CORVALLIS, OR., OCT. 12, 1888.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL TICKET.

Election, Tuesday, Nov. 6, 1888.

FOR PRESIDENT,
BENJAMIN HARRISON,
OF INDIANA.
FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
LEVI P. MORTON,
OF NEW YORK.

RESIDENTIAL ELECTORS.
W. W. FULTON, of Clatsop; R. McLEAN, of Klamath; Wm. KAPUS, of Multnomah.

Allen G. Thurman, he arose from obscurity. To the candidacy of the vice presidency of the democracy. In a few minutes, you see. Poor old Allen G.

AS THE CONTEST AP-PROACHES.

There remains now but a month before the vote for president will be taken. As the campaign advances it has been discovered that Gen. Harrison has steadily grown in favor among the voters of the country. Never before was a presidential candidate of any party visited, day after day, by so many men representing so many trades and avocations as has General Harrison since the day of his nomination, and scarcely ever in the history of any campaign, has any candidate been able to touch upon so many live topics of the day without "putting his foot in it."

His speeches have been characterized from the first by the greatest good sense, the highest order of ability in public speaking, and of winning politeness in public speaking. This has been no surprise to General Harrison's friends, for they knew the man, and knew that he had never been found unequal on any occasion. This was true of him in the school-room and on the stump, in his law office and in the court room, on the battle field and in the senate. Accounting for this happy condition of things the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette says: "General Harrison is strong and ready because he has been a hard working man all his life, and his faculties have been disciplined and made alert and executive. He has earned all he has, and his habits of application abide with him. He is not elated or oppressed by his position, but takes it coolly, and is in full possession of himself. The living rock is under his feet, and overhead the sky is clear. He has absolute sincerity and unqualified courage—and he has had such a breadth of experience as few men have profited by, while each day of his life has been in some way good to him. He has lost no time in idleness and wasted no power in dissipation."

Mr. BLAINE, in his speech at Detroit recently, gave a little history of the exercises and abuse of the veto. Said Mr. Blaine: "Up to March 4, 1885, when the present president of the United States was inaugurated, the veto power of the government had been used in all about seventy-five times; that was from 1789 to 1885, one hundred years lacking four. And now Cleveland, in three and one-half years, has used the veto over three hundred times. And of those vetoes of president Cleveland, 206 have been used to prevent a pitiful pension of $4 a month or $8 a month, a few, I believe, of $12 a month, to worn down and starving soldiers of the United States. And he is the first president of the United States that ever vetoed a bill for the benefit of a soldier that had offered his body to the cannon-shot and shell of the enemy of his country." What a bitter dose for the old soldier to swallow.

His administration paper... to know, "In the name of common sense what have English newspapers or English revenue laws got to do with this American tariff question anyway?" Well, not much, to be sure, only this: English newspapers are alive to British interests. If the American tariff is reduced on English products, then England will be benefited the amount of the reduction. The paper may be correct when it declares that "American voters as a general thing don't care a brass button for England, one way or the other," but England cares a "brass button" how the voters in this country regard the tariff question, and if the election in November were to result in a Democratic triumph, the rejoicings in England would eclipse anything that might be seen on this side the Atlantic.

In the raid on the "clock game," made in San Francisco recently, five Salvation Army privates were arrested. They gave as their reason for being in the place that they were performing a mission—endeavoring to convert gamblers. This is about as transparent as was the excuse given by twenty-one others, that they were looking for their brothers.

FREE trade Great Britain had a public debt in 1878, ten years ago, of $3,875,000,000. It is now $3,689,000,000, a decrease in ten years of $186,000,000. The United States in 1878 had a debt of $2,256,000,000. It is now $1,154,000,000, a decrease of $1,102,000,000. The United States has a protective tariff. Telegram.

We may very well re-echo that enthusiasm on this side of the water, for the re-election of president Cleveland means the adoption of his programme of tariff revision, and his ideas on that subject go a long way toward free-trade.—London Star.

If Mr. Cleveland should be re-elected the United States tariff will be modified very materially in the direction of free-trade, a result which cannot, of course, fail to be beneficial to the trade of other countries, and especially of our own.—London People.

JUDGING from the number of protection democrats who have come out for Harrison and Morton, the statement of Henry Wattersou, that "democrats who are not free traders should go elsewhere," has received due attention.

PROFESSOR BARNARD's new comet, which enthusiastic democrats have christened Cleveland, is traveling 3,000,000 miles a day in the direction of oblivion. There is reason in the action of the enthusiastic Democrats.

ANNUAL MEETING.
The annual meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held on Oct. 4th. Reports show much activity in many departments, notwithstanding the loss of thirteen members, by their removing to other places, ten of these were active workers. Meetings have been kept up through the summer. Number of meetings held, 63, including prayer, Bible reading, business, parlor, and other meetings. Evangelistic superintendent and president have also held meetings on Sabbath afternoons with non-going church people. Finance committee reported if what was due the Union could be collected, our finances would be good. Literature department has sent out some 54,900 pages of reading matter, besides books loaned and given away, also seven packages of books and papers sent to state prison, and packages of literature to 600 teachers in this country, during the prohibition amendment campaign. Number of departments reporting, 15. Although our superintendent of flower mission was not present with her report, we can report that many a heart has been touched by these little "messengers of sunlight." There are various ways of carrying to the heart of out-fellow men around us, the pure teachings of temperance, and the W. C. T. U. have a do every thing policy, which aims to overlook none of the salient features of ministering to this silent violet branch of work. Known as the flower mission, may not be so handy a way of setting forth the truths to be presented, as logical teaching intellectual pleas for purity, but it is no less beneficial. Our evangelistic superintendent does much quiet personal work which cannot be refuted. The parlor meetings which have met with such favor will be continued, the aim being to discuss the prominent questions of the day. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, L. A. Nash, Secretary, Mrs. F. Graham,

Hersher, Vice President
Mrs. Danneck, Vice President
from the different churches connected with last year. Superintendents also re-elected with few exceptions. Chairman of relief work, Mrs. Nash, of First meeting. Mrs. A. H. H. of Second meeting. Mrs. Graham, of home science class, Mrs. Addison. Course of reading under the charge of president. This course of reading is for the members who are unable to read. It is a most efficient workers who must be intelligent workers, and although one member are all busy housewives, we owe it to our families and to ourselves, to read and study upon all questions relating to the home-variety saloon. As we study we see plainly that one has seen and literally departments are necessary from which we draw to the that are the foundation-stones of the temperance reform, and underneath them all and crowning them all are the teachings of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ, the rock on which our work is built.
