SCHOOL REPORTS.

The school at the Pleasant Valley school house closed a three month's term on Saturday, June 28th, which term commenced April 8th. The roll of honor stands as follows: Anna Wells, 100; Wm. Gellatly, 97; Price Wells, 97; Mary Gellatly, 92; Jane is now making a spicy sheet of it. Gellatly, 91; Delia Gellatly, 90; Olive Allen, 88; Jasper Allen, 87; John Gellatly, 87; Mary Wells, 85; Katie Wells, 82; John Wells, 82.

The attendance this term was small how ever the number of children in the district are few; hardly enough to make an interesting school. But the interest and benefit of small schools like this, and also of all schools, large or small, might be greatly increased if the directors and patrons of the school would take a deeper interest in the R. R. Co., has advertised for bids for the working of the school, and in the education and advancement of their children for success or failure of whose lives they are in success or failure of whose lives they are in a great measure responsible. If they would give the teacher encouragement and aid in Salem, while Mr. Russ removed his gallery the many ways that they might, the schools would be much more interesting and profitable. As suggestions on these points might be given that: Parents should send all their children that are of a proper age, even if they have work to do; certainly when there is only from three to six months of school during the year they should have the benefit of that. They should endeavor to have them there every day there is school, for every lesson missed is a link lost that can never be recovered. They should give the teacher their sympathy, and be careful never to make a discouraging remark relative to him or her, or the work of the school, before their children, for the spirit exhibited by the parent is nearly sure to be carried out by the child. But if anything be wrong go to the teacher, and to him or her alone, or with other patrons or directors of the school. They should visit the school often and note the working and mode of conducting thereof, and have some encouraging word to say to the pupils. And above all, parents, do not try to think that your children are not learning anything, and if you do think so do not let them know it, but encourage them to work harder to learn; and before you give the teacher all the blame and shower censure on him, just look into matters a little. Many other suggestiouns might be made, but a hint to people of some and the suggestion of some suggestions are suggestions. of sense ought to be sufficient. Very respectfully submitted, C. L. BENNETT.

school house, Dist. No. 13, E. H. Bennett,

The exercises before noon were the regular recitations. The most interesting part began with the dinner, which was eaten out of doors after the fashion of a pic nie dinner. We arrived just in time to get our name in the pot, soon enough, however, to help arrange the tables, by way of apology for late arrival. It is needless to say that this part of the programme was entered into with hearty good will and no less good appetites. After partaking of refreshments "ye boys" engaged in a game of pitching quoits, while the representatives of the opposite sex were clearing the tables. At the ringing of the bell we all, like obedient children, took our seats in the large commodious house. A declamation of welcome was delivered by Mary Newton. The next was a reading, by Clara Bohanon, "The Baby's First Tooth," which was quite well read. Then came a dialogue between Mary Newton and Mary Davis, followed by short declamations by Charley and Otto Allen, who were about the youngest pupils of the school. The next was a selection read by Frank Davis, entitled "Father Abbey's Will," in which the "old gentleman" left all nis possessions, from the "old muskrat" to the "old gray cat," to his "dear wife." The next was a declamation by Bertie Da-about noon, the Comstock House, in Albany, was discovered to be on fire, and before the engines could arrive the fire was beyond control, and the building was reduced to ashes. A portion of the furniture was saved. In consequence of scarcity of water it was with great difficulty that the depot and large warehouse were saved. There was some insurance, but what amount we are not informed. The fire is supposed to have originated from a defective flue, and caught in the second story. A large number of the firemen, and many citizens of Albany were in Corvallis at the time, and were startled by a lispatch bearing the startling intelligence. The dinner station of the trains, Ward, contractor on the Westside road, gave us a pleasant call, last Tuesday morning, subscribed for the GAZETTE and left an order for some job work. This, to us, was the first direct fruits of the approaching sugars. Also extra teas and coffees, and railroad. At that time the graders were within four miles of Corvaltis-in the Locke neighborhood. The farmers, along the line, find a ready market for butter, eggs, chickens, beef, pork, etc. Mr. Ward says there will be plenty of time this fall, after completing the Westside road to this place, to grade the entire line to Yaquina Bay, and that he will obligate himself to do it, if the R. Koehler, President of the West Side company will give him the contract at reasonable figures.

POISONED BY SUCCOTASH. - A Boise city paper of late date says : On Sunday, the 15th inst., at dinner, five of the members of the family of Rev. A. J. Joslyn were poisoned by eating canned succotash. Mrs. Joslyn and one of the little girls were exceedingly sick for several hours. Three of the children who did not taste the succotash, were not affected. The symptoms seemed to be those of antimonial poisoning, and restoratives were administered accordingly with relief to the patients. The succotash was put up by the firm of J. B. Brinkley & Son, Baltimore, Maryland.

GREAT MISTAKE. - The party who invaded Mr. Wm. Dixon's potato patch, one night last week, made a sad mistake and dug the late instead of the early potatoes. It took thirty-two hills to produce a moderate mess, when two hills of the early ones would have yielded as many. Mr. D. says he has no objections to giving the fellow a row, if he his whole patch dug over at this season of the year. A double-barrelled shot gun would be a very good thing to mark such rogues with. Why not try it, friend Dix-

The whole affair was projected and car-

The liver is very apt to become torpid this season of the year as poisons arising from stagnant water poisons arising from stagnant water or decaying vegetation are more numerous and are through inhalation taken into the blood. Albany, April 20, 1879.

The undersigned physicians of Albany, having seen the apparatus used in Ames' process for preserving meats, etc., and heard the manner of its use explained, together with the chemicals used, will say, that as used, we do not consider there is any danger to the health to be feared, either in operating the apparatus, or in using the articles preserved. Not having seen a protracted test of the process of preservation by the chemicals, as used in the manner indicated, we will only say that the theory sounds reasonable, and we can assign no cause why the process should not prove a success.
