We are in an awful fix; inexorable busi ess demands the attendance of both proprietors of this paper in court this week, and there is an apparent "goneness" about our office. The senior's brogans are missed from their wonted place at an angle of forty-five degrees above the corner desk; the junior's briarwood pipe reclines listlessly upon the table before which his vacant tripod and upholstering of all kinds, picture frames stands, and the editorial mantle falls crushingly upon the shoulders of the generally useful sub-local middle-man of the office. With courageous timidity we assume the honors, but the plethoric senior's chair don't fit us and the desk won't hold our pedals. A Portland man recently went to see his The junior's fighting boots grin at us from the farther corner as if to tantalize as with our helplessness when the irate comes, for we can't wear them. The obstreperous seissors fail to find us what we want, and as we vainly rack our brain for the cintilations of genius which we thought dwelt there, the printer, with satanic delight, born of early apprenticeship, glides in and gent'y whispers 'copy,' and thus we enjoy the first extatic thrill of editorial bliss.

> LOOK OUT FOR TRAMPS.—Last Tuesday as Lewis Edwards was on his way to his team hitched on Front St., intending to start for home, he discovered a tramp abstracting a blanket from his hack, which he dropped over the river bank upon some brush beneath. Not relishing this clandestine way of borrowing things Mr. Edwards hunted up the Marshal and had the fellow arrested, but finding it necessary to remain over night in order to prosecute the case he let him go again rather than be detained. We hope the next time that fellow tries his game he may be less fortunate in getting off."

EDITORS GAZETTE:-Permit me a hearing through a small space in your paper, as I wish to speak to the members of Monumenttime to hunt tnem up. First, then, what are we going to do! We have now been ofganized over seven months and we have not meetin, s past and last month we did not meet at all: and some members now say that is the last of the company. The only excuse I have heard for it is finding fault about the way our engine was moved, and they don't care what becomes of the company because we failed to get any satisfaction about it, &c. Now, to be sure that was not means of getting satisfaction we ought to have it, but to leave the matter where it is last week, bringing $35,25. won't end it in my opinion. If the bell calls us out one of these stormy nights, with no lights about our engine or any provided anywhere, and two-thirds or more of our members fail to put in an appearance at the fire, the probability is that we all run more or less risk of accidents for want of better discipline, and besides, as regular firemen we are liable to answer to the fire board for non appearance at the fire, to say nothing of criticism and censure. Next Monday night is our regular meeting night and let

NEEDS ENCOURAGEMENT. - A Young People's Christian Association has been formed and their first regular meeting is to be held at the Evangelical church next Saturday evening at half past six o'clock. There is an abudance of room and good material to work upon in this line in our city and we are glad to see such steps inaugurated. The deceased was born in Chany Valley, Chenango county, in the state of New York on the 27th day of Jan., 1792, where he was raised, and in 1811 was married to Miss Jane Garlinghouse, who died only four years ago on the 10th day of last December. While quite a young man he removed from the place of his birth with his young wife to the state of Kentucky, from whence he went to Ohio and from there in 1839 to Iowa. After remaing in the latter state until 1848, he started from there across the plains with his family, arriving in the fall of that year in the Willamette valley, where he with a few others in those pioneer days, formed the Belknap settlement, where he has ever since lived and where he finally passed away. He was the father of seven children, six of whom survive him. At the time of his death he had remained a consistent member of the M. E. Church for 66 years, and had lived to see his fourth generation. For several years before his death he had been affected through the kidneys and hips to such an extent that it was quite inconvenient for him to travel around comfortably and on last Saturday at 12 o'clock, noon, he passed away without any further apparent
