THE DIAMOND FIELD.

Last Monday the Challengers of Philomath, and the Corvallis club, met on the diamond and played the second game of the series. F. A. Vincent again acted as umpire, and R. H. Loyd as scorer for the Challengers, and O. E. Carter for the Corvallis club. The score stood as follows:

The series of games were for a ball and bat, and the Corvallis club having won the first games brought home the spoils. The ground being rough and situated on a decided slope, there were many more scores made, on both sides, than there would if the ground had been level. The boys speak very highly of the manner in which they were treated by the Philomath club, and say that, with the exception of a few mashed fingers, noses, lips, etc., the luxuries of the game, they had an excellent time.

INGERSOL'S ELOQUENCE.

LAST TRIBUTE TO HIS DEAD BROTHER IN WASHINGTON.

Messrs. Goldson & Mattoon appear determined to let folks know about their meat Mashington, June 3.—The funeral of Hon. Ebon C. Ingersoll, brother of Col. Robert G. Ingersoll of Illinois, took place at his residence this afternoon. The ceremonies were extremely simple, consisting merely of viewing the remains by relatives and friends and a most eloquent and impressive funeral oration by Col. Ingersoll. A large number of distinguished gentlemen were present. including Secretary Sherman, Senators Voorhees, Paddock, Allison, Gov. Pound and others. The following is the oration of Col. Ingersoll, which was received by all present with marks of deep and sincere feeling and sympathy:

MY FRIENDS—I am going to do that which the dead often promised he would do for me. The loved and loving brother, husband, father, friend, died where manhood's morning almost touches noon, and while the shadows still were falling toward the west. He had not passed on life's highway the stone that marks the highest point, but, being weary for a moment, he lay down by the wayside, and using his burden for a pillow, fell into that dreamless sleep that kisses down his eyelids still. While yet in love with life and raptured with the world, he passed to silence and pathetic dust. Yet, after all, it may be best just in the happiest, sunniest hour of all the voyage, while eager winds are kissing every sail, to dash against the unseen rock and in an instant to hear the the billows roar around a sunken ship: for whether in midsea. or 'mong the break-ers of the further shore, a wreck must mark at last the end of each and all. And every life, no matter if its every hour is rich with life, no matter if its every hour is rich with love and ever moment jewelled with a joy, will, at its close, become a tragedy as sad and deep and dark as can be woven of the warp and woof, of mystery and death. This brave and tender man in every storm of life was oak and rock; but in the sun's time had a lower. of life was oak and rock; but in the sun stime he was vine and flower. He was the friend of all heroic souls. He clambered the heights and left all superstitions far below, while on his forehead fell the golden dawning of a grander day. He loved the beautiful and was with color, form and music touched to tears. He sided with the weak, and with a willing hand gave alms; with a loyal heart and with the purest hand he faithfully discharged all public trusts. He was a worshipper of liberty; a friend of the oppressed. A thousand times I have heard him quote the words, "For justice heard him quote the words, "For justice all places are a temple and all seasons summer." He believed that happiness was the only good, reason the only torch, justice the only worshiper, humanity the only religion and love the priest. He added to the sum of human joy, and were every one for whom he did some loving service to I ring a blosace to be covered to world also to the sum of his cross to be a world also to the sum of the covered to be cove

Life is a narrow vale between the cold and barren peaks of two eternities. We strive in vain to look beyond the heights.

We cry aloud and the only answer is the echo of our wailing cry. From the voice-less lips of the unreplying dead there comes no word, but the night of death. Hope sees a star and listening love can hear the rustle of a wing. He who sleeps here, when dying, mistaking the approach of death for the return of health, whispered a with his last breath, "I am better now."

Let us believe in spite of doubts and dogmas and tears and fears, that these dear words are true of all the countless dead.

TESTIMONIALS:

ALBANY, April 20, 1879.

The undersigned physicians of Albany, having seen the apparatus used in Ames' process for preserving meats, etc., and heard the manner of its use explained, together with the chemicals used, will say, that as used, we do not consider there is any danger to the health to be feared, either in operating the apparatus, or in using the articles preserved. Not having seen a protracted test of the process of preservation by the chemicals, as used in the manner indicated, we will only say that the theory sounds reasonable, and we can assign no cause why the process should not prove a success.

J. A. Davis, M. D.

Convalues, April 24, 1879.

The undersigned physicians of Corvallis, Oregon, having had explained to us Ames' process for preserving meats, etc., can say that there is nothing unhealthy about it, as used, and that no fears need be apprehended on that account. We have also seen meat, fish, butter, etc., that has been kept several weeks by this "process," and believe that its claims to keep the various articles of provisions sweet and fresh can be sustained.
