We are informed that physicians say that carlet fever is in town. New Course for Sewer. We took occasion this week with one our city council to examine the ground from where the new sewer is to commence down to Dixon creek. This is the natural passway for the water from the town. And by laying the sewer in that direction and turning the corner of two or three lots so as not to run through any persons lots, the work can certainly be done for one-half the cost of running it east to the river. And when the one is done towards Dixon creek it will drain the entire town and there will be no need of digging any more sewers to the river, while the one contemplated to the river will only drain a small part of the

> A Painful Accident. Hon. Geo. B. Dorris met with a very painful and dangerous accident last Tuesday evening says the Eugene Journal. He was breaking a board when a piece of it flew up and the sharp end stuck into the ball of his left eye between the center and left corner. It penetrated the ball of the eye so deep was several inches long, and pull with considerable force to draw it out. The accident was a terrible one. However, Mr. Dorris could at last accounts distinguish light from darkness with that eye, and hopes are enthe eye. We sincerely hope that he may speedily recover without the loss of hi sight. He has the sympathy of the entire community in this sad affliction.

Alleged Hydrophobia.

A case of supposed hydrophobia has oc curred at Puyallup, says the Tacom Ledger, and Dr. Williams has brought it under the notice of the authorities. The patient is an orphan boy who has been for some time in the household of Mr. Bowman. a farmer near Puyallup. On Saturday morning he took a fit, frothing at the mouth and barking and snarling exactly like a dog. Indeed, when the doctor had him partially under the influence of chloroform he imitated the motions of a dog. On Sunday, morning he became calmer and showed nothing more than the ordinary symptoms on Monday and examined before Judge Howes, by Drs. Bostwick, Williams and Kelly. The boy went by the name of James Mowbray, and both his parents are said to have died in Montana. He was for a time chargeable to the county, and afterwards worked at the shingle mill until he was taken into Mr. Bowman's family. While the examination was in progress in Judge Howes' office yesterday, a small dog, be onging to the judge happened to walk in. mmediately the boy's eyes were distended and fixed wildly on the animal, the boy showing all the symptoms of hydrophobia. As the boy had become a public charge no better place was known than the Territorial asylum at Steilscoom, and accordingly Sheriff Winsor took the unfortunate boy

THE FIRE PIEND.

Widow Lady the Victim—A Generous Crowd Make up Funds Sufficient to

Repair Damages. At about five o'clock last Sunday after oon the alarm of fire was sounded and almost instantaneous Young America engine company and the Hook & Ladder company were on the street responding to duty. The victim of the fire fiend was found to be the residence of Mrs. Thompson on the block just north of the court house. After some little delay occasioned by a circuitous route in taking the engine to the cistern all was ready for work. By this time, however, the flames faned by a very strong south east wind was running out through twothirds of the roof of the house from the comb down on either side. From the appearance of the fire when the engine began to work, it looked like the house might not stand over 20 minutes. When the word was given "down with the breaks" every man was to his post and began in earnest and in less than half an hour the fire wa all extinguished. About two-thirds of the roof of the building was burned off. The roof was damaged so badly that it will have to be supplied with a new one entirely The remainder of the building was save without material damage except what was occasioned by the water. Even the upper floor was saved so that from all appearan it will be good for future use. Nearly all of the contents of the house were taken out by willing hands but much of it was more or less damaged as is always the case on ocessions of the kind. Nearly every person n town was present and as soon as the last spark was extinguished an effort among the crowd was made to raise funds to repair the house and put it in condition to again be inhabited. A very few minutes only elapsed until the crowd had made up fund of $600, which, it is expected, will be sufficient to repair the premises and place them in good condition. Will the Statesman Make the Correction The daily Statesman of the 19th copied the correspondence published in the last ssue of the GAZETTE, entitled "Call a Halt." The Statesman fails to say that the article was from a correspondent to our paper, but it says "The following appears in the Corvallis Gazette" and then it goes on to copy the article without signing the correspondent's name to the bottom, which would lead any one to believe from reading the item in the Statesman that the item named was an article of the GAZETTE instead of being that of a correspondent. The fact of the matter is that a firm friend of the school nanded us the article entitled 'Call a Halt' or publication in the GAZETTE because some of the scholars had taken part in an amateur minstrel performance which he did not approve of and he desired the article pubished in order to express his disapproval of their engaging in the performance. The Statesman certainly could not help recognizing that the article was from a correspond ent and should have known better than to redit it in such manner as to mislead. Will he Statesman please correct her mistake before her readers? We expect to stand before the world with our own articles, but we do not expect an old established paper we might say almost unexcusable blunder of crediting correspondence to our paper in such manner as would lead her readers to infer that it was our own editorial.

LETTER FROM MEXICO MO.

May 7th, 1883. EDITOR GAZETTE:-I feel that many of your readers and many of my friends would like to here from me. I will therefore give you a short account of my journey Eastward. I left Corvallis April 9th, and spent the night at Gervais with my son Dr. F Cauthorn, arrived at Portland on the 10th and after visiting friends went on the fine SteamerState of California on the 12th but did not sail until the early morning of the 13th with a full and strong stomach, but as we neared the swelling waves of the Columbia bar my stomach began to unlead, but I took some comfort from the fact that I was not afone, for the cabin that a short time before had so many cheerful occupants was soon emptied and they hurried to their rooms where they would be secluded from any one that might be so hard hearted as to laugh at their afflictions. I arrived at San Francisco Saturday the 14th when our appetites revived and I enjoyed breakfast for the first time since leaving the Columbia. Here we met with our old friend Rev. A. E. Sears who was once agent of Corvallis College, and who is widely known in Oregon. Dr. Finley formerly president of Corvallis College called at the hotel to see me but I was out at the time, and his engagements would not permit him to tarry; so I was not premitted to see him whom I loved so well. I took the train for Sacramento and arrived there at night and remained over Sunday in that beautiful city. I went up to Diamond Springs on Monday to visit Mr. C. D. Brooks who was kind nough to take me in his carriage to Placerville where in 1849 I was engaged in diging for gold and the place is now quite a city and changed very much. I could locate the very spot where I used the pick and shovel with success. The little cabin that I once lived in has been displaced and on the spot is a fine building. I returned to Sacramento and according to previous arrangements met with Mr. S. W. Look, his wife and daughter, who also were going east. We arranged to make one family and I assure you I was fortunate to have made such arrangements. A more happy family never crossed the plains. Three of us being old we placed ourselves under the supervision of Miss Jane Look, and I assure you we were in good hands: I could not help but admire the care and affection with which Miss Look attended to her aged parents and more especially her old and infirm mother. I will never forget the kindness bestowed on me and the pleasant hours we spent on our journey; but sadness filled my heart to part from them at Council Bluffs to think I should see them no more. I arrived at Mexico, Mo., on Friday, the 27th of April at 2:30 o'clock in the morning, and found my son B. R. Cauthorn at the depot waiting for my arrival. I need not express my feelings in meeting with his family after an absence of 18 years from Mexico. I have met with a great many old friends who flock around me to give me a hearty shake of the hand. The city of Mexico is so changed that I recognize nothing of former days. I have visited a great many
