OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

OFFICIAL PAPER FOR BENTON COUNTY

Corvallis, July 23, 1880.

W. G. CAVEE, - - - - EDITOR

NATIONAL REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For President of the United States,
JAMES A. GARFIELD, OF OHIO.

For Vice President,
CHESTER A. ARTHUR,
OF NEW YORK.

For Presidential Electors,
GEO. B. CURRY, C. B. WATSON,
E. L. APPLEGATE.

THE CAMPAIGN IN A NUTSHELL.

General Grant has quite a remarkable faculty of getting at the very kernel or core of a question and stating it in a few simple words. His recent letter on the subject of the nomination of Hancock has the additional merit of being epigrammatic. It ran: "His (Hancock's) personal, official and military record is good. The record of the party which put him in nomination is bad." This is the whole Presidential campaign in a nutshell. It furnishes an opportunity to the Republicans to fight it on the advance ground of Buckle. The theory of that meteoric genius, who lighted up the scientific sky so brilliantly for a moment, was that man was in a large sense controlled by his environment. The work which he cut out for himself was to reconstruct history on this basis. The surroundings of a people having been accurately ascertained, he thought it would not be difficult to form a general idea of their political career. It is true that he did not get beyond the first volume of his introduction. But his generalizations were so clearly stated that they are insensibly modifying historical methods. In the path which he followed Buckle holds up the torch as certainly as Darwin, or Newton, or Adam Smith, or Bacon did in theirs.

The treatment of historical matters of which he is the inventor can be applied as well to a party as to a nation. It will be impossible for General Hancock to rise superior, if he should be elected, to his environment. His constitutional advisers will be all Democrats, and mostly from the South. He will live, move, and breathe in a Democratic atmosphere. For the first two years of his term, at least, he will probably have to deal with a Democratic Congress. All his appointments will necessarily be Democratic. None but Democrats will have access to him, or enjoy his confidence. No matter how much he may kick against it he will have to see with Democratic eyes and hear with Democratic ears. We do not think that even with this entourage that General Hancock, if President of the United States, would consent to a division of the Union, or permit secession. Loyalty to the Union is something that has become fixed and immutable for him. It is something that is above and beyond the environment. But that is not in any sense of the word an issue. There is no desire in the South for a separate and independent existence. Now that slavery is abolished there would be nothing to gain, but much to be lost by such a step.

But there are other dangers almost as great which can reasonably be apprehended in the event of Democratic success. The South will want to recoup itself for the losses of the war. It will not seek to do so by demanding a direct compensation for the slaves that were freed. It will be just as well content to be made whole under the head of subsidies for railroads, levees, improvements of rivers and harbors, and the like. The South is heavily in debt, directly and indirectly. Part of the National debt, incurred for its subjugation, has fallen upon it. By paper inflation not only can this burden, but all other burdens, be removed. It is not impossible to bring the national paper once more to the level of the Continental currency, which, though based on the "faith of the Continent," fell to one cent on the dollar. It would have gone lower if Congress had not passed a law to redeem at that figure. Not to go any further, the success of the Democracy in the present campaign will mean the plunder of the North and the disorder of the finances. These are things which General Hancock, Union General though he was, cannot prevent. The chances are that he will be made to see them in a different light from that which is here presented. They will be called great measures of statesmanship. It will be held that some of them are devised in the interest of the masses. The edict of Nantes, previous to its abrogation, was refined down almost to nothing by degrees pretending to give it a wider scope and application.

We have in this view of the case the full meaning of General Grant's epigram—"His personal, official and military record is good. The record of the party which put him in nomination is bad." The party or the environment is the controlling factor. It excludes the good "personal, official and military record" of its nominee. The nomination of General Hancock does not make the record of the Democratic party any better than it is. It does not in the least alter or modify its tendencies or purposes. It is merely a concession to what is probably regarded as a fanatically loyal spirit. But it does not change anything.—S. F. Bulletin.

FROM NEWPORT.

EDITOR GAZETTE: Notwithstanding the many drawbacks to the Bay, we believe this county has a bright future. It's grand and beautiful scenery both out upon the broad expanse of the diversified landscape and pelasant seaside resort, will always make it a desirable place to spend the hot months of summer. People are visiting the Bay now from all parts of the valley, and all appear to enjoy themselves finely, and are well satisfied with the advantages afforded here for health, recreation and amusement. The products of this country are somewhat limited, but such as they are, will always be in demand. Fruits, vegetables, oysters and lumber are the principle productions, but owing to the way the Oneatta mills has been conducted by some of its managers, it is a question whether the mills has been a blessing or a curse to the people here. One company, in particular, who had charge of the mills, and after they had gained the confidence of the people and had got them to furnish logs and labor to run the mills, the company went through voluntary bankruptcy, and thus defrauded these honest, hard working men out of hundreds of dollars. Some of these men are now holding lucrative positions under government, and yet they don't propose to pay a single dollar of their honest debts.

These are some of the dark pages of this country's history, and though thus hampered and deceived, we believe there is a future for us yet.

The time is coming when this part of the country will be able to organize and support a county of its own. It is now quite a hardship upon our citizens to go sixty miles to the county seat to transact business. Benton county is too large. It embraces as much or more territory than some of the old countries. Our interest, however, will be ably represented in the next Legislature by two Republicans and a genuine old time Democrat, who will, no doubt, find time to second some motion during the session Yours truly. RENO.

Newport, July 14, 1880.

NEAR PHILOMATH.

EDITOR GAZETTE: To refer to politicians, their qualities and actions, and keep clear from petty spite-work, and not use the pen for mean personalities at the same time is not what every writer endeavors, yet I think the weakness of other writers shall not get the better hand over me.

The question of the day is: Garfield or Hancock. I shall pay my respect to the opponent, by pondering at him, first. Is it not astonishing how that part of the Democratic press which only a few weeks ago declared positively that Hancock neither could be nominated nor elected, since his nomination all at once found out that he is the only man fit for the Presidential office—the only man who can do honor to the nation by representing them as their head. How is it that the insurpassable greatness and invincibilness of Hancock was not known by them before his nomination? That he was a gallant soldier during the war, and his grandfather one of the most illustrious fathers of this country, we have been acquainted with before the Cincinnati Convention. But Hancock was not the only gallant soldier in that war, there are many peers of his living yet. And to find him fit for the Presidency on account of his grandfather having been a great man, I can't help calling very silly. Many noble and illustrious grandfather's grandchildren died as penitentiary convicts.

It is not my intention to rise Garfield above the clouds, yet every candid man must admit, he is at least a man who can stand on his own feet. The Democratic press has failed entirely, so far, to prove his inability for the Presidency, although they have tried hard to slander the man who, through his own merit, made his way from common labor to the Senate and, yes, I may say, into the Presidental chair. What Liberal of this country could not support Garfield? In his letter of acceptance, he says: "Most in importance to freedom and justice is popular education. What ever help the nation can justly afford should be given the States in supporting common schools, but not to sectarian schools. The separation of church and state should be absolute." And as the Liberals of the United States have had enough of Mr. Hayes, Mrs. Hayes and Mrs. Hayes' Pastor, they will undoubtedly vote solid for Garfield. Next November we will hear the Democrats clamor: Hancock was our man, but Garfield got elected.

LIBERAL.

Near Philomath, July 18, 1880.

PACIFIC COAST.

Oregon.

W. P. Keady, Esq., State Printer, has commenced work on the State officer's reports.

W. S. Elkins has been appointed land agent of the Oregonian Railway Company at Dallis.

D. Mansfield, for several years Secretary of the Albany Farmers' Company, has been elected its Superintendent.

Everything goes to indicate that Eastern Oregon is doomed to be the scene of another bloody Indian war this summer.

A Chinese theater is to be opened in the new building on the north-west corner of Second and Alder streets, Portland.

Portland Bee says: It is rumored that the murderer of the young man Hager near Waitsburg some weeks ago, has been captured at Lewiston, Idaho.

The Bee says that General Howard has gone to Wat a Walla to ascertain for himself the truth of the reports circulated about the Indians.

David Vedder, of Washington county, has been bound over in the sum of $250 to keep the peace, he having threatened to kill his son.

There are forty-six regular teachers in the Portland public schools, and two supernumeraries. Four only of the forty-eight are men.

J. T. Jolly has sold his farm of 160 acres near Hillsboro to W. B. Jolly for $5,000, and will move soon to the neighborhood of McMinnville, Yamhill county.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cornelius, mother of Hon. Thos. R. and Benj. Cornelius, died at Forest Grove on the 13th inst., aged 68 years. She was one of the pioneers of Oregon and was the mother of fourteen children.

Mrs. James H. Ward, daughter of the late Hon. James Holman, of Polk county, died at Dallas on the 14th inst. She was aged 42 years, her life from girlhood having been spent in Oregon, and was the mother of 8 children.

From Washington county: Farmers are happy over the late cloudy weather and rains. One farmer thinks the rain will increase the yield 100,000 bushels in this county alone. It is especially beneficial for late sown grain which without rain would have been short. But the gentle mist never fails in Oregon.

The Albany school board have employed the following teachers for the next school year: Principal, F. F. Sox; assistants, Mrs. W. M. Sox, Miss Hattie Miller, Miss Rova Alexander and Miss Mary Gaston. The salary of the principal was raised from $80 to $90 per month, and that of the assistants from $40 to $50. The schools will open on September 20th.

Last week Dr. Wells, assisted by Drs. Saylor and Chapman, removed a cancer from the breast of a lady inmate of Good Samaritan Hospital. The operation was a delicate one, yet performed in the most skillful and satisfactory manner. The lady will recover.—Telegram.

Telegram: An old man about seventy years of age, named James Connett, recently from Linn county, Oregon, died on the 4th inst., on the Hatley Mountain, near Dayton, where he had lived for the last five weeks, during which time he had been sick. The old gentleman was buried in this place on the 6th, by his two sons and J. L. Smith, sexton of the Grange Cemetery, there being no one else present.

The Telegram says that a party of twenty-six passed through this city (Portland) last evening, bound for Eastern Oregon. They have not decided what part of the country they will locate, but talk very strongly of Wallula. They are from Davenport, Iowa. They bring with them several fine blooded cattle and part of the company intend going into the cattle-raising business.

State Journal: Thursday afternoon a distressing accident happened near the bridge at this place, by which a son of Mr. Jarett was drowned. It appears that Mr. J., who has a boom constructed across the river for the purpose of catching posts dislodged by the late high water, was engaged in this business Thursday afternoon and his son, aged near nine years, was standing probably two-thirds of the way across the river on the boom. He was seen by his father just previous, but while Mr. Jarett's back was turned a moment he, by some mischance, fell headlong into the water, which at this place was deep and swift. On turning again toward the boom, Mr. J. at once noticed his disappearance, and although all possible haste was made to the spot, the cruel flood had already closed over his son. Word was at once passed to town, and plenty of willing hands went immediately to the river to assist in recovering the body. Search with grappling irons was carried on till 10:30 that night and next morning was continued without success. Several blasts of giant powder was exploded in the water at interval's below the boom, and at the time of going to press, 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, the body had not yet been discovered.

Mr. Watterson, we are told, was prepared to nominate Tilden on the third ballot, if Hancock hadn't been nominated on the second. Which seems to imply that Watterson had the Convention in his pocket, but it slipped out while his attention was concentrated on the platform. Well, Tilden ought to forgive him, especially after reading the platform.

Ayer's Hair Vigor;

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

It is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair,

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

SAVE YOUR FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

FARMERS, TO BECOME WEALTHY, LIKE THOSE OF FRANCE AND GERMANY, must increase their exports. We are producers as well as consumers—must produce more than we consume—and in no way can we do this more effectually than by planting good orchards of select fruits, thereby making a good and happy home for our children, and at the same time giving them useful and remunerative employment by teaching them how to preserve the great varieties of fruits and vegetables that grow upon their father's farm.

BRICK! BRICK!! BRICK!!!

HAVING LEASED MR. R. M. THOMPSON'S Brick Yard, one mile south of Corvallis, we are prepared to make first-class brick, which we will sell at the lowest possible rates. We make our brick of a first-class quality of clay, not of loam and sand, and we defy competition. Persons desiring brick will do well to give us a call. Yours truly,

ALLEN & PRICE.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. MUNN & Co. are solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, have had 35 years experience, and now have the largest establishment in the world. Patents are obtained on the best terms. A special notice is made in the Scientific American of all inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. By the immense circulation thus given, public attention is directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often easily effected.

Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can probably be obtained, by writing to MUNN & Co. We also send free our Hand Book about the Patent Laws, Patents, Caveats, Trade-Marks, their costs, and how procured, with hints for procuring advances on inventions.
