Parkins soon discovered he did not meet bie financial obligations, and at the time of the fistial encounter, which took place down the river, he took such a decided interest in the disgraceful sfiair that his employer, deciding he had no turther use for him, gave him his walking papers. He then left town, leaving bills to the amount of about $110.

While here Benson employed a lawyer and commenced divorce proceedings against his wife, but suspicioning him, the lawyer dropped the matter, and has since learned that he cheated Salem lawyers in the same kind of a deal, and proved himself an all-around bick.

It is said that the Miss Watts, whom he married in Albany last Satrrday, visited him in this city last fall.

The T. M. says: last fall, has gotten into serious difficulty

The T. M. says: People of The Dalles shed no tears when Charles Benson, the prize fighting barber, shook the dust of the town off his feet, through some regretted that they had extended credit to the irres-ponsible fellow.

President Frank Strong, of the state university, Rev. Hayes of Grants Pass and E. C. Bronough of Portlend had already judged the composition of the orations, p. scing Torbet's first, Stellmacher's second, Byers' third, Pratt fourth and Achison's fifth. The judges of the delivery were Rev. Davenport of Lebanon, Rev. Cieland of Eugene and Maj. M. H. Ellis. They, as well as a majority of the audience, placed Stellmacher first on delivery, giving them a tie on grades. The percentages were taken which gave Torbet 93.70 and Stellmacher 93.31.
