THE RESULT.

The republican party in Oregon has fully established Oregon's place as a republican state beyond a peradventure. The last general and presidential elections having been more or less affected by the cry against "Free Wool," it has been considered by many that perhaps on a quiet election, such as the one just passed, we might not hold so great a balance of power; but the result of Monday's victory emphatically proves that there is no uncertain sound in her pretensions to a place among the elect. Governor Pennoyer, it is true, has demonstrated that a large element of votes can be galvanized and pulled when the effort is put forth to do so and it is no credit to the republican party that this is the case. Admitting that Simon in his frantic, sorehead rage knifed Mr. Thompson to the loss of a large vote and that the republican candidate lost a large vote on account of the water bill veto and the union party, the real point seems to have been that Mr. Thompson is immensely wealthy and voters at the polls will vote against wealth, because they associate wealth and monopolies so closely together that their own discernment fails to detect the difference. This has been unfortunate for Oregon because there is a difference between Mr. Thompson and his wealth and those monopolists who make the poor man's life and work a burden while they enjoy the luxuries of life at the price of his skill and toil. Mr. Thompson's lot has not been cast in such a place and while it is true that he is very wealthy it is also true that his riches are not employed in that manner which deprives our free-born American citizens of their freedom and binds them with the chains of monopoly. But a republican legislature will be watchful in what it submits to his Excellency in the future.

This county, which, was thought to have been republican by 150 or 200 has dropped back into her old place as a "tie" county, and this result may be attributed in part to the wool tariff issues made the last two elections and also to the dissolution of the prohibition party most of whom, it is conceded, returned to the party which gave them birth while perhaps a few drifted into the union party. It should be remembered in reflecting on the constituency of the two latter parties that the principles set forth by each are not synonymous and that while backsliders of one ilk constituted the following of the one; a different ilk, but still backsliders make up the supporters of the other, so that it is not safe to assume that the prohibitionists just simply organized under another name. Not all. The indications are that the prohibitionists returned to the democratic ranks while the union party is supplied principally from dissatisfied republicans. This would account in itself for Benton's return to a doubtful county. The great amount of scratching showed that there was no evidence of an organization on the part of either party but the result tends to show that the party strength on each side was, on the whole, very well maintained. Generally the result is quite satisfactory to the republican party and while there is regret at Mr. Thompson's defeat there is an abundance of room in which to rejoice over the result in other respects.

COUNTING THE PEOPLE.

The eleventh census of the United States is being taken in this month. The census enumerators began their work last Monday, June 2, and will visit every house and ask questions concerning every person and every family in the United States. The questions that are asked call for the name of every person residing in the United States on the first day of June, with their sex and age, and whether white, black, mulatto, quadroon, octaroon, or Chinese, Japanese, or Indian. Inquiry will be made also of every person as to whether they are single, married, widowed or divorced, and, if married, whether married during the census year. The place of birth of each person, and the place of birth of the father and mother of each person, will also be called for, as well as a statement as to the profession, trade, or occupation followed and the number of months unemployed during the census year. For all persons ten years of age or over a return must be made by the enumerator as to the number able to read and write, and also the number who can speak English. For those who can not speak English the particular language or dialect spoken by them will be ascertained. For children of school age, also, the number of months they attended school will be recorded by the census enumerators. In the case of mothers an inquiry will be made as to the number of children they have had, and the number of these children now living at the present time. This inquiry is to be made of all women who are or have been married, including all who are widows or have been divorced. Foreign-born males of adult age, that is, 21 years of age or over, will be asked as to the number of years they have been in the United States, and whether they are naturalized or have taken out naturalization papers. Of the head of each family visited the question will be asked as to the number of persons in the family, and whether his home is owned or hired; also if owned, whether the home is free from mortgage incumbrance. If the head of the family is a farmer, similar inquiries will be made concerning the ownership of the farm. In addition to these inquiries, all of which are made on the population schedule, the law under which the census is taken makes provision for special inquiries concerning such of the population as may be mentally or physically defective in any respect, that is, insane, feeble-minded, deaf, blind, or crippled, or who may be temporarily disabled by sickness, disease or accident at the time of the enumerator's visit. Certain special inquiries will also be made concerning inmates of prisons and reformatories and of charitable and benevolent institutions. Besides this, a statement will be called for concerning all persons who have died during the census year, giving their name, age, sex, occupation, and cause of death. This official count of the people comes but once in ten years, and every family and every person should consider it to be their duty to answer the questions of the census enumerators willingly and promptly, so that definite and accurate information may be gained concerning the 65,000,000 people living within the bounds of this great country.

OREGON is one of the greatest wool producing states in the Union. In fact wool is so plentiful that it can be found over the eyes of the majority of the citizens of the state. It was put there during the recent campaign by Governor Pennoyer, and accounts in a great measure for his re-election to office.—Telegram.

TO BENEVOLENT SOCIETIES.

No organizations in the United States have multiplied more rapidly in the past ten years than the sick-benefit, funeral-aid, death-benefit, and other kindred societies.

As they are generally confined to those who are in the humbler walks of life, the good they have done is incalculable, carrying substantial aid to thousands of stricken families and inspiring those who are fortunate enough in being members with a courage which might not exist in their hearts without them.

The members of these organizations will be glad to learn that Hon. Robert P. Porter, Superintendent of the eleventh census, will endeavor to secure statistics of the noble work these associations are doing, and it is safe to say that no other branch of the census will be more interesting.

The business of gathering the data has been placed in charge of Mr. Charles A. Jenney, special agent of the insurance division, 58 William street, New York City, and all associations throughout the United States, whether incorporated or private, should assist by sending to him the address of their principal officers.

LAST year the revenue from distilled spirits and fermented liquors amounted to a little more than the sum paid for pensions to veterans. The taxes of 1889 on distilled spirits of all sorts were $74,302,887, and on fermented liquors $23,723,835.

THAT was a hard hit an irreverent voter gave to a politician who was a strict church member when he said: "You must think more of your politics than you do of your religion, because you have often asked me to vote for you, and your party ticket, but you have never asked me to join or attend your church." There is something in this to set some political church-members to thinking.—Astorian.

A PROMINENT Marion county wool grower says the news of Hermann's election has raised the price of wool a cent and a half more the day after than the day before the election.—Statesman.
