New sidewalks and crossings are now the order of things, much to the convenience of pedestrians. Let the good work go on. All of the clouds of family discord will disappear and sunshine appear instead if you will buy your wife some of that elegant furniture so cheap at Knight's. Messrs. Waggoner and Buford have moved their real estate office to the small room on front street formerly occupied by the departed Geo. P. Wrenn. An enjoyable entertainment was had and all enjoyed themselves well. At Will Bros. you can get your choice of sewing machines from the Singer up. Mr. J. R. Peters, of Lobster Valley, this county, brought to our office a large turp weighing twelve and one-half pounds; it is a bouncer for size, and he says he has of the same kind those weighing 16 1/2 lbs. Frantz from King's Valley were in town during the week. Mr. W. says the protracted meeting which began one week ago last Tuesday is still in progress conducted by Rev. J. L. Herschner and the people of King's Valley are preparing for a general good time on Christmas eve at the church where they will have a Christmas tree. What is the use paying for money orders and postage for newspapers and magazines when you can save all this and still get any paper or magazine you want at less than regular rates at Mattoon's. Pay Up All persons indebted to the undersigned are hereby requested to call at his store and pay up their bills due him, as he must have money. H. E. HARRIS. Christmas Tree. There will be a Christmas tree at the College Chapel on Monday evening under the auspices of the Sunday school. The tree will be open for all who wish to attend, and it is earnestly hoped that all will take part.

O. P. Railroad Notes. Wm. M. Hoag, manager of the O. P. R. R., started for San Francisco on business for the company. His stay will be short and his trip an important one. Fifty Chinamen, with their "licey" and baggage, came up on the West side train last Tuesday night, and departed the next morning westward to lend a helping hand on the railroad. Stephen Belknap of the foundry went out the first of the week to where the Henkle mill, belonging to the railroad company, burned several months ago, and brought in some more of the damaged machinery for repairs. It is said that work on the railroad will be booming as soon as the company can get ready and things organized for the work. The O. P. R. R. Co. are putting up a saw mill near the Summit on the line of their road. Messrs. Drink & Wright have taken the contract to deliver a large lot of lumber and lumber to the tunnels on the line of the railroad. During the fore part of the week hands were employed and sent out to work in putting up railroad company's saw mill. Owing to the fact that the rail road company have not yet had sufficient time to organize their system of work they are not yet able to employ many white men, result of which is that too many white men are flocking into town looking for employment on the road. After sufficient time has elapsed for the work to be fully organized the company expect to employ more white men. Those now seeking employment can therefore favor themselves and save annoyance to the men in the company's office here, if they will stay where they are until the company gets ready for their assistance. Two Made One. Geo. Waggoner has looked into himself a frow. He got excited last week and secured the attention of Rev. J. R. N. Bell of this place accompanied by T. J. Buford, they started north as fast as steam locomotive and passenger car could take them. On Thursday afternoon the trio pulled up at Woodburn in Marion county, where George found Wilhelmina E. Robertson of Albany, to whom George had for a long time entertained a very tender and affectionate devotion. So reciprocal were these tender affections that soon after their meeting Rev. J. R. N. Bell in almost the twinkling of an eye had performed the necessary ceremony and they were pronounced man and wife at 11 o'clock. Messrs. Bell and Buford immediately retraced their steps for Corvallis, while the happy made couple proceeded on to Portland and returned home to Corvallis on last Saturday night as happy appearing as any one made from two could be. On Monday morning they were industriously looking around over town gathering up those articles necessary to entering upon the duties and responsibilities of house-keeping. Their many friends will wish them a happy walk through the cares and responsibilities of life. Newport Items. ED. GAZETTE:—Perhaps a few lines from Newport would be interesting to your many readers. The weather is delightful, the bay, bar and ocean is smooth and serene. The schooner Kate and Ana came in Friday morning deeply laden with merchandise of all descriptions, enough to supply the hunger of our bay for a week or two. She sailed this P. M. at 2 o'clock, for Portland well laden with oysters, hickies, eggs, &c. Our new city council has been duly qualified and entered upon the discharge of their duty. They met in special session Saturday evening for the purpose of repealing the Sunday ordinance recently passed by the old council. The honorable Mr. Brandt, councilman of Olson's addition to Newport, full of the spirit of the day, took possession of the floor and addressed the honorable council in most elegant language in favor of repealing the ordinance. There being no short hand reporter present we lost a great deal of the speech, but his main point was "that the bay was always rough during the week, but calm and serene on Sundays; hence the necessity of having the stores and shops open, that the poor people who have been hemmed up all the week may come to Newport and be clothed and fed." A motion to repeal followed, which was promptly seconded, the motion put to vote, and all voted ye aye amen. Echo President: "so mote it be." Recorder was instructed to enter upon the minutes that "Ordinance No. 17 is hereby repealed." Council adjourns until the first Monday in January, and all go out with light hearts to open stores and gin shops on the morning; but in less than fifteen minutes after adjournment they were informed that motions did not repeal laws, and then is when the fun came in. However our Sunday law is good until January, and probably by that time they will come to the conclusion that it is a pretty good thing to have a Sunday law. Its a great deal in getting used to these things. The Good Templars are getting up an entertainment and Christmas tree, principally for the benefit of the Band of Hope which includes pretty much all the children of Newport. Wm. Hammond has generously donated the use of his hall for the occasion. Charley Shaw has bought out the hardware store formerly owned by Walling and Wright and is doing a big business. MORE ANON. Pay Up. It is time of year that all bills should be paid, the undersigned therefore hereby specially requests all persons indebted to him to pay up between now and the first of January next. Davidson, a duke, Wm. Wright John Gale, a fisherman, Wm. Emery Se member Gale, David Osburn March Gale, Frank Lyvius Tim Bannagan, a peddler, Robt. Johnson Kate Raymond, Emma Rodgers Mrs. Gale, Be ca Wren Kitty Gale, Jess Taylor The Mutual Self Endowment and Benevolent Association of America. We were called upon by Capt. J. N. Leonard, State Supt. for the above association, who is traveling in the State appointing agents and club managers. This Association pays its members in five equal installments during life, instead of the whole at death, and by so doing benefits the living those who pay the assessments and carry the insurance, instead of paying it all to their heirs at death. It costs no more to pay the premium during life than the whole at death, and by so doing is becoming very popular with the public. This Association was organized in 1830 and has over 8000 members. It has taken about $3,900,000 insurance on the Pacific coast during the past year, and about $700,000 in Oregon during the past three months, $165,000 being taken in Dallas and Independence. It is leasing to its members from $10,000 to $15,000 each month; thus making its policies self sustaining after the first loan, instead of a tax all during life to be paid at death. We commend the Association to our readers, believing this to be a most sensible and equitable mode of insurance. Villard Resigned. A telegram was received here from New York last Monday night announcing the news that Henry Villard had resigned his presidency of the Northern Pacific, the Transcontinental and the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company. He has no doubt made all he can out of the scheme while being the cause of others losing and being smart enough to know that his days were about numbered in the manipulation of these enterprises he has resigned so that the wrecked remains will devolve upon some one else to shoulder. Chapter O.M.S. At a regular meeting of Ferguson Chapter No. 5, of Royal Arch Masons, held at Masonic hall in this place on Thursday evening, the 13th day of the present month, the following named officers were elected: George Kennedy, High Priest; W. C. Crawford, King; Wm. Groves, Scribe; Zeph Job, Secretary; Thos. Grabum, Treasurer; M. Stock, Captain of the Host, and John H. Lewis, Guard. Installation will take place on St. John's day. Scarlet Fever. By a letter from our friend E. B. McElroy at Salem, to his brother-in-law W. S. McFadden here, we learn since the announcement of scarlet fever in the family of Mr. McElroy a short time ago, that two more of his children have taken the dreaded disease. Two of them are becoming much better, but the third one, a little girl, at the time of writing the letter appeared to be not expected to live. Its departure from this life was expected any moment. Reminiscences of Council Proceedings. IN CASE OF AN EMERGENCY. One day not long since one of our industrious and energetic (with other people's business) fellow-townsmen, of the Mississippi plan, who beyond all things, is noted for his large belly, small appetite, number fifteen brogans, and a No. six hat; and who has taken upon himself the important duty of attending to the city walks, concluded a few days ago to start up town, but as he glanced out of a two by three window he discovered that the thawing away of the frost had created slight mud and not wishing to walk across a block south on a good sidewalk before turning east to come a straight line to main street, he turned abruptly and gathered a sheet of blank paper and wrote upon it "thar" "whar" and a whole lot of other similarly constructed hydrolyphics (no living human could begin to understand or interpret) except the city council of Corvallis. In a flash he appended a saw back to it for a name and forthwith dispatched it to the leading spirits in the city council. The result was the council came immediately together to decipher the wonderful writings such as no living man had ever seen before. After laboring and pondering over its contents for hours, and bringing to bear all of the wonderful foresight and intelligence of our great imaginative town council, whose creation must have been only for the purpose of meeting emergencies, pondered and discussed the probable meaning of the wonderful characters until the small sleepy hours were about revolving around near the time of night when the dutiful clock is about to sound the alarm of approaching day, when all at once one of the town council, not quite so sleepy as the rest of his dutiful city dads, and who prided himself on a proper interpretation of him a clericalures "in the case of an emergency," arose from his seat where he had been anchored for so long in deep meditation and announced to his wretched and almost exhausted fellow councilmen that he had deciphered the contents of the wonderful production. He spoke as follows: "Mr. Mayor and fellow councilmen, this is a petition and that saw back is the signature of our honored fellow townsman ———, our Mississippi friend he asks our honorable body to construct a sidewalk from his place directly east toward the river so that when he gets that pointer of his which he envelops in that No. 6 hat pointed directly east towards the river he can come on a direct line to main street without turning to the right or to the left. Gentlemen the petitioner further says that he has determined that he will go up town that way and no other, and I know, gentlemen, that with the powerful intellect that this man has under his No. 6 hat, that as he has concluded to come up town in the way he indicates, that four yoke of oxen and a stean locomotive could not turn his course; and you gentlemen are all aware of the extreme size of his feet and the great weight of his carcass, so that if he starts up town before a sidewalk is built he will sink into the mud so fast that Tim Donahue and four hundred more Dutchmen could not dig fast enough to get him out, and this friend of ours may thus lose his life by being obliged to death for want of a sidewalk, and the city might thus lose her dutiful overseer of sidewalks. I know gentlemen as well as all the rest of you that this petitioner might tar and walk 300 feet, or just across one block, on a new and number one sidewalk where he could turn directly east and get to main street all the way on a good sidewalk already constructed, and not have to go a sin le foot further than he will when the sidewalk he desires is constructed. But then you know Mr. Mayor and fellow councilmen that when a man with large brain power in a No. 6 hat like our petitioner and overseer of sidewalks gets his head pointed in a certain direction as I illustrated before, it is impossible to turn his course, and therefore you see that there is danger of severe accident befalling our Mississippi friend who is pointing us in the sidewalk business. I therefore unanimously and emphatically say that this is a case of "emergency," whereupon his brother councilmen all chimed in unison saying "yes this certainly is a case of "emergency." Whereupon an ordinance was read the first and second time declaring the case in hand to be an emergency, and the ordinance passed by a unanimous vote ordering the walk built before the petitioners could start up town. The council then adjourned to take a nap, while they would probably dream over the propriety of the construction of a sewer under an emergency, costing nearly $5000 of the people's hard earned coin, which could no possibly be used within six months after its completion. Alsea Items. ALSEA, Or., Dec. 12, 1883. ED. GAZETTE:—Mr. D. K. Tom is looser of four teeth from his lower jaw with a piece of the bone attached, the result of an accidental overthrowing of his back and losing control of his team. Dr. Medizette officiating as surgeon. Mr. J. Hogue lost two flat boats with a considerable freight on the Alsea river a short time ago. Very interesting religious meetings are held in this valley several times a week. Many have professed sanctification and advanced christian experience with many conversions. There is not opposition enough to temperance to sustain a Good Templars lodge hence its death. Roads are very bad. Weather fine for the season. Deer are plenty and the hunter has generally been successful. We have a mineral spring that is thought to be equal to the best Santiam water. One postoffice, one store, a saw mill and grist mill are the business attractions of this place. Yours Truly, JUDSON SHELLEY.

Philomath Items. Our enterprising farmer Lee Henkle has purchased two lots in the city north of E. Henkle's residence, and contemplates building on them next season for a future home. The last issue of the GAZETTE spoke of the progress of temperance in this city, but this week some of our citizens have been up to a saloon kept near J. S. Fetger's mill and forgot to return in time for their meals or to attend to business. Dr. Whitney is building a photograph gallery near his residence. It will soon be completed, and Mrs. A. Whitney will be fully prepared to take your good looks. Mrs. Whitney has been to Portland and has learned the finishing art in the , and will be able to please her customers better than ever before. Rev. J. M. Golchom has returned from the Alsea valley and reports good success for four days work, 16 saved. Also some ministers and citizens of this place have been holding a meeting at Summit, in this county, with good result. The people of this city were altogether happy the other day when they saw the Chinamen taking up their line of march through our streets to go to work on the railroad. It was pleasant to behold the change in the faces of our old citizens; the long delay of work on the road and the many stories that had been circulated had cast a damp on the hearts of those even that had given of their means and influence to the road, but when they saw the Chinamen filing by in single rank they came to the conclusion that the road would be built and there was a far different light shone from their eyes from what we have seen in the past few months, as many a one has looked down his nose and given a sorrowful gasp out to the prospect of the road. On last Sabbath they took a vote in Sabbath school as to whether they would have a Christmas tree this year. It was carried in favor of having one, and Monday night the people met and elected the necessary committees to carry out the programme. The children especially seem to be very much interested. "Down by the Sea" Thursday Night. I say Kitty, what did Effe Parker say to you? MARGIE GALE. Oh! Lots of sweet things, Kitty. Dada him! I'll punch that Bige Parker, you see if I don't. MARGIE. I won't have this shirking work. Sept. shall sell that book. JOSEY GALE. Why, you ugly old bear! What's the matter with you? M. GALE. If there's anything I hate, it's pealing latters, Kitty. Ah, weally! Miss Kitty Gale, positively bewitching! Wawal! simplicity! Wones in a clamshe! Fat Miss Kitty, this place smells so hawbly of fish. CALA DASHWOOD, THE DOBE. Oh, pshaw, March, you're always flouting a father. I don't believe you ever had one. KERRY. You don't; hey? MARGIE. Yes, Kate! I am really in love with you. Believe me, I am not your brother. This is at least a mere suspicion. Will you still be mine? SEER, GALE. Oh, Sept! It is impossible. KATE RAYMOND. Mr. Raymond, I am extremely obliged to you for your kind interest in me; but sir, I am not your son. SEER. Not my son! Why, boy, you are crazy. RAYMOND. The top of the morning to yase, gentlemen. I have travelled all day with me pack, and be gone, I'm all broke up. TOM PETERS. Scarlet Fever. A young child of Mr. W. S. Hite, one of our blacksmiths, residing in the south part of town, has been complaining for three or four days with indication of sore throat. On Tuesday evening of this week the child commenced breaking out and the attending physician pronounced it a severe case of scarlet fever. The family could think of any way in which the child could have been exposed, they say it has been inside of the yard at home for months. Said Staged. A report has been in circulation during the week that a certain party, somewhat known as a hand in railroad circles, was struck by some one on the street last Friday night, and knocked down and robbed of his watch and about nine dollars in money. His name we do not just now remember, but those best acquainted with him tell the report end put on the broadest kind of a grin, if it w a huge canard. Reserved Seats. Seats can be reserved at the Institute drama, "Down by the Sea." Owing to the increased expense of holding the annual institute, it has become necessary to charge 50 cents for a reserved seat, and 25 cents to other parts of the house. Drink & Wright will sell reserved seats beginning Wednesday morning. Other tickets can be had from any of the business houses. E. A. MILNER, County Supt. The Vacuum Motor. News of the vacuum motor may be expected at any time. The inventor, tired of waiting for the completion of the engines to be run by the motor, has taken the machine away from the foundry to see whether it will run itself or not. The whereabouts of the motor is a secret as yet, but if it works all right it will be heard from sure.—Oregonian. A New Find. On last Friday night our fellow-townsmen Ed Belknap, was found hopping up and jumping around as if he was dancing to the tune of a yellow jockers nest, but on closer inspection it was decided to be a dance of joy, when it was ascertained that his wife had presented him with a nine pound boy. Ed is doing well since cooled down after his excitement.
