WANTED TO SAVE WHAT HE COULD.

"Goot py, Isaac, goot py," cried Rebecca from the fourth story window of the burning building. "Dere is no chance for me, goot py." "Mine gootness me, Rebecca, haf, you gone crazy. Vy you don't draw me out doze four tollar pants? You tink I vant to lose every dings?"—Commercial Traveler.

The fate of that unfortunate husband of South Carolina, whose wife shot him because he lost her new shoes, ought to serve as a warning to every husband in the land—either not to drink to intoxication, or insist upon his spouse buying her own shoes.

Salt sells now at 65 and 70 cents a barrel in Michigan. Twenty-five years ago, before the present protective tariff system was inaugurated, it sold at $2 to $2.25 a barrel. Can any one explain why the free traders should howl for "free salt?"

KILLED BY HER GLOVES.

Rarely, it may be thought; has a more singular case of accidental death been recorded than that which recently threw a much esteemed family residing in the environs of St. Petersburg into mourning. A young lady in perfect health, and with the brightest future before her, was among the guests invited to a ball, and, her toilet completed, she drew on a pair of long gloves, reaching above the elbows. Scarcely half an hour afterwards she felt considerable irritation and pain in her arms and hands, to which, however, for the moment—taken up with the pleasures of the evening—she paid but little attention.

On returning home her suffering increased, and the following day her hands and arms became covered with sores, which were attributed by the doctors called in to blood poisoning. A week later the poor girl died, after severe suffering and despite the efforts made to save her. The fatal gloves had been handed over for analysis, the conjecture being that the animal with the skin of which they were made was in some way or other diseased, and that the skin used had been imperfectly cleaned. In any case, if this conjecture prove correct, measures will doubtless be taken to ascertain, if possible, whether other gloves similarly contaminated are on sale.—London Standard.

WHAT IT COSTS TO KEEP A TROTTER.

"It doesn't cost as much to keep a fast roadster as most people imagine." The speaker was genial Ol Chenowith, the veteran trainer and handler of trotting horses. "You see," he continued, "people think that only a Vanderbilt or a Jay Gould can afford to own a trotter, but when you get down to facts you can easily see how such an idea is all wrong. Now, a man can go out and buy an out-and-out good colt for $500 or $600. Well, after a gentleman gets the horse and sees for himself that he's got a streak of speed in the bargain, all that's necessary to develop the same is to put horse in the stable of some reliable trainer. Anyone of us will agree to work, feed and tinker generally with a horse for $35 a month. When you come to think of it this is certainly a most reasonable figure, especially as the horse is developed and turned out as good as he possibly can be. Now $35 a month for eight months is $280 and the other four months, when the horse is turned out, he will cost $20 a month. That's $80 more. Add it to the $280 and it gives you exactly $360. That is precisely what it costs to keep a horse who will bring reputation to his owner and perhaps earn a record for himself."—Baltimore News.

CRUEL BREVITY.

"Will you think of me after I am gone?" she asked. "Will you love me as much then as you do now?" "More," he said absent-mindedly.

Charleston, S. C., does not appear to be growing in wealth very rapidly. The city assessor reports that the value of real estate has increased $06,000, and that of personal property decreased $248,700 during the past year.

The London fire brigade is to be increased by three stations and a hundred men, and the newspapers say that this is utterly insufficient, and predict a great fire some day that will sweep away a large part of the city.

TOLEDO NOTES.

Mr. Conklin sold eighty acres of his farm to Mr. McEwin, and now he feels quite happy.

County Surveyor Porter is now surveying Vincent's addition to Toledo. Persons wishing fine lots for summer resorts better come soon and make their purchase, as they will soon be gone.

Mrs. W. T. Webber is visiting friends and relatives at Toledo.

The upper Yaquina river is still very muddy caused from small land slides.

Geo. Bethers closed his successful term of school to-day. We understand he will soon build a residence on his lots near Mr. Brazelton's.

Feb. 25, 1890. T.

Professor John Henry Constock, the eminent naturalist, begins in the New York Ledger of March 1, a series of six articles on the study of insects, in which he describes, not only those insects which are useful to the farmer, but also, those which destroy entire fields of grain, cotton and rice, and raze orchards, gardens and vineyards. He demonstrates how it was scientifically determined that an average annual loss of $30,000,000 has been occasioned in the south by the cotton-worm alone; and that an average loss per year, of nearly $2,400,000, has been brought about in the apple crop of Illinois by the ravages of the codlin moth. The series is profusely illustrated.

There is one business in every city which never is, nor cannot be, duplicated. That is the post office. No doubt, at all, there are many (even nationalists) who desire to go into the business, but this great U. S. government has a corner on these p. o. doings.

Thos. Graham was re-elected director and W. St. Clair clerk, of this school district, at the election and meeting last Monday.

BREVITIES.

Go to C. B. Wells, Philomath, Or., for your fine eggs to set.

S. L. Kline and family left for San Francisco via Portland yesterday.

J. M. Nolan leaves for San Francisco tomorrow. He will select a large stock of goods while there for his store in this city.

Carlile & Jeffreys negotiate loans and do a general real estate and insurance business. Rooms over Benton county bank.

W. A. Greenman, of Siwasha county, Michigan, is in Corvallis at present representing G. F. Cram, map and atlas publishers.

Smith & Stettler will move their "Corvallis" meat market from their present quarters to the store room adjoining Hanson's clothing store.

The building adjoining Case's barber shop on the north is being partitioned off into several rooms one of which will be occupied by the abstract company as an office, and the remaining portion for a sort of boarding house.

In the corner store room of the Crawford & Farra brick, corner Adams and Second street, a new gent's furnishing goods establishment is to be opened by John Osborn & Co., of Salem. A portion of the stock arrived during the week past and busy hands have been shelving it preparatory for the opening.

"Josh" Mason, who, with his family, has been in California for the past two months, arrived home yesterday via Yaquina route. He reports a splendid trip up by steamer. His wife and son, Wayman, will start for home as soon as the S. P. overland trains begin running again. She will bring an elegant stock of millinery goods with her.

The committee having charge of the Longfellow entertainment have been asked to furnish another, taking up some special character to study. They have therefore under way, an "evening with Dickens, the novelist, and Mendelssohn, the tone poet." As these two great men appeared on the world's stage about the same time, the study will be interesting.

WAKED UP EFFECTUALLY.

A lethargic, dormant condition of the liver is hardly to be overcome with drastic cathartics and nauseous cholagogues. A gentler, pleasanter and far more effective means exists of arousing the organ when somnolent. This is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, vouchered for by the medical fraternity, tested by the public for many years. A resumption by the biliary organs organ of its secretive function, with the activity attendant upon health, a return to regularity of the bowels, and a renewal of digestion, are the no less happy and certain results of using the Bitters systematically. Its laxative effect is never painful and drenching, its tendency being rather to perpetuate regularity than to produce a copious action. Malaria, nervousness, debility, kidney troubles and neuralgia it subdues effectually.

A LONG-FELT WANT.

Candidate—You are a workingman, are you not?

Workingman—I am, sir.

Candidate—Well, I am a candidate for a position of trust, and I wish to say to the sons of toil—

Workingman (who is tired of taffy and disgusted with its results)—I'm very busy now, sir.

Candidate—I was merely going to state that if elected I shan't do any more for the workingmen than for anybody else, because I don't care a continental for one class more than another, and I don't think there should be any classes in legislation, anyhow.

Workingman (grasping his hand)—You'll get my vote

When you want good goods at the lowest prices go to A. F. H's.

MARRIED.

In Corvallis, on Monday, March 3, 1890, by E. Holgate, county judge, W. L. Davis and Mrs. Dolly Brothers, both of Benton county.
