It is related that upon Tony Noltner's visit to Washington he was introduced to President Cleveland by Mr. Slater, with a great deal of ceremony. The ex-senator stated that Tony had been a life-long Democrat, a delegate to the Chicago convention of 1884, and that he was the editor of the leading Democratic journal of Oregon. The and after the pair had departed, turned to his private secretary and asked: "Lamont, did Slater say that fellow is paper of Oregon?" "He did, sir," responded the secretary. "Then no wonder the state is so heartily Republican," observed the President, as he resumed examination of official docu-

The London correspondent of the Evening Post says: "Almost without warning England is landed in the midst of an acute political cricis, of which nobody foresees the end and no one can hardly exaggerate the possible consequences. For the following facts I can vouch, although every man here has his own opinion. Chamberlain, president of the board of trade; and Sir Charles Dilke, president of the local government board, said positively in the cabinet that they would resign rather than I felt it to be a duty that I owed to democratic members of Congress that support any further measure of coercion for Ireland. After a hot discussion they weae induced by the other ministers to agree to the renewal, in a very mild form, of the crimes act. In their opinion a measure of local self-government should precede any land purchase scheme, and Gladstone's statement that dered the party any service, so far as I the government would introduce a land have been able to discover. Now there of any decision of the cabinet to that —men in every way as good and well with that duty." CASH COMPARED WITH THE BOOKS.

New York Tribune.

The count has virtually ended, say lemocratic journals, and after twentyfour years of republican rule, everthing that ought to be in the treasury is found to be there, except, possibly, two cents which appear to be missing from one of the packages. Exactly what republicans have for years officially reported about the condition of the treasury, the new democratic officials find to be its actual condition, all the

Mr. Manning has the books, which show every transaction since the democrats left Washington in 1871. His very first step was to set some of the best experts in the With the election of Gen. John A. country to overhaul these books, in or-Logan as United States Senator from der to know whether there was any Illinois, and a republican Senator from mischief concealed, and exactly what amount of money the treasury ought to have on hand. They find no error or fraud in the accounts, and new debt statements are issued, showing to a cent what amount of money, and of each kind of money, the treasury ought to hold. Then one of the trained experts was appointed treasurer, and the vaults were turned over to his custody, and he sets trained accountants to count all the money. "Do with the cash that the treasury books unto others as ye would that they show ought to be held-always excepting the two cents aforesaid.

Now, Messrs. Democrats, it is in order to thank you for disproving another of your favorite lies, which you have used in every campaign, especially in the rual districts. You have taught many people to believe that the treasury has been systematically robbed for a long time, and that, if democrats could only get control and, in the language of Mr. Hendricks, "let President scrutinized Noltner closely, the light of heaven into those vaults," there would be horrible things dis closed. Three times elaborate and costly investigations have been under

It is greatly to the credit of the re-

Says a Washington dispatch: A New York democratic congressman, whose name is withheld, went to the White House some days ago and "gave the president a piece of his mind" on the subject of federal appointments in his district. > There is a growing belief in official circles that neither Postmaster General Vilas nor Secretary of State Bayard are long for the Cabinet. There is excellent authority for believing that the President and Secretary of State are not in harmony as to the policy of placing so many ex-rebels in diplomatic positions. On the outset of Mr. Cleveland's administration, it was the understood policy of Mr. Bayard that, as far as possible, the South should be recognized at the State department. By giving ex-rebels offices out of the country, it is thought that their claims would be fully met and satisfied without incurring the criticism that would follow if prominent ex-Confederates Corvallis, were put in high places at home. It is not long since the democrats claimed to be the debt-paying party, and formally declared in convention Clothing and Tailoring that "readjustment is highway robbery and readjusters highway robbers." But the party now accepts the readjustment scheme which it so lately denounced, and Senator Mahone in his recent letter to Senator Warner Miller declares that it is ready to go, and even has already gone, to a degree of repudiation beyond that charged to the readjusters.

SMALL PROFITS

The time for big profits and long credits is of the past, and if superceded by small profits and a cash system offers an excellent chance for retrenchment. profits and a cash system offers an excellent chance for retrenchment. Considering the present condition of affairs it behoves every yerson to practice economy and to obtain for every dollar expended the best and most satisfactory result. This can be only accomplished by a strictly CASH SYSTEM. The expense of keeping accounts and the cost of collection must of accessity be added to the price of goods sold. There is also a more important contingency to be provided tor, namely: the number and amount of bad accounts that are unavoidable in giving credit, no matter how careful the seller may be.

These losses must be made good by charging cash customers a higher price, to make up for losses sustained on worthless accounts. Being fully alive to these facts and in sympathy with the present condition of the farming community, we have placed ourselves in a position to offer every advantage to cash purchasers.

in a position to offer every advantage to cash purchasers.

While our prices appear low, we would state that all goods sold by us are first-class and guaranteed in every respect as represented. Long experience in the mercantile business, together with a competent knowledge of the various markets, enables us to purchase our supplies as low as any house in this section.
