PORTLAND, DALLES & SALT LAKE RAILROAD.

In another column of our paper to-day will be found a telegraphic dispatch received by us a few days since, which contains news of a cheering character to our people. We give the dispatch as we received it, from which our readers can draw their own conclusions, as we have to do, until we receive more fully the conditions of the agreement and specifications entered into by and between the contracting parties. We, with the whole of our people, hope the news received is true, and that there is now a certainty of the early commencement and completion of this road. It won't do for us to be too certain as to our good fortune until we are fully advised in the matter, but we have, in the news contained in the dispatch, reason to hope for the best, and that the good time so long looked for and promised is coming and that soon. If, as we hope is the case, Col. Chapman has accomplished his long worked for and much desired object, the building of the P., D. & S. L. Railroad, he should be looked upon and should receive the thanks of all our citizens as a public benefactor, especially to Eastern Oregon. The Col. has spent several years in his endeavors to accomplish this great work, and he has now succeeded in procuring the necessary means to build the road, he has reason to feel proud of his noble and good work. He has had terrible opposition to overcome, which would have discouraged and disheartened any other man but him, and would have compelled them to abandon the undertaking, but the stronger the opposition he has had to encounter the stronger has been his determination to succeed, and we hope for his sake, as well as for that of our citizens, that he has been successful in his noble and persevering efforts, and that he may long live to witness and enjoy the fruits of his energy and perseverance. If the news we have received is true, and the road is to be built from Portland to the great overland railway within the next five years, it may confidently be expected that work will be commenced on the road between this city and the Columbia River this season, and that within the next three years the snort and whistle of the Iron Horse will be a common and regular daily occurrence to be heard by our citizens. Emigration will pour into this section of Oregon, our waste lands will be occupied by thrifty and industrious tillers of the soil. Machinery will then find its way to our vast and rich mines, our whole country will be thoroughly developed, and we will become a rich, prosperous, contented and happy people. We again say we hope for the good of our whole country, that the good news we give our readers this week may prove true. With this road built, giving us connection, quick and cheap, with the Pacific seaboard, and an outlet to the great East, our people will need not want no better country than they have in Eastern Oregon, and need seek no further for bounteous, cheerful and happy homes. The citizens of Eastern Washington and Idaho Territories rejoice with us in anticipation of the future prosperity that they, as well as we, will derive from the completion of this great and necessary work.

The Baker City Democrat intimates that the State Printer is having the laws and journals, or some other State work, printed in San Francisco. This is not true. The present State Printer has not had a single line of the public printing done in San Francisco or anywhere outside of Salem or Albany. For six months past we have had from eight to twelve practical printers constantly at work in Salem on the State Printing, and we expect to have the work completed and turned over to the Secretary of State within the next eight or ten days. We went to San Francisco last fall for the purpose of buying a power press and other printing material and stock, and not to farm our work, as our Eastern Oregon contemporaries intimate. Bro. Shepherd, will you do us the justice to make a correction in as public a manner as you made the charge? You will surely have the fairness to do so. States Rights Democrat of March 12th.

We are pleased to make the above correction. The great length of time since the work was placed in the hands of the State Printer and his trip to San Francisco last fall would naturally lead a printer to suppose that the work had either been taken to San Francisco or some other out of the way place to be done, or that due diligence had not been used in the speedy completion of the work. The publication of the laws in one or two newspapers in the Wallamette valley, which have no general circulation over more than half the State, is an imposition and a fraud upon the people of this portion of Oregon, which they are getting disgusted with. They want the laws in due time, as they are entitled to have them. The laws should have been published within ninety days from the adjournment of the Legislature, and then there would have been no cause for grumbling. The State Printer should be, by law, compelled to have the laws published in book form within that time. Proper energy and a due respect to the wants and demands of the people could easily accomplish this much desired end, within the space of ninety days.

OUR UNION COUNTY LETTER.

Cove, Union Co., March 18th, 1875.

EDITOR DEMOCRAT:—Thinking that a few lines concerning the winter in Grand Ronde Valley, and its effects on man and beast might not be altogether uninteresting to many of the readers of your excellent paper and particularly to those of them that may, at one time or another, have lived in this valley. I beg space in your paper for the following short epistle:

Our winter set in as fine and promising as any one since the settlement of the county and continued open and pleasant until about the 5th day of January, when heavy snowing commenced, accompanied with extreame cold. The snow soon reached a depth all over the valley of from twelve to fifteen inches, and in many localities much deeper. The cold increased with the continuance and accumulating depth of snow, while the thermometer sank to a point in one or two instances, of 23 and even 24 degrees below zero, a circumstance heretofore entirely unknown to any citizen of this valley. About the middle of February, the weather began to moderate and the depth of snow was soon greatly diminished, since which time, one snow storm has been rapidly succeeded by another, with scarcely one hour of settled weather. Unlike all previous winters this one has furnished us no "Chinook" winds to swear at, but unfortunately for Union County morals, we have profaned more on account of the non-appearance of "Chinook" winds than we ever have in any three previous winters in consequence of their frequent visitations. Our valley is still at this late date dressed in robes of snowy whiteness; but thanks to the Ruler of the elements above, the sun has been shining for the last fifteen minutes, with a fair prospect of settled weather, and perhaps spring; but sad experience taught us not to crow before we are safely out of the woods.

Ispring opens now, the loss of stock will not be as great as might, under the circumstances, be expected. But our hay is all gone, and cattle poorer than ever before at this time of the year, and the continuance of severe winter weather one week longer would prove incalculably disastrous to the stock-raisers of this valley.

Many of our citizens have been more or less seriously frozen. Among those who have suffered severely, is a young man named Twaddle, residing at the Cove. He had his foot so badly frosted that it became necessary to amputate the great toe and the bone connected therewith, back to a point near the instep, which operation was skillfully and successfully performed by our Cove Physician, Dr. Mason, who has, by several years practice in our community, proved himself to be very efficient and successful in matters of this kind, as well as in the practice of his profession generally.

It is proper to state here that the case above mentioned was not Dr. Mason's case, but belonged to another M. D., but Bacchus at that time, as is generally the case, happened to wield the scepter over Esculapian and the result was, that Dr. Mason was called in to do the amputating, and, as is usually the case in similar cases, did himself great credit. MORE ANON.

THE MINES.—The New York Sun of March 10th, in speaking of the hostility of the Republican party to the general policy of the Pacific Coast, says the designation of Effigy Sargent by the Republican caucus for Chairman of the Committee on Mines and Mining is a direct insult to the people of the Pacific States. There is no man in either branch Congress who is so obnoxious to the great mass of citizens who are interested in mining as this Senator, who was long ago burned in effigy by his constituents. Sargent was sent to the Senate by the Central Pacific Ring, and has fulfilled the expectations of those who procured his elevation by acting as the subservient tool of the monopolists who have endeavored to absorb all the wealth of the Pacific States, while the bills relating to mining which he has introduced and advocated in the Senate have usually been exceedingly objectionable to the majority of the people who were to be affected by them. Indeed, the fact that any bill relating to mining, or to legislation affecting the title to mineral lands, is introduced by Sargent, is considered sufficient cause for suspicion that it conceals some job for the benefit of monopolists at the expense of the industrious mining population. If the caucus had preceded with the deliberate intention of disgusting the people of the Pacific coast with the rule of the Republican party, it could in no way have more surely effected that result than by choosing Effigy Sargent for the important place they have selected him to fill.

Good News.

We have no recollection of seeing at any former time during a residence of nearly fifteen years in Portland, so much happiness expressed in the countenances of the people as on last Saturday. The occasion of this was the good news concerning the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake railway enterprise. Senator Kelly had sent to Mayor Failing a telegram to the effect that a contract had been agreed upon with certain English capitalists who engaged to take the bonds of the company to the amount of $28,000 per mile of the road, (with the understanding that there would be raised some local aid); the contract to be submitted for final approval to parties in England; the road to be completed in five years.

This looks like building the road.

And with this come all the benefits of lively trade, development of material resources, founding of manufactures, advance of real estate values, etc. Of course Portland was happy on receiving such news, as well it might be.

There is no doubt of the correctness of the dispatch. Its high source settles that matter at once. And then came to this city a private dispatch from another source, saying the papers would be signed that evening. So, those who have expressed the opinion that the news was too good to be true, will have the pleasant duty of revising that opinion.

The amount of local aid expected is not specified. It is probably very considerable, as it is hardly likely such aid would have been made a material point in the preliminary contract unless it was expected to be sufficient in amount to lessen the burden of the enterprise to some appreciable extent. It is, therefore to be presumed there will be before long an effort to ascertain how much Oregon is willing to help in order to secure direct railway communication with the Atlantic States. When the question comes to our people in the shape of a choice, whether they will help to the extent of their ability, or miss getting the road, with all its incalculable benefits to the entire community, we are sure they will not withhold their aid. Though that question has not yet been formally presented to them, the telegram of Senator Kelly amounts to a notice that it will be presented; and our people may as well begin to make up their minds what they can do in the premises. In Eastern Oregon there will surely be no hesitation, and in this northern part of Western Oregon there can be none. And the enterprise ought to receive the hearty encouragement of all parts of the State, as all must reap great advantages from it.

The effect which the successful prosecution of this great work would have on the future of Portland cannot be overestimated. The City would leap forward in population, business interests and wealth, with a rapidity hitherto undreamed of. Real estate would double in value at the very initiation of active operations on the road, and thereafter would steadily advance with the general growth of the city. At last the sky looks bright ahead.—Oregonian.

LATE NEWS.

A terrible snow slide occurred at the head of Bingham canon, Utah, at 4 o'clock P. M. day before yesterday burying four men. After ten hours' digging three of them were found alive and one dead. The name of the dead man was Larry Nowlan. On the same day a slide rushed through the upper part of Alta City, wrecking several houses and killing John Strong and wife. At Logan the same day Justice Clark was caught in a snow slide, carried about a mile and dashed to pieces. Terror prevails all along the canon and the miners are all fleeing for their lives.

WORTH ABOUT AS MUCH.—The Examiner says that a scientific experimentalist boasts of having brought to life a dead dog by injecting into his veins blood freshly drawn from a living canine. The resurrected dog got on his feet again, wagged his tail a little, and barked some, but he laid down and died again the next day. This experiment is of a piece, and is worth about as much, in this throbbing busy world of realities, as the attempt to keep the Kellogg government on its pins by injecting the military. The subject does rears, walks a little, agitates its tail and barks some, but it is only born again to a speedy, ignoble death.

"Eat your bread Charles—do not fling it away," said a learned and good Judge to one of his family, adding, "for who knows, in the vicissitudes of this life, if you may not some day want it." The old gentleman had to cough, look learned and go away, when the youngster answered more logically, "If I eat it, how can I have it when I want it?" This is the result of a learned Judge having children.

A $4.00 Book For $1.50.—The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in plain English, or Medicine Simplified: By R. V. Pierce, M. D., Counselor-in-Chief of the Board of Physicians and Surgeons, at the World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y. The above Work—a book of about nine hundred large pages, profusely illustrated with Wood Engravings and Colored plates, and well and strongly bound—will be sent, post-paid, to any address, for One Dollar and Fifty Cents—making it the cheapest book ever offered to the American People. Other books treating of domestic medicine, of like size and style of binding, and not nearly as well illustrated, with no colored plates and some of them containing no prescriptions and making known no means of self-cure for the diseases which they discuss, sell for from three dollars and a half to five dollars. Were Dr. Pierce's Work not published by the author, printed and bound with his own machinery, and were it sold through agents, as other like works are, the price of it would have to be not less than four dollars. For when the publisher pays the author a fair price for his production, then adds a profit to his investment large enough to satisfy himself and compensate him, not only for his labor, but also for the risk of a large loss which he assumes in taking the chances of the enterprise, the price of it would have to be not less than four dollars. For when the publisher pays the author a fair price for his production, then adds a profit to his investment large enough to satisfy himself and compensate him, not only for his labor, but also for the risk of a large loss which he assumes in taking the chances of the enterprise, the price of it would have to be not less than four dollars.

The author's large correspondence with the people upon medical matters, which we are credibly informed, frequently exceeds three hundred letters a day, and requires several trained and skillful medical assistants and shorthand reporters to enable him to entertain and answer them, as well as his large daily dealings with disease at the World's Dispensary, appear to have peculiarly fitted him for writing the Work, by rendering him very familiar with the every day medical needs of the people. He endeavors in this Work to answer all the numerous questions relating to health and disease that have been addressed to him by the people from all parts of the land, and hence it contains important information for the young and old, male and female, single and married, nowhere else to be found. All the most prevalent diseases of both sexes are also plainly and fully considered and means of self-cure made known. Unlike other works on Domestic Medicine, Physiology, Hygiene, Temperaments, Marriage, Reproduction, etc., all of which are treated in an original and interesting manner. It is a compendium of Anatomical, Physiological and Medical Science, and embodies the latest discoveries in each department.
