It makes more room for my gout and corns, besides being a good habit for a young lady to become addicted to. Always pander to this habit and you will in time find yourself walking through green meadows and beside the still waters of self-respect. You Oregon, may be walking alone, to be shure, but will have fewer lawn dresses to do up ou Monday morning. I wish to speak to you of your mother. It may be you have noticed a careworn look upon her face lately. Of course it has not been brought there by any act of yours, still it is your duty to chase it away. I don't mean for you to run at and shake your skirts hep, por do I expect you to get on the other side of the fence and throw old oyster cans and pieces of barrel staves at it, as you did at the cow yesterday. But I want you to get up to-morrow morning and git breakfast, and when your mother comes down and begins to express her surprise go right up to her and kiss her on the mouth. You don't imagine how it will brighten up her dear face. Besides you owe her a kiss or two. Away back when you were a little girl she had kissed you when no one else was tempted by your fever-stained breath and swollen face. You were not as attractive then as you are now. And along through those years of childish sunshine and shadows she was ready to ago. cure, by magic of a mother's kiss, the little, dirty, chubby, hands whenever they were injured in those first skir mishes with the rough old world. And then the midnight kisses with which she has routed so many bad dreams, as she leaned above your restless pillow, have all been on interest these long, long years. Of course, she is not so pretty and lovable as you are, but if you had done your share of the work during these last ten years the contrast would not be so marked. Her face has more wrinkles than yours, far more, and yet if you were sick that face would appear to you to be more beautiful than an angel's as it hoverd over you, watching every opportunity to minister to your comfort, and every one of those wrinkles would seem to be bright wavelets of sunshine, chasing each other over the dear old face. She will leave you one of these days. Those burdens if not lifted from her shoulders, will Francisco and Puget Sound for break her down. Those rough, hard trading schooners. hands that have done so many un necessary things for you will be crossed upon her lifeless breast. Those neglected lips that you gave your first baby kiss will be forever closed, and those sad, tired eyes will have opened in eternity, and then you will appreciate your mother; but it will be to late. There, there, the equator, sucks the head of a don't cry; she has not left you yet, rattan cane, squints with dreamy independent movements in the States she is down in the kitchen stringing looking eye through airy glasses, beans for dinner, and if you feel so wears No. 5 boots on No. 6 feet, badly you might go down and finish sports a double-breasted watch chain them, and let her change her dress to which is anchored a $4 watch, and rest an hour before dinner. ### ASTORIA LETTER.

A correspondent to the New Tacoma Ledger says: Occasionally I have a chance to pick up additional items of evidence touching the extravagance of the port charges in this river against shipping. They can only be obtained in peice-meal, and may as well be used as received. which will not prevent their use collectively in the future; and as this testimony, coming from the parties who are themselves out and injured. is usually accompanied with their free expressions of opinion, we may keep informed apace with the kind of representations that are made by them to the ship owners of the world to the just detriment of the Portland shipping interest. Capt. Paige, of the British bark Astrican, whose partial statement of his impressions and of the difficulties and expenses met with has heretofere been given, remarked to me the other day that "judging fron the charts it would appear to be dangerous for a ship to sail in or out over the bar, but that he was thorougly convinced there was really great danger in such an attempt. As a consequence, ship masters bound here for the first time who are uninformed are liable to run the risk. Morever the tugs offering their services here are too small and not of sufficient power." As to the expenses incurred by him: He had called on and been furnished by his owners with a draft for $6'000, of 1.
