New York, July 2.—President Garfield was shot twice at the Baltimore and Potomac rail-road deput in the city of Washington this morn-

Washington, July 2,-President Garfield is now lying in the private room in the officers headquarters of the Baltimore and Potomac deheadquarters of the Baltimore and Potomac depot. Dr. D. W. Bluss, Surgeon General Barns and Dr. Purvis, (colored) are in attgndance.

The president was shot twice, one ball entered from the rear, and is believed to have passed through the kidneys. The doctors hold out some hope of probable recovery, but it is plain that they feel but little if any hope. One shot went through the arm. The president in talking to a reporter just now, said he felt pretty strong considering his wounds, but complained of a tingling sensation in his feet as annoying his more than anything else. The man who bito more than anything else. The man who shot him wrote his name on a card as "Charle Guitteau, attorney at law, Chicago."

The president's friends rushed to him as he fell and Blaine called for Rockwell. The station agent Carnay, arrested the assassin, who said, "I did it, I am a stalwart, and Arthur is now president. Take a letter I have here to General Sherman, and he will tell you all about it." There is great excitement here. EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 2, 1:20 P. M .-

The president is somewhat restles, but is suffering less pain, pulse 112. Some nausea and vomiting has occurred. Considerable hemorage has taken place from the wound.
10:30 A. M.—The president is now being conveyed to the executive mansion under a strong guard of Metropolitan police. Two companies of regulars from Washinton barracks have been ordered out to preserve quiet. Great excitement prevails and the streets are throng excitement prevails and the streets are thronged with anxious enquirers eager to learn the condition of the president. The shooting occurred in the presence of 50 or 60 ladies. There is rumor now that the shooting was done by ex-Consul to Marseilles, Gatto, who was removed from the office. The pistol with which the firing was done is a california weapon with extremely heavy calibre, better known as the WASHINGTON, July 2, 5 P. M .- Tte president is easier but his condition is very critical. Mrs. Garfield is expected at 5:45.

CHICAGO. July 2' 5 P. M .- Special dispatches say the president is making his ante-morte statement. His pulse is so rapid it is nocessary to use morphine to keep it down.

WASHINGTON, July 2 5 P. M.—The president is a little easier, and says he suffers rather less pain just now. His mind continues uncluid-ed, and he converses freely with those at his 5:20 P. M .- Dr. Bliss says the president is 10:40 P. M.—The president's symptoms con-inue to grow more favorable, and afford better raund for hope. Absence of blood in disharge from bladder shows that organ is not njured, as had been feared.

WASHINGTON, July 3, 2 A M .- The condion of the president is very much improved Immediately after the shooting his pulse went down to 53, and his face as he was removed to the White House was of an ashen bue. His pulse has now recovered to 63, and the color returning somewhat to his face. The general symptoms moreover, denote very considerable improvement. It is not thought wise to make any jurther attempts at present to withdraw the bullet. It is difficult to determine until a thorough examination, how serious the inter nal injuries may be. The surface indications however, give good grounds for hoping that the president will rally.

New York, July 2.—A reporter called at he Fifth avenue hotel this morning about an hour after the reception of the first dispatch and sent his card to the rooms of Vice-President Arthur and ex-Senator Conkling. Word was immediately returned that the subject of the president's assassination was too serious a subject to be talked of in a moment, and neith er would be seen under any circumstances. The reporter saw Conkling in the ballway near his oom a few minutes after and when neked his opinion of the shooting begged to be excused. He said. "The news has found me so unprepared and overwhelmed with personal cares that it has almost stunned me. May God grant it may not be true. It is the most terrible incident in our history since that of Lincoln's assassination, but it it is true, may heaven help the country." Conkling then turned away the country." Conk and went to his room.

WASHINGTON, July 2 .- This morning witnessed a scene unparralled in the history of our country. The assessination of Lincoln, coming as it did, at the close of a long and desperate war, and as the last expiring three of the war. - fierce in hate and passion—was an infinitely more logical event than this horror A dumb horror seems to have taken possession of every body, and few appear to realize the situation, much less to forecast the future. A great crowd gathered almost instantly around the Baltimore and Potomac depot in which the president was shot. A hundred different and conflicting sto-ries of the manner of the chooting and of its effect spread like wild fire throughout the city. By common consent business was suspended in the shops and stores as well as in the public offices, and the population of Washington emp-tied itself into the streets and gathered at every corner to listen to the newest tales told of the tragedy. An account of the shooting given by Secretary Blaine to Judge Shellebarger this af tornoon is probably as accurate as any that can

The president and Mr. Blaine rode to the de pot this mosning in a carriage together. Mr. Blaine s ys that the president was in an unusually joyous mood and several times expressed his keen gratification that the relations between ally joyous mood and several times expressed his keen gratification that the relations between bimself and the members of his cabinet were so harmonious, and that the administration was a unit. When the erritage arrived in front of the depot the president and Mr. Blaine left it and entered the ladies waiting room, through which they passed arm in arm. Mr. Blaine says he droped the president's arm as they were passing through the door into the main room at which instant two shots were fired. Mr. Blaine saw a man running and started towards him, but turned almost impediately and saw that the president had fallen. It was then that he first realized that the shots had been fired at the president. He sprang towards him as did several others and raised his head from the floor. As the president fell be exclaimed "My God!" At this time Postmaster General James, Secretary Windom and Secretary Lincoln, who had arrived earlier at the train, were promennding on the platform outside. General James says that Colonel Jamisson of the post office department rushed out of the depot impediately after the shots were fired and exclaimed. "The president is shot!" Either the secretary or another sentleman of the party exclaimed, The president is shot!" Either the secretary or another gentleman of the party exclaimed, "Oh, nensonse." Col. Jameson said "I saw Sit." The party then rushed back and found Blaine, who appeared to be the only cool man in the crowd bending over the president and keeping the people back. Physicians were hastily rummoned and Drs. Bliss. Rybern and several others were soon in attendance. The president was removed to a room in the second story and a preliminary examination of his wongds was made, but the ball, which had entirely and a of his back near the spinal

could not be found although its course was

As soon as he fired the shot the assassin wa seized by officer Carnay and immediately hur-ried away to police headquaters. This was for-tunate for hime, for as soon as the dazed crowd agertained that the murderer was in custody there was talk of lynching him; and if the excited crowd could have laid hands on him, his Guittenu was locked up and physicians summoned. On the arrival of the prisoner at the beadquarters he was at once locked up, and word having been sent in every direction for physicians. Dr Townsend, health officer, responded and subsequently Dr. J. H. Baxter, of the army, Dr. Tell of the navy and Dr. D. W. Bliss responded. Guitteau did not throw the pistol away, but had it in his band when arrested. The crowd outside the depot seemed at a loss whether to go to police bendquarters and lynch the party but about 9,45 word came out of the room into which the president was taken that the wound on the body was not necessarily fatal, but that the hall could not be probed for until after, and that one ball had wounde him in the right arm just below the shoulder This seemed to relieve the crowd somewhat and while it became more and more dense, i quietly awated further news.

At about ten o'clock a. m. the chief of police having, after consultation with Gen. Sherman ordered out a large detail of the police force, olice ambulance was driven to the front deof the depot. The president appeared to sleeping and was deathly pale Just as he was placed in the ambulance be opened his eyes. The streets in the neighborhood of the depot were througed with people as was also the Avenue. As the president was being places in the ambulance somebody called out "Hurrah for the man that shot him," but the indignant crowd could not discover the guilty person.

A gentleman who was an eye witness the attempted assassination gives the fol-lowing account of the occurrence: "I was coming down Pennsylvania avenue when I saw a carriage coming up the avenue, the horses running so fast I thought they were running away. As the carriage arrived in front of me a man put his head out of the window and said 'Faster.' After hearing this remark I thought there was som wrong, and ran after the carriage. When it reached the depot a man jumped out and entered the ladies' room He had not been there more than three minutes when President Garfield arrived, stepped out of his carriage and entered the ladies' room. The President, after passing through the door, was just turning the corner of a seat, when the assasin, who was standing on the left of the door, fired. The ball struck the Presi-dent in the back, and he fell forward. I ran into the depot, and just then the man fired again while the President was falling. The moment the President fell a policeman who had been standing at the depot door ter firing the shot the assassin exclaimed, "I have killed Garfield. Arthur is President. I am a stalwart." While the President was lying on the floor in the ladies' waiting room he was surrounded by Secre-taries Windom, James and Blaine, Mrs. Hunt, Miss Windom and Mrs. James were also standing near the President. In three or five minutes after the shooting Dr. Buss arrived. The President was then put in bed and carried up stairs, where an examination was made by the doctors. General

Sherman then came and called an ambulance to carry the President to the White House. A spectator thus describes the removal of the president to the White House: "The president lay in the ambulance propped up with pillows and with his right arm thrown over his head. His face was ashy white, but bore a calm placid look. He seemed per-fectly conscious and opened his eyes frequently to view the surroundings. he was being carried up stairs he smiled sadly and waved his hand in recognition of friends who were gathered about him. His sufferings must have been intense, but he gave no sign of it, and was as gentle and sub-
