A late London dispatch says: Owing to the failure of Gladstone's voice, his throat has been examined by throat specialists, who pronounced his affection to be obscure catarrh of the larynx, and enjoin entire rest. This report alarms Liberals, as Gladstone will be unable to take part in the election campaign.

Mrs. "Hogg Senders" near Monroe after her illustrious son was bound over to await the action of the grand jury, was also taken before Justice of the Peace Shannon, and she also was bound over, and after a great deal of hunting around she finally prevailed on the generous feelings of Greenberry Smith to go her bail.

A great controversy between Col. Fred Grant who had been requested by his father to arrange the place of burial after the latter's death, has been going on with the Mayor and authorities of New York regarding the place of burial of the remains of General Grant. The New York authorities desired the burial spot to be at Central Park, but they did not feel inclined to consent for Mrs. Grant, the General's wife to be buried there beside him after her death; while the Grant family desired and expected that the mother and widow should find a last resting place beside the remains of her departed husband.

Grant, the great and world renowned General of his day and age; a self made man, sprung from a poor boy of humble but industrious parentage, to be one of the greatest, most successful and best generals of ancient or modern times. He was promoted to the front and to the first position in the army, and saved his country from downfall and ruin where all others before him had failed.

The Reverend, Doctor, Bonus, attorney E. J. Dawne of Salem has recently been appointed Chief Justice to Alaska by President Cleveland. He is about as much qualified to make a Chief Justice as a pig's tail is to make a tin whistle, yet we understand that even some of the leading democrats and ex-Judges of Corvallis signed his petition recommending his appointment to President Cleveland.

FROM IOWA.

A very sensible article on our wants and needs appears in the Montezuma Republican, from the pen of J. W. Jarnigan, who was here with the excursionists. His article we consider worth reproducing:

"Well, what do you think of the Northwest," is the question that has been propounded to us times innumerable since our return. It is a wonderful country and has great things in store for the future. The climate is fine, the soil is productive and its scenery is grand. Its forests are inexhaustible and its mineral wealth is not known. The society is the very best and there is not that frontier appearance among the people that one would expect to find so far west.

A couple of horses were sold at auction in Corvallis. They were of the dirty nose diseased kind. One was a roane about fourteen hands high very heavy made and rather a neat appearing animal, it was knocked off to a young man be the name of Case; the other was a yellowish bay about fourteen and a half hands high, one of its hind legs appeared like it had some time been broken or dislocated down close to the foot. This horse was badly effected with something like gleet or glanders, and was knocked down to some party whose name we did not know, for five dollars.
