CORVALLIS, OR., MAY 24, 1889.

Don't let the thought drop from your mind that the Corvallis cow is still free to go where she pleases.

It is said that a person may stand on the Eiffel tower, at the Paris exposition, and be clear above a storm raging about its lower levels.

Let the city council do only as any other one would in regard to using the electric lights—take as many as will conveniently light up the streets and sidewalks.

It has been demonstrated by a Roman count that the leaves of the eucalyptus or blue gum trees contain valuable properties as disinfectants and antiseptics.

The money in the national treasury, amounting to about $200,000,000, is to be counted. It will take sixty employes over four months to perform the task.

It is not always the man who looks the wisest who knows the most, but most people don't know this, so that it will pay you to look just as wise as you possibly can.

In New York on Thursday last the newly appointed minister to Russia, Allen T. Rice, died at the age of thirty-six. He has been the editor of the North American Review since 1878.

In 1860 the cattle in this country numbered 418 head to each 1,000 of population. In 1885 it had fallen to 722 per 1,000, and now the best authorities put it at 700, or a loss of 114 head per 1,000 in twenty-nine years.

Mr. Hurd has done a grand thing for Corvallis by furnishing her with an electric light system. Now let the council do the right thing by taking as many of the lights as the city will stand. And let all the business men use them also.

The new method of execution by electricity, adopted in New York, will put the question of the efficacy of capital punishment, as a preventative of crime, to the test. Persons arrested for murder are said to have the utmost dread of this form of death.

There were 700 suicides in the United States between January 1st and May 1st. The self-slaughters ranged in age all along between first and second childhood, and the causes embraced everything that can affect morbid self-consciousness.

The Evening Star, of Washington City says editorially: "The nomination of Solomon Hirsch, for the Turkish mission, removes Senator Mitchell's most dangerous rival for the senatorship in 1891, and removes all doubts of the latter's return to the senate." Mitchell, it says, may be depended upon to secure Hirsch's confirmation.

The president has appointed Solomon Hirsch, of Portland, as minister to Turkey. Mr. Hirsch has been foremost in the republican party for a number of years, and was a candidate for the U. S. senate from Oregon at the time J. H. Mitchell was elected. The office of minister to Turkey is one of the most responsible foreign posts, and has been held heretofore by such men of national reputation as Gen. Lew. Wallace, Gen. Longstreet, S. S. Cox and others. The appointment is a good one, and Mr. Hirsch will no doubt prove an able and worthy representative of the United States at the Turkish court.

AN EMIGRANT'S IDEA.

CORVALLIS, May 22, 1889.

Kids: GAZETTE.—I was rather favorably impressed with the appearance of your town, and thought of locating here, but when I read the Leader and Times this week I was somewhat discouraged. It would seem from the article in the Leader that a person would be running a great risk to stop over night in this pestilential, God-forsaken place, and that if he ever passed through he would be fortunate if he did not catch the scarlet fever or cow pox; and according to the Times of this morning, the population is largely made up of "yellow dogs and brindle cows."

Not knowing whether these papers truthfully represented the condition of your town or not, I concluded to make an examination for myself, and found: 1st, that the town was the healthiest one in the state; that there was no sickness to amount to anything; that while other towns were being scourged with scarlet fever, diphtheria, and other fatal diseases, this place was exempt. Secondly, I found that the place was as clean and well kept as towns generally are; there are a few ditches into which the kitchen slops are run that are a nuisance, but there is an express ordinance against doing so, and if the marshal would do his duty that nuisance would be abated in short order. Thirdly, I found men who had been residents of the place thirty and forty years, who informed me that they had not been confined to their room twenty-four hours with any kind of sickness during that time. Fourth, I found a fine college, a magnificent court house, a splendid district school house (in preparation of construction), good water works, electric lights, and many fine family residences, and some of the finest flower gardens in the state, all denoting comfort, health and thrift; and, lastly, a community of thrifty, intelligent, respectable people. And I wondered how these papers could derive any satisfaction from slandering our town.
