ANOTHER USE FOR SALT.

For moths salt is the best exterminator. The nuns in one of the hospital convents have tried everything else without success, and their experience is valuable, as they have so much clothing of the sick who go there; and strangers, when dying there, often leave quantities of clothing, etc. They had a room full of feathers, which were sent there for pillow making, and they were in despair, as they could not exterminate the moths until they were advised to try common salt. They sprinkled it around, and in a week or ten days they were altogether rid of the moths. They are never troubled now. In heavy velvet carpets sweeping them with salt cleans and keeps them from moths, as particles of salt remain in the carpets and corners. Salt is not hurtful to any one and has no bad smell. Here is a little hint I add, which, perhaps, everyone does not know. For cleaning wash basins, bath, etc., use the same thing, common dry salt. Rub a little of the salt with your fingers on the basin. Often a sort of scum is noticed in the basins in a marble washstand in the bathroom; the salt takes it off easily and leaves the basin shining and clear.—Philadelphia Press.

DON'T SUE.

He stood on a step-ladder trimming the dead limbs out of a fruit tree, when a man came along with some tools in his hand and stopped, and asked:

"How many hours are you putting in for a day's work?"

"I'm busy from daylight until 8 or 9 o'clock at night," was the reply.

"Don't you know that nine hours is a day's work?"

"I've heard so, but he won't let me off at that."

"Then strike on him."

"I can't very well."

"Dasn't you kick?"

"It wouldn't do any good."

"Some rich old cuss who wants to grind you into powder, eh?"

"Well, he keeps me at work. I believe I put in thirteen hours every day."

"Then you are a fool."

"Maybe so."

"He ought to be talked to."

"Yes."

"Why don't you quit?"

"I would, you see, but I'm the 'old cuss' you are talking about, and though my man can get his day of nine hours I have to put in the three or four more or things will get behind."—Exchange.

Children Cry for

A BOARDING-HOUSE INCIDENT.

There was chicken for dinner at a Harlem boarding house, and instead of being satisfied to take any of it that was offered there was a general request all around the board for "white meat." Several boarders sent back their plates to have their piece of dark meat exchanged for white. The landlady herself was master of ceremonies in the kitchen that day. She stood this racket as long as possible, and then burst into the dining room like a cyclone fresh and furious from the west. Glaring at the boarders, she exclaimed:

"See here, you loafers, what do you mean by all sending out for white meat? Do you imagine a chicken is made of white meat? Couldn't eat a nice piece of the dark meat, I suppose? Oh, no; you have been eating nothing but white meat all your lives, and that's the reason you are all white-livered, I reckon."

She seemed to swell up as her awful indignation grew upon her, and, moving closer to the table, she swayed above it like a giant oak in a storm. This time she fairly screamed:

"Confound your impudent carcasses. I'll have you know that I am not so particular about color. Take the color of your money, for instance. I'd like to see some of it and I'd take it most mighty darn quick, be it red, white, blue or speckled. Now, I'm goin' to send that chicken back here, and any of you dudes that don't like the dark meat can take it out to a kalsominer and get it white-washed."

"Gentlemen," said one of the boarders, when the lady had retired to the kitchen, "we have trodden on the tail of a tempest. For one, I prefer dark meat on my plate to having it distributed around under my eyes."

And the rest of the boarders did, too.—World.

THE CHAMBER OF TORTURE

Is the apartment to which the unhappy sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism is confined. If, ere the crisis of pain is reached, that fine preventive, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is used by persons of a rheumatic tendency, much unnecessary suffering is avoided. Nervines, anodynes and sedatives, while having none but a specific are yet very desirable at times. Yet they can produce no lasting effect upon rheumatism, because they have no power to eliminate from the blood the rheumatic virus. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters does this, and checks at the outset a disease which, if allowed to gain headway, it is next to impossible to dislodge or to do more than relieve. Rheumatism, it should be remembered, is a disease with a fatal tendency from its proneness to attack the heart. A resort to the Bitters should, therefore, be prompt. Dyspepsia, kidney complaint, malaria and nervousness are relieved by it. ml.
