The Registration Law.

KINGSTON, Oregon, March 28, 1900. EDITOR DEMOCRAT:

Allow me space through the columns of your paper to express a few thoughts with regard to the registration law passed at the last session of the State Legis thlican for district attorney, and J. inch went to Salem this morning on press. As there are other candidates ge Duncan is not yet out of the ds. it is not yet out of the ds. it is not yet out of the ds. it is not yet out of the general. Others claim that the law is unconstitutional. Well it may be, but where is the single voter that would be boilday trin with Mr. Brean to willing to test the constitutionality of the law. The right of franchise is the most sacred of all American rights, except the right to worship God according to our own conscience. The 16th day of March there were 2322 voters registered in the various precincts in the county, being only about one-half the voters ip the county. It should be remember-ed that all who wish to vote either at the June or Presidential election in November must register between the 1st of January and 15th of May. Now let me say to all voters who love our country and its institutions as they were handed down to us by our fathers, and who are opposed to misrule, trusts, Another Candidate.

and who are opposed to misrule, trusts, combines and monopolies, give this matter special attention and register with out fall within the required time. This matter should be called up and discussed in every precinct in the county on the day of the primaries.

Everybody's Magazine for April presents a very attractive appearance, appearance, and its contents are of especial value and interest. The second article in the series, "Great American Industries," treats of the enormous steel works of the Carnegie Company near Pittsburg, Pa., and explains in a bright and interesting fashion in what manner this company will make this year profits exceeding $40,000,000. The fourth in the series of "Simple Explanations," takes up a fascinating subject, and one which has undoubtedly been a mystery to nine tenths of the magazine readers; that is, the method of navigating a ship by observation of the sun and stars. Mr. Smith set his watch by the clock in the court house at Albany last Friday afternoon. On Monday evening he was taking a stroll in west Oakville when he heard the Corvallis town clock strike sever which caused him to look at his time piece and he then discovered that three great time rieces were beating in unison, and now we feel the need of a clock in our town.

We sent two delegates to the Prohi convention and six to the Republican and have men enough to send to all the other conventions. Some of our most ardent republicans said they wouldn't go as far as Albany to see or hear Bryan but they didn't object to go as delegates to the convention and in order to be there in time they went the evening be-fore (but not to see Bryan.)

THE SMITHS.-A review of the census reports will convince the most skeptical that the "smiths" predominate all over the United States. This may in a mess-ure account for the latest craze among authors and managers for titles having the word Smith as a fundamental base. The first of the lot and undoubtedly the most successful is "Have You Seen Smith." a farcical comedy which inaugurates the season of laughter in this city. No sooner had the success of this attraction become known than a bost of imitators sprung up, but they do not seem to have succeeded in accomplishing anything other than creating a strong desire to see the original Smith entertaigment.
