THE SPREAD OF MORMONISM IN NORTH CAROLINA.

It might be well for those who ave no fear of the number of Mor nons increasing to an extent suffieent to do any hurt to our institutions, to read the following dispatches: "The progress of Mormonism in North Carolina is causing much darm. In rural districts remote from owns, missionaries are at work selucing the ignorant. In Gaston and fire burning the main tent and all Rutherford counties especially is this work being carried on. There is a band of seventeen Mormon missionaries scattered around this section, who keep up no public intercourse but meet quietly and compare notes of progress. They appoint a meeting in the neighborhood, inviting only those whom they think will be asy subjects of conversion. Once n the meetings, morbid feelings and priosity lead the people on until the vork is done. Before being admit-ed they are baptized by emersion, and this fact finds success with the otaries of Baptist tendencies. The baptisms are always in the night pression of the evil before the minds time, and the dupes are required to be in a state of nudity. "Talmage recently in Brooklyn tabernacle, denounced the continued importation of Mormon proselytes into this country. Referring to the 800 captives of Mormondom landed there last Sunday, he said: "The last legislation on the subject turns out whose duty it is to have a general to be as impotent as all that went before. The government of the United States sits idiotically in the presence of this evil. The appalling fact must be stated that Mormonism has become such a political power that public men ambitious for the to be in a flourishing and prosperous presidency, or any position in the condition. All of the indebtedness gift of the states of the Union, are upon the college farm and all other debts was ordered to be paid off. Suggestions were made in the matter of erecting a substantial and commodious brick college building on the agricultural farm and the matter was left in the hands of the executive committee for them to devise the ful solution of this question is past. manner in which to proceed in such matters with power to act in setting the plans on toot. After all we read and learn of the rapid spread of Polygamous Mormonism in the United States we still find full grown American born eitizens claiming the right and intelligence enough to vote who say that they do not feer any evil consequences will result from the spread of Mormonism. The fact of the matter is that the United States acts with such imbecility in suppressing this evil that nothing will suffice short of a war similar to the struggle which resulted in the abolition of negro slavery. Demagogues and politicians are afraid of their success and they will now wink at Mormonism in order to ride into office. It would be better for .cur country if such politicians were hung.

of $2 121 a head.

I desire to say that the plan of Miss Willard's appointments was made under instructions from her to limit them to six towns in Western Oregon, besides Portland and to put the State Convention at the close of the tour. The places were selected as to reach the people of the State as widely as possible in that number of addresses.

I have received many letters asking for her service elsewhere, and greatly regret that a favorable answer cannot be returned. I beg the friends who have written to accept this statement as an answer to each, as my health for a month has been such as to preclude correspondence. The usual reductions of fares will be made to and from the convention.

I wish also to say that since the list of appointments for Miss Willard was published many applications have come to have the time of the great convention at Portland changed, chiefly because it was appointed at the time the Grand Lodge of Good Templars meets at Astoria. After much thought and consultation it has been determined t meet this desire, as we all desire the co-operation of all temperance workers at the convention. This necessitates a slight change in the appointments, and they will stand as follows: Astoria, Sunday night......June 10. Albany., 12 Convention, Portland June 15, 16, 17 Salem June 18 Corvallis..... 19 McMinnville (if possible)., 20 This will be final, and we hope it will be satisfactory.

Mr. Straight says the old lady has spells of being bewildered. He was a little distance from her, and as the engine approached she said, "This is a good place to get on," and stepped on the track again, before he could stop her. She was struck by the locomotive, and knocked down a steep bank into the brush. She was taken up insensible, and the train backed down to the house with per. The hones of both legs were broken near the ankles, her face was badly cut, and bleeding. As they took her on a spring bed, she revived, and screamed with pain. Her injuries will probably result fatally. The accident was a terrible shock to the passengers on the train, among whom were many ladies. Mr. Straight entirely exone rates all parties connected with the train from blame, and the above is the version of the accident which he gave.

LESSON IN SPELLING.

Since the introduction of spelling matches, many words have come prominently into notice—words instance, we find Antisoptic, meaning: preventing and stopping all fermentation and decomposition, and Analgesiant: painkiller. Then there is Antipyretic:

cooling down inflammation and fever heat. These three words, so often mis-pelled, are three of the cardinal virtues of something that will cure many a bad spell and that is Salicylica, pronounced Sal-i-cyl-i-ca. Warranted to afford immediate relief, and guarranteed to cure Rheumatism, Gout or Neuralson.
