WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.) Washington, D. C., April 8.

The new cabinet nominations which have been so long anticipated, have at last been made. That of Senator Teller for the Interior Department will be confirmed without opposition by the Senate. Mr. Chandler for the Navy Department, it is also thought, will be confirmed, but not without opposition. Mr. Chandler was born at Concord, New Hampshire, in 1835. He graduated at the Harvard Law School and began the practice of law in 1856. He has been a member of the Legislature several times, and was, for two years, Speaker of the House. In March, 1865, he was appointed by President Lincoln the first solicitor and judge advocate general of the Navy Department. In June following he was made first assistant Secretary of the treasury, and held the office for nearly two years. He was Secretary of the National Republican Committee during the Grant campaign of 1868, in 1876 he was counsel for the Hayes electors in Florida; and, it may be said that, if it had not been for his presence in Florida during the count, Hayes would not have been President. He was the head of the Blaine delegation from New Hampshire at the last Chicago convention.

Senator Henry M. Teller, who has been nominated to succeed Secretary Kirkwood, is a native of Allegheny county, N. Y., and is now fifty-two years old. He practiced law in his own State, and afterwards removed to Illinois, where he resided four years prior to his residence in Colorado, which dates from 1861. Upon the admission of Colorado as a state, he was elected to the United States Senate, which is the first public office he ever held. During the present session, he has been chairman of the committee on pensions, and also a member of the judiciary, claims, railroad committees.

The reasons for the removal of Secretary Kirkwood seem to be that he is old and very slow in the transaction of business. Secretary Hunt of the Navy has been sick much of the time, and unable to attend to the duties of the department. He has been appointed minister to Russia, where he will have nothing to do but to maintain the dignity of his position, which he can do quite as well as his predecessors Curtin, Jewell, and Stoughton. Few men can carry more dignity than Judge Hunt besides he speaks French fluently, which is an important consideration at St. Petersburg.

Since I began writing I have learned that Senator Teller has been confirmed; and, if Mr. Chandler shall be confirmed, President Arthur's cabinet by his own appointment will be completed, with the exception of the present Secretary of war, Robert Lincoln, who remains the only cabinet officer appointed by Garfield. The first appointment by the present executive was Judge Folger as Secretary of the Treasury, and this appointment was followed by those of Freylinghuysen, Brewster, Howe, Teller, and Chandler.

The House is still debating the tariff commission bill. The presidential count bill passed the Senate yesterday without amendment. The bill to improve the Potomac river front, which affects the interest of the district in a greater degree than any measure that has been before Congress for years, will come up on Monday. Mr. Farley introduced a bill in the Senate yesterday to execute certain treaty stipulations. It is identical with the vetoed bill except that the term of suspension is made sixteen years.

The Pig Iron Product of the United States.

The pig iron product of any country is a very good measure of the progress of the country. Judged by the increase in product last year the progress was very satisfactory. The Chicago Journal of Commerce gives the following: "The total production of pig iron in the United States last year was 4,144,252 gross tons, compared with 3,835,191 tons in 1880, an increase of about 8 per cent. Pig iron was made last year in 26 states and territories, California, Colorado and Washington Territory producing the metal for the first time. The North Carolina furnaces also produced pig iron for the first time since 1877. The largest increase in tons was in Pennsylvania, which produced 1,075,555 net tons more than in 1880. Nearly all of this increase was in Allegheny county. But the largest percentage of increase was in Virginia, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Illinois, Michigan, Connecticut, Minnesota, and Oregon—the last two states, of course, producing but little pig iron in either year. Of 701 furnaces in the United States on December 31, 1880, there were 446 in blast and 255 out of blast; of 710 furnaces on December 31, 1881, there were 457 in blast and 253 out of blast. The stocks of pig iron unsold in the hands of makers or their agents on the 31st of December, 1881, amounted to 210,695 net tons against 456,658 tons at the close of 1879. In 1881 there were built 25 new furnaces in the United States. The building of 23 other furnaces was begun but not completed. In the same year 12 furnaces were abandoned. During the year the probable consumption was 4,982,565 gross tons, an increase of about 1,000,000 gross tons. About one-third of this increase was used in the production of Bessemer steel; the remainder was required to supply the miscellaneous iron and steel works of the country.

Wheat Markets.

The Journal of Commerce says: San Francisco will, within two or three years at most, have to handle sixty million bushels of wheat yearly, where it had previously to handle not more than sixteen at the greatest and where last year it had only about thirty-six million bushels to dispose of. There will be a jump from last year's figures of over 20,000,000 bushels. And it will not stop here, for with the spread of cultivation the product will increase year by year, how fast, it would hardly be safe to set a limit to, considering what has been done in that way in the past. From 1874 to 1880, that is in six years, it doubled; it also doubled in the preceding years. Suppose it takes the longer period to double, the wheat crop of the State would be 112,000,000 bushels in 1888, or six years hence; let it take ten years, and it would have reached that figure in 1890. The wheat crop of the coast, which San Francisco would have to handle, would be in the same year probably 130,000,000 bushels. Of this not more than 20,000,000 bushels could be consumed on the coast, so that there would be 110,000,000 bushels to get rid of by export, or about 70,000,000 bushels more than California and Oregon shipped in 1880. This is equal to from 4 1/2 to 3 per cent of the total wheat crop of the world to-day.
