If you want a neat and comfortable fitting boot or shoe made of the best material and in the latest and most approved style, call at S. H. Look's boot and shoe store, you will find it.

James Bell of Junction City, while at Sodaville, Lin county, a few days ago, captured a live rattlesnake. He intends to take it to Junction and present it to one of his medical friends.

John Lewis' many customers go to and come from his City Market with their countenances beaming all over with smiles, owing to the nice steak and omelets they get there. We dropped in yesterday and found him sold out down to the shanks.

We learned from Miles T. Starr this week, a farmer residing near Monroe in this county, that the man in that locality who will probably result in considerable damage to grain crops this year. He informs us that his crop is very badly affected by it.

On Wednesday of last week while Mr. Foshey of the firm of Foshey & Mason, was driving from this place to Albany, when at Stevens' creek, about two miles north of here, he got out of the buggy for the purpose of watering the team. As soon as he let go of the lines the horse started and ran away leaving Mr. Foshey on foot and alone.

Mr. R. May, of Peoria, called upon us as the first of the present week. He reports crop in excellent condition in that vicinity, some wheat yielding 30 bushels per acre, and oats 40 to 50 bushels. He also states that one thing that Peoria needs most of all is a general store. Who will be the first one to occupy the place?

A very serious and painful accident happened to Mr. Sam'l Wood on last Friday afternoon about 4 o'clock on the farm of George Taylor, near this place, where a party were thrashing. While Mr. Wood was trying to oil the thrashing machine, he got on his left hand caught between two cog wheels and before he could extricate his hand, three of his fingers were taken off, leaving him only a thumb and index finger on his left hand. Drs. Lee and Parr were immediately called who dressed the wound, and Mr. Wood is now getting along as well as could be expected.

We call special attention to the advertisement of the Portland business college which will be found in another column. This well known school is at 18 years standing, and for its use has lately been added useful books and furniture to materially assist in imparting instruction. It is highly important that all young men and women should have a thorough, practical business education, of which this school possesses superior advantages. Inquire of Mr. J. A. Weston, lately from Illinois, whose reputation for being an expert in penmanship is well established, gives lessons in this branch. Any person wishing to attend this school can procure a scholarship at this office.

A Lamb, from Monroe was in town this week and informs us that Jess. Houck, and Daniel Hinton while out hunting about four miles from that place lately, the latter shot and killed a large yellow rattlesnake which measured about 13 inches in circumference and about 8 feet long. At first glance this appears like a large snake story but we believe it comes from a reliable source.

Our correspondent from Wells' station informs us that that place is lively with teamsters hauling wheat to the warehouse. That Franz & Connor have the contract to furnish, and are now delivering the lumber for the new church which is now being erected at that place under the workmanship of Dr. David Lentz.

Wm. Bagley, formerly agent at the Sitka Indian reservation was here on Wednesday. Mr. Bagley has taken a contract to deliver 100,000 ties for the Oregon Pacific Railroad to commence on the 1st of September, and all be completed before Dec. 1st.

Statistics show that in France there are now 100,000 lunatics, or one for every 400 inhabitants. Two-fifths of them are in public and three-fifths in private asylums. Ten madmen come from the liberal professions to one from the agricultural population. Further, it is shown that one artist in every 100 is mad, one lawyer in every 120, and one professor or man of letters in every 230.

The latest news in regard to the president's condition just before going to press is to the effect that symptoms have been growing gradually better since the last news received before this time. His stomach has gradually grown slightly stronger and approaching nearer to a normal state no more vomiting has occurred. The wound appears in good condition and the pus flowing from it is in a healthy condition.

Loos.—Between Albany and this city on last Tuesday afternoon, a silk umbrella. The finder will please leave it at this office.

Wanted.—A few more cords of wood on subscription at this office.

MACHINERY AND WHEAT DESTROYED.

There is some person, or perhaps more than one, near Monroe in this county, who will probably come to grief sooner or later for committing malicious mischief and destroying the property of others there. One day last week some of Mr. Geo. W. Houck's hired men came along where he had some sacked grain in the field where it had been left after thrashing it, when they discovered a boy about 14 years old and well known in that neighborhood in the act of chopping the sacks to pieces with a grubbing hoe.

When he found that he was discovered he picked up a part of a sack of wheat and ran to the brush with it. The men upon examination found that he had succeeded in cutting ten or a dozen of the sacks badly, and had strewn the wheat all around. They followed after him however and brought the portion of a sack back and left it with the other wheat. On the evening of the same day Mr. Houck went to the boy's home and informed his mother what had happened, and also promised to pay all damage. The next day Mr. Houck repaired to his wheat pile when he was very much surprised to find that a greater number of sacks had been again destroyed in a similar manner after his men had left it the night before. And upon going back to see the boy's parents, again he found a part of a sack of wheat on the premises.

On last Saturday afternoon on account of rain interfering, Mr. Moses Starr and Theo. Wellsher quit thrashing and left their machine standing in a field about a mile from the home of this boy. When they returned the next Monday morning to resume their work they found the belts and draper all cut to pieces on their header and many bolts had been taken out of their thrasher and thrown away. The oil had also been poured out and the can thrown away in the grass, and the level on their machine had been hammered and broken to pieces. Although no one was seen damaging the machine, yet the supposition is very strong that it was done by the same boy who destroyed Mr. Houck's wheat. The next grand jury will no doubt attend to this matter.

DEATH OF MRS. L. A. BAKER.—Mrs. Mary Banks, wife of Rev. L. A. Banks, died at their home in Vancouver, W. T., on last Friday from the effects of peripneural fever, at the age of 23 years. She leaves two motherless children, one of them about two years of age and the other only a few days old, a grief stricken husband, and father, mother and brother, and many sorrowful friends who mourn her loss. She was the daughter of Mr. David Millholland, who resides in Linn county, about three miles from this place. On last Saturday the remains of the deceased were brought by boat from the place of her death to East Portland, from thence to Albany by rail, and from there to her parental home where her body was laid away in its last resting place in the family burying ground near the old homestead where she passed her childhood days, and grew to womanhood, so soon to depart and never return.

MIRROR OF IRELAND.—Dan Sullivan's "Mirror of Ireland" and Comely Company are to be in Corvallis on the 24th and 25th of August, where they will entertain the public at Hamilton's hall. Their entertainment is thus spoken of by the S. F. Post: "The Mirror of Ireland" is a very excellent entertainment, of a purer school than the public generally patronizes, but as bright and lively as can be wished for. Mr. Dan Sullivan and his wife are the life of the play which is illustrated by a hundred excellent views of Irish scenery. The moonlight effects on the Lakes of Killarney are exceptionally good, and the allegorical pictures of Ireland in her glory and in her captivity are most effective. Mr. Sullivan as Marshal Pate is nightly encored, as is also Geo. F. Moore in the character of Simple Simon.

KICKED BY A HORSE.—A very dangerous and perhaps fatal accident happened to John Wrenn on last Monday at his farm about two miles east of this place. While attempting to hitch a colt which was breaking to the wagon, it became fractious and kicked at him with both hind feet, one foot striking him between the eyes and along down on the nose, breaking in and mashing that organ flat, so much so that when he breathed the blood flowed through the aperture caused by the blow, between the eyes and also from the ears. The other foot struck him on the chin making a severe cut. At last accounts it was thought his recovery was very doubtful.

Jesse Spencer and J. S. Moore on last Tuesday purchased the barber shop and good will of the business from T. J. Buford of this place. They will continue to conduct the same hereafter under the firm name of Moore & Spencer at the old stand. Connected with their shop is a very comfortably arranged bath department where they will serve their hot and cold tubs to cleanse the outer man. These gentlemen are industrious and efficient workmen and deserve the patronage of the public. We wish them a profitable journey on their road to success. Look for their business ad. in next week's GAZETTE.

Mr. J. B. Horner, who formerly published the "Crest" at Philomath, and who is now in the bank under the employ of Baker & Boer at Walla Walla, is now visiting with his wife at her father's, Mr. E. Skipton, in this county. Mr. Horner called upon us lately and informed us that his visit shall end in about three weeks, at which time he shall return to Walla Walla to resume his duties in the bank.

Dr. Heslop's picture gallery will be found a desirable place of business for all persons who want any thing in that line. His work is done in the best artistic style and at very low prices. For further particulars, we call attention to his standing ad., under head of new this week.

Ben White, August Hodes, N. B. Avery and Dave Irvin started for the mountains the first of the week, and when about 15 miles from town their team concluded they had gone far enough, and would go no further, so they had to turn around and come back.

FROM NEWPORT.

The tug Gen'l Wright returned on the 10th day from Astoria with a donkey engine for heating stone at the tramway, now completed with a double track, and within a few days brush and stone will be carried to the front.

The Onesta mills are undergoing thorough repairs, preparatory to saving the necessary lumber for wharf and warehouses for the Oregon Pacific railroad.

Everybody remembers how D. C. Ireland went down to the sounding sea and established the Astorian. How for years he fought the wave of monopoly, and how his efforts failed and it became necessary to treat with the enemy. Well in a short time the public will learn of a change and another weight, one of many required to break the strong will of the people will be added to the corporation. Not many months will elapse before the tug monopoly of Flavel will pass into the control of the O. R. & N. company. This will not lessen towage on the Columbia river, but from the day that transportation on that river passes into the hands of Willard, the public interested in the improvement of harbors and rivers will find an enemy, one that will represent to those representing the people the uselessness of further expenditures on the part of the government in opening channels of trade. Why should Comalle, Coose, or Yaquina Bay ask for assistance when the great Columbia with its immense business asks for none? And for all purposes of the O. R. & N. Co. the Columbia will need nothing. The river in its shallowest place is deep enough for the company's steamers and tugs.

At the first glance this does not seem serious, but recollect that last winter the Oregonian characterized the improvement of the Cascade locks as a "useless waste of money." Whenever the shipping interests cease to demand cheaper towage, and pilotage the press will be as silent as the grave, and there is precious little worth buying in the way of vessels but are now owned by the one company.

The Willamette valley is vitally affected by this condition of things. Opposition as contemptible as it was bitter marked the progress of the O. R. & N. and the improvement of this harbor. Success in both only intensify the desire to injure and retard enterprise. Every exertion possible will be made to cripple the engineer department and prevent the construction of a jetty.

The people have now a certainty of a railroad, and the assurance of a harbor if money can be had to continue the work. The railroad establishes the commercial interests to be observed, and while the public should never cease urging every influence far and near; by letter, petition and argument, the government to aid in this important work. Nothing in our opinion would so completely cover all points as a contribution from the farmers of sufficient means to carry on the work this winter to keep intact the jetty already in place and add as much to it as possible. A very small sum, considering the great benefit to be derived, would answer the purpose.

Certainly no stronger argument could be presented to Congress, and this is of the greatest consequence when we know the nature of the opposition. I am in hopes the valley papers to whom we owe so much in the past, will take the matter up and consider the points at issue. RIALTO, Newport, August 14, 1881.

It rumored that a few nights ago at about midnight a few masked men might have been seen emerging from different parts of the town who in concert congregated for a common purpose. It was found however the next morning that Big Six, the well known fire engine of this place, had been taken from the engine house where she had been kept long and moved across the street into a private building. This engine has been manned by Monumental Engine company for some time, it having been organized for that purpose. When this company found that their engine had been moved so quietly and without license, license or authority they became quite indignant, and very justly so, because the engine stood in the building which was originally built by the city for the sole purpose of housing it. It is said that Monumental Engine Company may disband on account of this interference. It is to be hoped they will not do so, because some parties have performed an unauthorized and ill advised act. The parties who moved the engine no doubt did it as a joke and without thinking of the significance of what they were doing. Such a joke however ought not to be repeated, for it is always best for all persons to keep their hands off from that which does not belong to them unless authorized from the proper source to do otherwise.

Mrs. Potts, the widow of the late Theodore Potts, who lost his life by the unfortunate accident to the steamer Gold Dust, says that he was not a fireman, but had been a licensed engineer for a dozen years. He did not deliberately jump overboard, but the scalding steam coming into the small space occupied by the engineer, either burst the door open and threw him out, or forced him to escape as best he could, and in the attempt to escape in the blinding, scalding steam, he fell overboard. His death is as likely to have been produced by scalding as by drowning.—Telegram.

The last news before going to press in regard to the condition of John Wrenn, who was lately kicked in the face by a horse is to the effect that he is no better and not likely to recover. Yesterday morning he appeared much better but later in the day he grew much worse and thus continues.

Dr. Heslop's picture gallery will be found a desirable place of business for all persons who want any thing in that line. His work is done in the best artistic style and at very low prices. For further particulars, we call attention to his standing ad., under head of new this week.

Ben White, August Hodes, N. B. Avery and Dave Irvin started for the mountains the first of the week, and when about 15 miles from town their team concluded they had gone far enough, and would go no further, so they had to turn around and come back.

PHILOMATH.

One of our oldest citizens said the other day that Philomath had grown within the last few years far beyond his most sanguine expectations: But a short time since the town was composed of one store, blacksmith shop, the college and a few dwellings. Now we have two large dry goods stores, one drug store, one harness shop, two butcher shops, four blacksmith shops, and about 300 inhabitants.

The church and educational advantages are second to none in the state. A large and well conducted Sabbath school is kept up the year around.

The town is located among the hills and surrounded with a well-to-do farming class, and commands a splendid view of the Coast Range and Cascade mountains, the Willamette valley and some of the richest scenery in the world.

Dr. Benson from Illinois, an old neighbor and friend of Charley Logsdon, while here on a visit expressed himself as being delighted with the town, country and especially with our mild and healthy climate. The Dr. and Mr. Logsdon went to top of Mary's peak and from that lofty spot beheld some of the grandest scenery the eyes rested upon.

The reports that has so long agitated Philomath will now be submitted to the courts for a thorough legal investigation, and the public will have an opportunity to know whether there is any truth in the slanderous reports that have been so liberally published to the world.

J. A. Henkle is building a nice residence in the east part of town which will be an ornament to the place.

We can already feel the impress of the railroad upon the business of the country. CORRESPONDENT.

TWO OR MORE SURGEONS.
