Barn Burned.

Last Friday night about eleven o'clock the barn of Miles Starr about two miles north of Monroe was burned. It contained about twenty tons of hay, a header, drill, hay rake and mower also several head of hogs. All were consumed.

Large Onions.

Attention has been called this week to four large onions on exhibition in the office of Waggoner & Buford, the largest measured eighteen and the smallest sixteen inches in circumference. They were raised by Wm. Ridenour on land between here and Yaquina Bay. They bear not only the result of good productive soil, but also that they have come by hands of good farming.

Cranberry Farm.

Mr. Jackson, from the Eastern States, has been over to the Bay with Mr. T. J. Buford on the hunt of a farm suitable for extensively raising cranberries. He has had much experience in the East in this business and intends going into the work on the large scale, providing he can be favored with a suitable locality. This is a new business for our county and he should receive all the encouragement possible to bestow.

East of the Mountains.

Nick Baesen and John Mensinger left this place last Sunday to make an extended trip East of the mountains and look at the country. It has already been suggested by some of our citizens that they had other motives for going away at this particular time besides to simply look at the country. In other words it has been hinted that they went away to remain until after the November term of Circuit Court, in order to escape testifying before the grand jury in relation to the row which occured in a saloon in this city a few month ago, in which Sid Moore, McTimmons, Baesen and Mensinger figured prominently. We believe the suggestion, however, to be a wrong one, because we hardly think these men would take such a course in order to prevent justice from taking its course. If, however, they have went away for any such purpose, the court should continue the case until their testimony can be had.

Dowden got the Damsels Drunk.

On last Sunday evening a man answering to the name of Mitchell Dowden secured a good supply of whiskey and took the nearest road to the Indian camps near Marys river bridge. Dowden and his demijohn were soon on the spot and the "children of the forest" made him a welcome visitor when they discovered he had such a good supply of corn juice. The bottle was passed until the entire party got beastly drunk and Dowden reigned supreme. They built a bon fire and were having a big time when the hilarity of the occasion was interrupted by a controversy that ended in a big fight in which Dowden was the principal pugilist. Deputy U. S. Marshal Pygall soon heard of the disturbance, and after learning the particulars he escorted Dowden to a room in the city calaboose and on Wednesday morning bought his ticket to Portland where he will answer the charge of giving whiskey to Indians.

Campmeeting near Philomath.

Rumor has it that numerous instances have occured in the last week or two, in which, hoodlums and young outlaws, have congregated, in and about the grounds near Philomath, where campmeeting was being held, wherein they attempted to and in some instances did disturb the exercises in different ways. If such is the case all such intruders and petty outlaws should be brought to justice as the law prescribes. In this country people should be permitted unmolested to hold gatherings of different kinds and to worship in any way they please and any young outlaws who can not behave at such places should remain away or if they go there and misbehave, they should in every instance be punished. The laws of our state prescribe severe penalties under which persons should be punished who disturb or interfere with public gatherings and any one who so far becomes a law breaker and an outlaw as to disobey these laws if let go unpunished is likely to become hardened and thus go on until they commit graver offences. Every law abiding citizen certainly must use their influence to disapprove of such disturbances.

A large shipment of fresh salmon came over on the train from Yaquina Bay to our Nasby Mr. N. R. Barber, last Wednesday. He pretends that he does not know who sent them, but it was a fiend who knew that the Cleveland administration might at any time disposess him of the postoffice and who supposed that when he was turned out he would want to start a fish market, so he sent the fish along.

Dr. Pilkington, Oculist and Rectal Specialist, will be at the Hemphill House, Corvallis, on the afternoon of Tuesday the 13th, and all day Wednesday, Oct. 14th. Diffenbacher, of Harrisburg, getting well of Piles and Rectal ulcer, of twenty years suffering.

Catching salmon is developing into quite a business over at Yaquina bay. The fishermen have been supplying our market with these superior fish for some time and now, we understand, the contract has been awarded a Yaquina bay fisherman to furnish the penitentiary, the insane asylum and other state institutions at Salem, with Yaquina Bay salmon. We predict a fine business in this line over at the Bay before many summers.

A. P. Churchill, of the GAZETTE, has been attending the Lane county fair at Eugene during the week, and we have been informed that the judges on vegitation took him for a stalk of corn and awarded him the first premium.

Mr. B. F. Owen just before going to press presented at this office a species of Indiana corn which he raised in Kings Valley this season. This stalk is twelve and one half feet high and has two nicely developed ears on it. If this specimen had been sent to the Lane county fair we are certain that Mr. A. P. Churchill of this office could never have prevailed on the committee there to award him the first premium for the best developed corn stalk.

On last Saturday evening the Good Templars of this city celebrated the third anniversary of their lodge. Several of the members of the Philomath lodge were present and joined in the festivities. Our clear water citizens boast of having the largest organization of the I. O. G. T. in the state, there being nearly 150 members in good standing.

A few days ago about dusk a tramp came along and got permission to sleep in the barn of Mr. Jos. Wiles, between here and Albany. In the middle of the night young Wiles, who was the only person at home, was awakened by a crackling sound in the direction of the barn, which he found to be in flames. A thresher, header, wagon, other machinery and tools, and some hay were consumed, making the total loss a large one for such a fire. The building and contents were insured for $2200.

An Anti Chinese meeting of the sand lot style took place in Portland last week in which one incendiary speech was indulged and the rest of the speakers were scarce. The laboring people of Portland did not take stock in and attend the thing. It is well enough and proper to consider measures and put them into operation as law abiding citizens should to prevent Chinese slave labor coming to us. But any attempt at violence should receive rebuke from every good citizen.

That Stir.

A party writing from Philomath says "there has been quite a little stir there on account of the remarks in the last issue of the GAZETTE, in regard to the deputy marshal of Philomath. Some here understood that the paper took sides with the hoodlum element." This paper has no apologies for what has been said on that subject. If people stir because the paper advocates the punishment of those who violate law and order, they will have to do so, because this paper under its present management, will take no other grounds than that hoodlums who break the law, and lawbreakers generally, or those who assult other people, drawing pistols on them or throwing slung shots and policemen's billies at people's heads should be punished as the law prescribes. This paper advocates the punishment of hoodlums who break the law and also the punishment of deputy marshals who break the law. The president of the United States, because of his exalted position or for any other reason has no right to draw his pistol on or throw other weapons at people, and if he should do so he should be punished. Neither does a deputy marshal by reason of his exalted position have any better rights to violate the persons of other people by using deadly weapons upon them at all times than any body else.

The Lane County Fair.

The Lane County Agricultural Society last Saturday closed its second annual exhibition, and to say that it was a grand success is putting it in the mildest of terms. The pavilion, in Rhinehart's spacious parlors and theater rooms, situated in the heart of the city of Eugene, was filled to overflowing with exhibits of all kinds and complete in all departments, from that of the farm and field to that of the finest work of art and fancy work. The grain exhibits by Geo. Belshaw, as well as that of grasses by Hon. M. Wilkins, is deserving of special mention and would be a credit to any state in the Union, and is particularly so to Lane county. The display of fruits and vegetables was excellent. It is said by parties who visited both this and the state fair that the only exhibits which did not surpass that of the state fair was that of the live stock exhibition. The pavilion in the evening was particularly attractive, having in attendance an orchestra furnishing excellent music, where the youth and beauty, aged and middle-aged congregate en mass. A cursory glance by a GAZETTE reporter at the assembled crowd in the pavilion one evening was convincing proof that the Iowa editors were only just in their praise of the Eugene belles.

It is estimated that at least 6000 people attended the fair. The gate receipts amounted to something over $1500, and it is thought by the managers that they will be able to pay off at least 90 per cent. of the cash premiums awarded. No entrance fee is charged for exhibits. A wise provision in the constitution of the Society does not allow the managers to pay out on premiums more than the total gate receipts, thus preventing the society from becoming involved in debt, and which seems to be perfectly satisfactory to premium holders. The race course and bicycling were features of attraction. All in all the Lane county fair was a grand success and reflects much credit on the managers as well as the citizens of the entire county. To the managers we are indebted for courtesies extended. With the same enterprise on the part of our own citizens, Benton county could hold as successful a fair as this has been.

NOTES.

The Register publishers at Eugene City exhibited enterprise in the publication of a creditable daily during the fair.

Our fellow citizen, H. P. Beach, had on exhibition some fine Jersey cattle, but being from another county could not compete for a cash premium.

Boys Shot At.

Last Sunday a number of boys had been swimming in Marys river south of town and upon returning one of them who was eating an apple threw it towards the China house occupied by Chinamen who assist the section boss in looking after the West Side railroad. The apple struck a tin can and made considerable racket. One of the Chinamen rushed out with a pistol in hand, when he observed the boys he fired at them and then rushed upon them and stuck the pistol in one boy's face. Boys should be arrested and punished when they trouble Chinamen unlawfully just the same as if they were molesting any other class of people, and Chinamen have a perfect right to inform on them and to have them punished. But a Chinamen who flourishes his revolver around shooting into a crowd of boys and thrusting the funny end of his pistol into people's faces is a dangerous kind of a pilgrim to run at large, and should be arrested and promptly dispatched to Salem to view the situation from behind the bars. Some of our officers who look after criminal prosecutions had best have that pig tail celestial taken care of where he will not shoot and cripple any boys.

Philomath Items.

Pres. Lambert, of Eugene, delivered a series of lectures here last week.

Mrs. Merriman, who has been very ill, is convalescing.

A meeting of the citizens was held last Saturday evening for the purpose of taking measures to erect water works. Julius Bronnson was chosen chairman; Hon. J. A. Henkle secretary; J. A. Henkle, E. L. Dixon and J. L. Akin were appointed a committee of investigation.

Wm. Robinson has sold his property to Drury Davis.
