

NATIONAL REPUBLICAN TICKET. For President of the United States, JAMES A. GARFIELD, OF OHIO. For Vice President, CHESTER A. ARTHUR, OF NEW YORK. For Presidential Electors, GEO. B. CURRY, C. B. WATSON, E. L. APPLIGATE.

THE TWO MEN. There will probably be from 2,000 to 4,000 young men born in this state, who will cast their votes for a President of the United States next month.

It will be twenty years next April since the civil war was opened by the firing upon Fort Sumter in the harbor of Charleston. The firing was by order of a so-called Confederate Government.

When the news reached this far-off State that the flag had been so openly and outrageously insulted, and the brave garrison of Sumpter, with his loyal commander, Major Robert Anderson, made prisoners by a pack of howling, infuriated rebels, the man now known as Major-General Hancock was a Lieutenant Quarter-master in the regular army, and stationed at Los Angeles.

Hancock rose to the rank of a corps commander and Garfield to the rank of Major-General of Volunteers and Chief of Staff of the Army of the Tennessee. Hancock stuck to his profession, but Garfield was needed in the civil service, and he went there in 1863 or 1864.

Ohio has kept him there ever since, and he has honored his position by the most eminent services. All parties recognize him as a statesman of the highest type, and a man in every respect qualified to fill the Presidential office with dignity and ability.

The nominee of the Democratic party for Vice-President is not a very popular man among the poorer classes of the city in which he lives. He is a larger owner of Real Estate and a notoriously harsh one to his tenants.

It was the Confederate Brigadiers in Congress who twice defeated the Arrens of Pension bill by solidly voting against its passage.

ARRAIGNMENT OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY. Hon. C. J. Curtis of Portland, addressed a large and intelligent audience at Philomath, in the College Chapel, upon the political issues of the hour, Friday evening the 8th inst.

Mr. Curtis, on being introduced, proceeded in an impartial manner to place the Democratic party upon their own record, making that record condemn them in the estimation of all honest people.

He showed in a very forcible way how inconsistent the Democratic party had been, rendering them unworthy the confidence of those who honor and respect their country.

He showed how that party had tried to carry out the secession resolutions of 1878-79 and how they were in sympathy and accord with every move set on foot to break up the Federal Union; how they had fostered and perpetuated human slavery, and how they have hung like a great incubus upon all public improvements from their first organization up to the present time.

The young gentlemen portrayed in glowing terms how the Democrats opposed and denounced the war for the preservation of the Union as a failure—how they opposed the National Banking System, and how they have nominated a Union General for their candidate as President, and a President of a National Bank for Vice President.

He showed how Garfield had rose from the humblest walks in life to his present honorable and exalted position; said Garfield was in sympathy with the laboring classes because he had trod that road himself, and knew what it was to earn his living by the sweat of his brow; not so with General Hancock, for he was a military man and had been educated at the expense of the government, and had devoted all his time to military life and knew but little of the wants of the people, and less of the culture and knowledge that should characterize a statesman.

General Garfield was not a man of culture and honor he would not have been elected ten successive times from the great State of Ohio to Congress, and last to fill the place of the great Thurman in the Senate of the United States. This would seem to be vindication enough for any fair minded man.

His closing appeal to our young men to support the Republican candidate and thus help to support the principals of Freedom, perpetuated and sustained by that party, was earnest, logical, patriotic and sincere.

Mr. Curtis was frequently greeted with applause, and at the conclusion of his address an invitation was extended to all persons who wished to join the Garfield Club.

THE RECENT ELECTIONS. For several weeks past the people of the United States have been anxiously awaiting the State elections in the States of Ohio and Indiana, both parties claiming a majority and straining every nerve to verify their anticipations.

As to the majorities we are yet unable to give anything definite, as the telegrams are as yet vague and uncertain. The first battle of the Presidential campaign has been fought and the victory is in any event more decided than we could expect, when we consider that every inch of the ground has been hotly contested by the Democrats.

Latest.—Just as we are going to press we learn that the Republicans claim Ohio by twenty and Indiana by five thousand.

COMMITTEE ON COMMERCE. We are amazed to learn that any opposition has been interposed to obstruct the passage through the Senate of the bill for "Interchange of traffic by common carriers."

GENERAL GRANT IN 1884.—There is no doubt that those who so strongly advocated the nomination of Gen. Grant in 1880 have only postponed their hopes for four years and will then make a more determined effort to accomplish what they so narrowly missed at Chicago this year.

HALUCINATION OF THE BRAIN.—The Hancock Club of this city ratified again last evening. Evidently they think Hancock is going to be elected. Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise.

MATRIMONIAL.—On last Sunday Mr. William E. Kisor was married to Miss M. Ella Rice at the residence of Mr. A. H. Campbell in this city, Rev. J. Bowers officiating.

REPUBLICAN SPEAKING.—Hon. John H. Mitchell will speak at Philomath to-night on the subject of "The National Property of the Pacific Coast, and everybody who desires to hear an excellent address, will do well to attend. Let every body turn out.

DRY MAKING.—The undersigned have just opened a dressmaking establishment at the residence of Wm. McLagan, where we will be ready to make up dresses in the latest style.

THE BUSINESS MAN WHO THINKS THAT HE PERFORMS HIS WHOLE POLITICAL DUTY BY CASTING HIS VOTE IS MAKING A BLUNDER THAT HE MAY BITTERLY RUE SOME DAY.

The most healthful in the political outlook is the willingness of the Republicans to acknowledge their disappointment over the result in Maine and their eagerness to do all in their power to regain whatever has been lost.

The South controls the Congress of the Nation to-day by means of wholesale frauds in Republican States in the South. And the question is whether it shall gain complete control of the Government through frauds in Indiana and New York.

Suppose a solid Southern Congress should tack a lot of claims to an appropriation bill, would Hancock, if he were President, be strong enough and brave enough to veto the bill and stick to it?

NATIONAL REPUBLICAN PLATFORM. The following is the platform passed by the recent Republican convention held at Chicago: Republican rule has restored upon a solid basis payment in coin for all the national obligations, and has given us a currency absolutely good and equal and equal in every part of our extended country.

Without resorting to loans, it has, since the war closed, defrayed the ordinary expenses of the government, besides the accruing interest on the public debt, and disbursed annually more than $20,000,000 for soldiers' pensions. It has paid $200,000,000 of the public debt, and by reducing the national debt, it has reduced the annual interest charge, from nearly $150,000,000 to less than $80,000,000.

Second.—The construction of the United States of the supreme law, and not a mere contract of confederated states. It made a sovereign nation. Some powers are delegated to the nation, while others are retained by the states, but the boundary between the powers of each state and those reserved to the federal government is not by state tribunals.

Third.—The work of popular education is one of the chief duties of the state, but it is the duty of the national government to aid that work to the extent of its constitutional ability. The intelligence of the nation is but the aggregate of the intelligence of the individual states, and the intelligence of the nation cannot be aided by the genius of any one state, but by the average genius of all.

Fourth.—The constitution wisely forbids congress to make any law respecting an establishment of religion, but it does not forbid congress to make laws to protect against the influence of sectarianism which state is exposed to its particular domination. We therefore recommend that the constitution be amended so as to lay some prohibition upon the legislation of each state and to forbid the appropriation of the public funds to the support of sectarian schools.

SIXTH.—We reaffirm the belief avowed in 1876 that the United States is a nation, and that the people of the United States are entitled to the same rights and privileges as the people of any other nation. We therefore recommend that the constitution be amended so as to lay some prohibition upon the legislation of each state and to forbid the appropriation of the public funds to the support of sectarian schools.

SEVENTH.—That the party and patriotism which characterized the earlier career of R. B. Hayes in peace and war, and which made him a successful statesman and a successful legislator, are the qualities which should characterize every citizen of the United States, and that the principles and maxims of his administration are those which should guide every citizen of the United States.

PHYSICIANS AS WELL AS INVALIDS TO USE WITH CONFIDENCE. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that has ever been discovered. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief in every case, and is equally valuable in every age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty.
