Miss Godfrey's reading was good, and the audience showed their appreciation by hearty applause. After music, Rev. Mr. Condit, of Albany, was introduced by the President, and made some very appropriate and well-timed remarks. He reported the temperance cause flourishing in our neighboring city. One saloon there had recently Palace.

ciosed, for lack of patronage.

Mr. H. M. Clinton, editor of the Pacific Monthly, who was in the city collecting statistics for his magazine, was introduced, and by a few well chosen remarks showed that his heart was in the temperance work. The pledge was then passed and several signatures secured. Taken altogether it was one of the most interesting meetings we have had for a long time.

GENERAL DISCUSSIONS.

The following are the topics for general discussion at the District and County Teachers' Institute, to commence in this city next Monday at 9 o'clock, A. M. It is expected that every teacher and friend of education will come prepared to take part in the discussions, by which great good may be ac-

"REMEMBER THE PGOR."-When we look abroad, during the inclement weather of winter, and see families of children halfclothed, and poorly fed, it is not enough for Christians to pray, "Be thou clothed and be thou fed." This prayer is right and proper, but the true Christian, who has an abundance of this world's goods, should see to it that some decisive steps are taken to graphy. A more generous, kind-hearted people than the Corvallisites cannot be nd, and they only need their attention called to this matter, to insure a liberal response. See to it, at least, that every poor family has a good Christmas dinner.

CHEERING NEWS .- Mr. Wallis Nash, as this city has just received a private letter from Col. T. Egenton Hogg, who is making his headquarters with his mother in Baltimore, but spends a portion of each day in Washington. We are pleased to learn that the Col.'s health has very much improved. He seems very much elated over the prospects of Oregon, and intimates that our citizens will have no reason to complain of the manner in which their interests will be looked after in Washington, this winter. No outside party could look after our inter-ests more closely, and present our claims forks and shovels, or anything in the hard-No outside party could look after our intermore ably, than the Colonel, and we are very fortunate in having him there to represent our interests, and work with our Senators and Representative. In addition to this, ex-senator Mitchell will be in Washington a part of the winter, at least, and we can certainly count on his aid and influence in securing congressional favors. CHRISTMAS. - The usual preparations seem to be making for the due observance of this time honored festival in Corvallis. From present indications there will be no lack of toys, candies, etc., for the "little ones," and elegant presents for the older ones. and there seems to be a general inclination to have a real old fashioned, good time Christmas holiday. We hear of several Christmas trees, public and private. There will be trees, properly decorated and laden with presents, on Christmas Eve, at the Episcopal Chapel, and Evangelical and Methodist Churches, for the different Sabbath Schools. It is the intention of the managers of these trees to have a present for every child in attendance at the various schools. The parents, when able, are expected to furnish presents for their children.

Conce to our advertising columns, Mr. John Ray, one of our solid business men, has taken his son Albert into full partnership with him in business. Albert, for the past four years, has been acting adjuncted a clean scalp.

The revival meetings, at the M. E. Church, in this city, are still in progress. The religious interest is not as general as could be desired, although much good has been accomplished. Revs. York F. Hanne C. Hanne ken his son Albert into full partnership with him in business. Albert, for the past four years, has been acting as clerk and salesman for his father, and by his steady habits and close attention to business, has fully merited this honor upon attaining his majority. His parents, und the entire community as well, may justly feel proud of such a young man, and what he has accomplished, by sobriety, honesty and honor, is within the reach of every young man.
