BY HANNAH J. M'INTOSH

Thank God for the faith that teaches, When the struggles of life are o'er, We shall meet our own—our loved ones And shall know them all once more! What matter though, life be dreary, And we tread its paths alone? f, when the journey is ended, In Heaven we'll know our own?

Sometimes when fate's frowns are darkest And clouds hide the fair, blue sky, For the tender love of the lost ones, Our souls will vainly cry; Then, sweetly over our spirit, Hushing the heart's wild moan, Comes the whisper of faith—be patient— And, in Heaven we'll know our own.

And life and its cares grow brighter, In the light of this precious thought; When the conflict, at last, is over, And the battle of life is fought, If we work in faith and submission The victory shall be won; And in Heaven where rest awaits us, We shall meet and know our own.

Ah! how will it be, I wonder, Shall those who were dearest here Be dearest again in Heaven? Or think you when we stand so near The throne of a loving Father, That his children, every one, Shall seem equally dear to each other? Can any be like our own?

wonder-but there-no matter; This belongs to the great to be; And, we'll see these things more clearly In the light of eternity. 'Tis enough to know if we're faithful, Till the labor of life is done, In the "sweet by and by" in Heaven We shall meet and know our own.

JOHNSON'S IDENTITY.

It has been stated that the true name of James Johnson, now in the county jail under sentence of death, is Frank Taylor, and that he came from Belfast, Maine, where his family now lives. He has refused from the first to give any information regarding his family in the hope that his desperate career and disgraceful death might never be known to them. The some errors of statement, appeared this city, has the following item:

"There is a culprit in Portland (Oregon) jail, under sentence of death. He was arwas convicted says his true name is Frank Taylor. Do you know anything of his his-tory? He hails from Belfast. Says he belongs there. He and an accomplice go to their account together at an early day."
We are unable to say to whom this refers. A family of that name, having a large number of boys, lived in this city many years ago; but the members are all respectable, and quite unlikely to be connected with crime. Can any of our readers shed any light on the subject?
