Call and see them.

Messrs. Preston and Chapman during the present week again met with the misfortune to lose their dray horse. He no doubt died with the disease so common to horses throughout the country which has been the cause of taking so many away.

There will be an open temperance meeting of the citizens of Corvallis at the city hall, on the evening of the 15th inst. Short speeches, music, readings, etc., will be the order of the evening. Everybody is cordially invited to be present and participate.

"It that you darling," said an up town young man as he kissed his prospective future mother-in-law, while passing through a lonely hall in the house during the twilight thinking that he was impressing a flop of the lip on the crimson cheek of his sweet heart.

Mr. Perry Eddy our new assessor has been in town during the last few days looking after the interests of the county in the way of getting ready to assess our citizens. We learn that he commenced during the week down in the southern part of the county.

The very fine weather of the last few days has induced many of our garden making people to enter upon the preliminary steps to cultivating the small vegetables; while the small boy takes his rod and line and departs for the river bank for the purpose of catching the lubby chub.

Mr. John Benson long and favorably known in this vicinity, recently returned from a trip to Illinois the place of his old home to visit relatives and friends. He was not gone long. He found things much changed and did not admire the storms and tornadoes. He had a very pleasant trip but the expense of the trip and the recent freeze here which killed all his fall sown grain he thinks will require him to adopt retrenchment and reform.

Genuine pebble spectacles and eye glasses or sale at P. P. Greflor.

Miss S. A. Roberts of Portland, has been in town during the week visiting friends.

W. S. McFadden visited Salem this week and returned home on last Wednesday. He thinks the supreme court now convened at that place will commence trying cases from this district next week.

Held for Manslaughter. A decision was rendered by Judge Moreland in the police court in the case of Frank Wheeler, charged with killing Fred Swartz, says the Oregonian.

The matter was thoroughly inquired into by his honor, and all authorities and cases cited were examined. The judge could not find in the testimony taken that there was any motive in Wheeler's action other than would be exhibited in an ordinary quarrel, nor that Wheeler premeditated the killing of anyone.

It was pretty clearly established that Wheeler drew his pistol to shoot Phalon, and that he had no idea whatever of shooting Swartz, and that the latter was killed by a stray bullet, which was accidentally discharged in the scuffle between Phalon and Wheeler, though the testimony on this point was quite conflicting, one witness swearing positively that Phalon struck Wheeler with a chair, thereby discharging the pistol, and another eye witness testifying that there was no chair in the room.

After weighing the testimony carefully the judge thought he could not hold Wheeler on a higher charge than manslaughter, and so ordered, with bail fixed at $5000 to answer before the grand jury. Up to a late hour last night Wheeler had not furnished the required bonds.

Medical Lectures. Mrs. Anna M. C. Potts M. D., who commences a series of lectures on Physiology, health and disease, at Hamilton's Hall, on Tuesday evening next, is the recipient of so many favorable press notices that we feel assured the citizens of Corvallis have a veritable treat in store for them.

The Oregonian of a recent date says: "It is not often that our people are presented with an opportunity of listening to a course of lectures of such superior merit and real practical worth. The lady in speaking of a sound body, enumerated the following truths, that there is a law that all moving bodies change without attention. All animated nature must wear out. Her remarks upon tobacco and alcohol and their serious effects were especially striking and commendable. The lectures were full of good sound sense expressed in a way that everyone can understand. Dr. Potts has proven herself a dramatist of high order. The applause during the lecture was frequent and prolonged, coming in very appropriately. Her private letters to ladies are spoken of in a most enthusiastic manner and are regularly attended by our best ladies."

We advise everybody to attend Monday evening's lecture. Remember the first lecture is free.

Demented. Wm. Ballard, aged 27, unmarried, with a cloth around his head and no coat on his back, crossed the ferry Monday evening from Benton county, and entered Albany says the Democrat.

He acted insanely, and so was captured and taken care of overnight. Tuesday morning he was examined and found of unsound mind, and at noon was taken to East Portland by Sheriff Humphrey. This is Wm's second offense, he having been released from the asylum last December. He is evidently the victim of an abuse which is filling our insane asylum, and while there are several sparks of intelligence left in his brain, he is most terribly weak, intellectually and physically, and probably will receive the treatment he needs under the excellent care of Dr. Rafferty.

Another Pioneer Gone. The many friends of Mr. Henry Hays throughout Lane and Linn counties will regret to learn of his death, although he had lived to a good old age, having been born in Hardon county, Tennessee, in 1810, says the Eugene Journal.

Those who knew him best were his best friends. He moved to Oregon with his family from the State of Missouri, in 1852, and located in Lane county where he has ever since resided up to his death on the 28th ultimo. He leaves an aged wife and seven children. Those who knew him will bear us out in the statement that he was a true type of a good and noble man.

A Bold Burglary. One of the boldest cases of burglary we have heard of occurred last Sunday afternoon in this city, says the Albany Democrat. It was a beautiful afternoon and Mr. Ed Zeys and family about four o'clock, with nearly everybody else in the city, took a walk, locking all their doors before they left.

On returning at about five they found their back door open with the marks of a pick-ax in the side, where it had been pried open, and the pick on the piazza. They immediately investigated matters and found that the burglar had taken $35 in money which he had broken open a drawer to get, and a $30 silver watch, which he found in Mr. Zeys' working clothes.

Railroad Work. The Hulbert R. R. surveyors are making preparations to commence work on the Siskiyou mountain at the Oregon boundary, for the purpose of making a definite survey and location for the proposed tunnel, upon which drilling will be commenced, just as soon as the snow disappears to permit.

The Ashland Tidings says the O. & C. railroad has a grant that extends south to the State line, and includes much good land in a rough state in the foot hills of the cascades and coast ranges. These lands are sold at a reasonable price, on long time and accommodating terms. The land office of the company is Portland, Or.

School Officers. Districts, that have not secured teachers for the coming Spring and Summer terms, can be assisted in securing them by writing to me. Inform me the day of opening your school, and the length of term to be taught so that I will know when to visit the school.

E. A. MILNER, County Superintendent.

Land Office Business. The following is the business of the Oregon Land Office for the month of February, says the Platitudiner.

7029 acres sold for $180,000; 18 homestead entries embracing 2687 acres; 9 fiscal homestead proofs embracing 1415 acres; 24 preemption filings and 5 entries under the timber land law.

School Meeting. The annual school meeting in the lower district in this place resulted in electing John W. Moore director for a term of three years and E. Holgate clerk for one year.

By a vote of the meeting it was decided to have a free school as long as the public money lasted and during the rest of the year let the teachers collect their rate bills.

Lost. A memorandum book was lost last Sunday between G. B. Smiths residence, south of Corvallis, and that of James Cooper about three miles west. The book contained a wheat receipt for about 1500 bushels and a few postage stamps and some memorandums. The finder will please leave the same at the GAZETTE office or Jacobs & Neugebauer's store.

Pneumonia. Mr. Henry Keese has been quite low for several days with Pneumonia. His younger brother has also been quite sick for several days but both are getting better. Their father John Keese has also been dangerously afflicted and is not improving. It has been thought by the attending physician that his recovery is doubtful. Eddy North residing with Mrs. Cook has also been expected not to live for several days. They are all affected with the same disease.

Rapid Repeaters. The way to let your wants be known is to advertise in the GAZETTE. When we arrived home one evening last week we found already in our coop a lot of those nice hens placed there by C. B. Wells who discovered our appetite for chickens by means of a small ad calling for relief. If any hens in the world will lay 3 eggs per day we feel that these are the kind because they seem to be finely adjusted to meet the wants of humanity and bear the indications of rapid repeaters.

Appointment. Governor Moody on last Thursday appointed J. C. Church, of the firm of Robinson and Church, Eugene, county judge of Lane county, says the Statesman.

From what we can learn the appointment of Mr. Church is as good a selection as could be made in Lane county.

Gov. Moody has been fortunate so far in his appointments, as far as we have been able to learn, and we expect to be able to refer to the administration of Mr. Moody as one which all future administrations might do well to emulate. So far he has been the governor of Oregon, not that of some faction or clique, as has been too often the case in the past.

KILLED ACCIDENTALLY. A Man Shot by the Premature Discharge of a Gun at Marshallfield, Coos County.

On Sunday afternoon, February 25, Andrew Hendrickson was shot and instantly killed by William Phillips, superintendent of the Eastport Coal mine, at a shooting gallery in Marshallfield. Between four and five o'clock in the afternoon there were several parties in the gallery, among them William Brown, Andrew Hendrickson and William Phillips, and previous to the shot that killed Hendrickson, H. P. Whitney came along and called Mr. Phillips outside on some private business. Wm. Brown stepped outside and asked Mr. Phillips to shoot with him at the target. Mr. Phillips took the first shot which struck near the bull's eye.

Brown then shot and came a little higher up. Then Mr. Phillips loaded the gun the second time. In the act of loading the gun he turned around to press the cartridge home, when it accidentally went off, and the ball lodged in Mr. Hendrickson's body through or near the stomach. He was sitting on the window sill at the time, and jumped up when hit, but fell to the floor. Mr. Phillips was in front of Mr. Hendrickson and to the right, in the act of turning around when the shot was fired. It was necessary either to back up or turn around to get to the eighteen yard range. He was in the act of raising the gun up when it went off, at the same time pressing the cartridge home and stepping back to take his position to shoot.

Justice Hyde held an inquest and the jury rendered a verdict to the effect that the shooting was the result of carelessness.

Real Estate in Portland. Mr. A. J. Young lately of this place but recently moved to Portland made his appearance in our town last Tuesday after train arrival. He gives a glowing account of Portland's business and prospects. The real estate interests are booming there but he claims that there is no excitement in the matter. He says it is daily occurrence to see men of all sizes and kinds carefully examining all portions of Portland where any vacant lots are to be found and when one of them comes to a nice unimproved lot he will look at it carefully from every standpoint and if it suits his idea of choice property he will forthwith produce a map of the city and after finding therefrom who it belongs to he immediately makes his way down town to some real estate dealers office and negotiates for the purchase of the lot and then perhaps he will return to select another piece and so on. Mr. Young is pleased with his new business and will return soon after transacting some business which he came here on purpose to attend to.

Business. Annual account filed in the guardianship of Chester N. Terry and Schuyler C. Ford, also in the heirs of J. M. Moore.

COUNTY BUSINESS. License to sell liquor in less quantities than one quart granted to Gib Powers' place of business, Monroe.

Wm. M. McLagan allowed $25 for repairing Mary's river bridge at Corvallis.

Sold Out. The Yakima Sentinel says: Our genial friend Wilbur F. Canthron is about to leave us for good or bad and locate elsewhere. He has sold his entire property, consisting of his fine ranch on "Parker Bottom," near here on the Yakima; a band of some 200 head of cattle, and various other stock and farming utensils, to Warren J. Bowman, from Payalleville, near Tacoma.

Sold and Will Remain. Jas. T. Phillips formerly of this town recently sold his farm situated a few miles southwest of here to Mr. Skipton. He intends to make a sale in a few weeks for the purpose of disposing of his personal property after which he intends moving to Eastern Oregon where he will engage in the sheep business.

Heavy Sale. Mr. A. B. Richardson recently sold at auction, at Oregon City, the Everding & Beebe farm near Milwaukie, Clackamas county, consisting of 330 acres, for the sum of $35,600, the purchaser being Mr. Richard Scott.

Onseta Items. Captain Winant is here with railroad iron. He unloaded last Saturday and has gone to Chitwoods mill for a load of lumber.

The weather is the finest I ever saw here at this season of the year.

MARRIED. BAKER-ROGERS-At the residence of John Baker, on Wednesday afternoon, W. W. Baker and Miss Mary Rogers.

The officiating clergyman was Prof. Emery of the Agricultural college. A large number of guests from town and country were present.

BORN. LONG-A daughter on last Monday was born to the wife of Mr. John Long near Corvallis.

THE PISTOL AT MARSHFIELD. A Saloon Keeper Assaults a Man and is Shot Dead.

The Marshallfield, Coos county, News gives an account of the killing of Charles Strand, proprietor of the Palace saloon of that place by Peter Poo, on Thursday morning, February 22d. It appears that on the previous day a difficulty arose between them and $20 bet on a game of cards, and angry words were indulged in. They then separated, leaving the dispute unsettled, and undoubtedly entertaining ill feelings toward each other. On Thursday morning Poo, duly sober, walked into the Palace saloon, took one drink and sat down by the stove, while Strand, on seeing Poo enter, went to the wood shed and procured a "salmon club" which he had whittled out for "the occasion, and which was made of fir timber. He then walked with his left hand, raised the club with his right, while Poo retreated a few feet, till stopped by Strand, who was about to strike, when Poo discharged his revolver, the ball entering Strand's left breast just above the collar bone, severing the common carotid artery and cutting the wind pipe, causing death in a few minutes. After hearing all of the evidence and the argument of the attorneys, the prisoner was discharged, the evidence clearly showing that the killing was done in self defense.

Wells Items. Farmers still wear long faces and look solemn when spoken to about their wheat crops.

Mr. Reidler has several hundred bushels of wheat for which he expects to realize fancy prices.

The festive duck and the quardom goose are disappearing from our swamps; and the boys now "sally" out in vain. By the way I do not know whether that word "sally" is used adverbially or not; perhaps "sally" out in vain would be a better expression.

I learn that Mr. Childers came near being mobbed on account of one of my items last Musto in Philomath. Probably no other little town engages so earnestly in the cultivation of good music as Philomath.

On Monday evenings a class meets in one part of town, on Tuesday evenings a male quartette meets at the house of one of the citizens; on Wednesday evenings a class in vocal music meets at another place in town. On all the other evenings of the week the time is taken up by the band or some of the classes above mentioned.

Organ, guitar, violin and cornet are to be heard everywhere at almost all times. Prof. Jones has vocal classes, instrumental classes, teaches the brass band, composes his own music, and does all he can; but always has more than he can do. Mention ought to be made of a composition, offered in a modest way to the public at our last public rhetorical, and done originally by Prof. Jones. It was played as a duet by two of his class.

It was good and deserves a dedication far more than much of the sheet music bought of publishers. The Cantata of the Month and Seasons will not be offered at the close of the present college term. The books seem too slow in coming; but we trust that so good a thing is only postponed.

DUN ROBIN. Proceedings County Court March 1933. Probate Matters.

Final account filed in the estate of James L. Mulkey deceased. Hearing set forth April 7th 1933 at 10 o'clock A. M.

Hearing final account in the case of the guardianship of John D. Mulkey deceased set for April 7th next.

Final account in estate of Wm. F. Brewer set for hearing April 7th 1933.

Estate of Wm. B. Carter deceased 2nd semi-annual account filed, also petition to sell real estate filed in same case and citation to heirs to issue for hearing 2nd day of April.

Annual account filed in the guardianship of Chester N. Terry and Schuyler C. Ford, also in the heirs of J. M. Moore.

I learn that Mr. Childers came near being mobbed on account of one of my items last week; some of the parties taking exceptions to what was said about their visiting Portland. Now I simply aimed to pay them a compliment, and if my language was ambiguous, I am sorry for it and I certainly do not want Mr. Childers, or any one else, to bear the blame of my blunders.

Mr. Cam. Vanderpool's Chimenen fulfilled the scriptural injunction last week, by taking up their beds and walking. They have gone to procure work on the railroad. They grubbed about four acres of land for Valentine's day.

Valentines day laid the foundation for several personal encounters here, and you need not be surprised to hear of some of our most estimable young men wearing badges of mourning over their eyes. "Oh was some power his giftie giv' us," etc.

There was an oyster supper at Joseph Myers last Saturday evening, when our young people had a whole patch of fun, and don't you forget it. The following are snapshots of conversation overheard by your correspondent:

Emma when I think of you, sensations of unutterable joy caper over my heart, like young goats over a stable roof, and thrill through like spanish needles through a pair of too linen trousers.

Perry Carter-My darling language fails to convey anything like half of my love for you, and I shall have to wait for a new dictionary to be published.

John Middleton-Sweetest, that panther made me a little shaky for a while but the swift current of my love flows on as smoothly as ever, and nothing can for an instant check its progress.

Kimman Vanderpool-Girls here I am, ants and candy in abundance, and when they give out I am a condensed lump of sweetness myself; take a bite.

Bob Williamson-If it was not for that polkadotted John Middleton I believe I could cut a wider swath. What can the girls see in him to like, anyway?

Tommy Williamson-Girls, nothing would please me better than to whisper words of sweetness in your ears, but there is my wife watching me, and I shall have to look a "leedle out."

Ben Childers-Here girls hold my coat. I am going to have that oyster or I will be found diving after it till sunrise in the morning. One blamned little oyster can't fool me I tell you!

Cam. Vanderpool-I say girls, I gave Anna the slip, and anything you wish to say to me in a loveylike way will be considered confidential.

Lon Williamson-My dear, take another oyster. I don't think two will "sally"-vate you!

No name-My heart is capacious, and I can love all of the girls at one time. If you doubt it, just keep your eye on me, will you?

John Scraftord-I tell you, ladies, this is my favorite hold, just watch this one go down!

Avert Vanderpool-It is not often I find a lay-out of this kind; and when I do I get in with both feet. Fire your soup around this way.

Cal Stewart-Well this is the boss, and don't you forget it! Wify don't you wish we had brought the children!

Meal Doodle-Button kids are all the style now, and you do not wear your dress hat while traveling. Any information you wish on the latest styles cheerfully given. All you have to do is to ask for it.

Samantha's Mother-Come boys, bite off those kisses kind of short, for I am going to close now shortly. Baby's got the cramp!
