REPUBLICAN VICTORY.

We Lose the Governor but Binger Hermann's Majority Unprecedented.

The County Ticket Divided, But Principally Republican.

Monday morning found the solid men of both parties, the demagogues, wire pullers and rabble, all astir bright and early to battle over the American citizen as he exercised his royal prerogative on that day. Earnest work was done in every precinct of the county. The great democratic war-cry was "Pennoyer" and their watchword "Mackay" and notwithstanding the extraordinary efforts of Mackay's friends Mr. Jolly made a good race and would have been elected had he carried his party vote in Lower Alsea and Newport. The outlying and coast precincts slaughtered Holgate with a vengeance while his own locality gave better indications of its appreciation of his work of public improvements, in handsome majorities. The two Corvallis precincts polled over six hundred votes while some other points developed a considerable increase in voters. Generally, however, the vote polled throughout the county, with the exception of two or three places springing rapidly into notice, was not materially different from that given two years ago.

The legislative ticket is republican, both our representatives having been elected as was also the republican commissioner. Considerable rejoicing was had in the democratic ranks when the approximate returns indicated that Hinton, democratic commissioner, had been the unfortunate victor; but the official count, which was terminated Wednesday night at one o'clock, gave the majority to Chambers. Wherever the democratic surveyor ran ahead of his ticket the republican judge got a phenomenal vote. Porter's majority was about 40.

In Philomath precinct Bryan cut Wilson's usually large majority down to 7 votes while the republican sheriff got 160 to Mackay's 64 in the same precinct. The union party averaged about 80 votes in the county and their candidate for county judge was also defeated in Newport precinct for justice of the peace. Six or eight years ago he was running on the republican ticket for justice, last election a prohibitionist and on this occasion filled the breach on both union and democratic tickets as a regular candidate for each. "Consistency, thou art indeed a jewel!" Notwithstanding this record, Stout is a rare good and careful man and is true to his convictions, (only his convictions are more or less vacillating), and he would have been elected over a less popular candidate than Mr. Acklom. Of course, "Bush" was elected. He got a complimentary majority of over 300 votes and judging from the old-time ring in his hearty laugh the result must have pleased him.

Crosno will qualify as senator from Benton by a very fair majority but the county cash will be handled for two years by Telt Burnett, democratic treasurer, and the tax-payers will soon have a chance to avoid the visits of Mr. Skipton who pulled in with a slight majority. After all the agitation over the "illegibility" of Miss Spencer for superintendent, Prof. Yates got there in great shape with a plurality of some 70 or 80 votes. So the county will not have a law-suit on its hands to contest this question, and the educational matters for this county have been placed in the hands of a man who will be able to reach every locality and attend personally to the wants of each district and who is eminently well fitted for the office.

The state ticket in Benton gave Pennoyer over 250 majority of 8000 in the state at large. Dispatches in Thursday's Oregonian tell that Mr. Hermann was deeply moved by the news from the state. He says that such an overwhelming vote of confidence in him by the people of Oregon far exceeded his fondest expectations. But he also showed a solicitude regard on behalf of the other candidates on the ticket.

The balance of the state republican ticket received good majorities and Oregon with one exception may well be proud of the achievement of last Monday and the month immediately preceding it.

The official returns of Benton county will be found in another column.

SHOOTING AT BIG ELK.

On last Saturday Morning the little community on upper Big Elk, in this county, were thrown into a state of excitement by the news that Morgan Lillard, an old resident, had been shot and mortally wounded by his son-in-law, R. L. Feagles, who lives in the same neighborhood. The news proved to be true and Lillard died the following day about noon.

The particulars leading to this result, as near as can be secured, are as follows: Some years ago Lillard quarreled, over some trifling matter, with Feagles and from that time has not been friendly towards him; had at different times said he would be the death of him, Feagles, and two or three weeks ago assaulted him with a knife but was prevented from accomplishing his murderous design by the interference of others who were present.

Lillard's and Feagles' ranches being contiguous to the same county road, Lillard found occasion, over some fancied grievance, to continue his quarrel with Feagles on this account. Accordingly, on Saturday morning, while Feagles was working on his fence, Lillard came along the road and when within about twenty yards of Feagles pointed his revolver at him and said, "Now, G—d d—n you, I've got you! D—n you, don't you pull," and began firing at Feagles, his second shot taking effect in Feagles' right wrist, inflicting a slight flesh wound. Feagles, being armed, drew his revolver and both men exchanged shots until their weapons were emptied. Feagles' third shot struck Lillard about one and one-half inches above the navel. Lillard dropped his pistol on the road and returned to his ranch calling to a passing neighbor to send assistance to him as he was hurt.

Feagles also requested some passing neighbors to call on Lillard and see if he was injured, telling them of the fray. Dr. Loggan, of Philomath, was summoned but could not avert the impending crisis and Sunday Morgan Lillard died surrounded by his family and regretted by few persons of his acquaintance.

Both of the combatants had long been widowers. Lew Feagles, as he is usually called, is a quiet man who attends to his own business but who is creditably imbued with a proper sense of the truth of the old maxim "self preservation is the first law of nature" and he seems to have simply followed this rule in this instance as he availed himself of the first opportunity of placing himself within the clutches of the law. But it is probable that it will be only a matter of form, for this seems to be a plain case of self protection.

Morgan Lillard was a quarrelsome man and of late years was almost constantly before the criminal courts, in the county, either as private prosecutor or an offender against the peace and dignity of the state. And he was looked upon as one who was not above bullying a weaker man. Probably this habit had grown on him until he imagined that he was in a degree omnipotent; for it is hard to believe that he would court certain death or murder a neighbor in cold blood on so trifling a provocation. He must have given himself over to morbid broodings and it is charity to view his case in this light. His tragic death should stand as a warning to neighborhood bullies.

ACCIDENT.—Ira Hines who lives with John Whitaker, about ten miles south of Corvallis, met with a painful accident last Friday while hauling lumber from Peter Rickard's mill to the former place. In climbing on to the wagon just as the team started, he, in some way caught his left foot in the wheel of the wagon and before he could extricate it the wheel turned in such a way as to break both bones of the leg between the knee and ankle joints. Dr. C. H. Lee was called, and set the broken bone.

INDIAN WAR VETERANS.—The annual meeting of Camp No. 5, Oregon Indian War Veterans, was held in this city on May 18, 1890. Col. Kelsay chairman. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Captain, S. N. Lilly, First Lieutenant, Andrew Enrick; Orderly Sergeant, E. Marple. The following persons were appointed delegates to the grand encampment which meets in Portland on June 16, 1890: Col. Kelsay, S. N. Lilly, E. Marple, P. Scott and Andrew Enrick.

LOST.—On Friday, May, 30th a child's gold neck chain, valued as a keepsake. Finder will be rewarded by returning to RALSTON COX.

RUNAWAY.—Geo. Dow, who lives on Dick Irvine's place, near the butte, nine miles South of Corvallis, was seriously injured in a runaway last Saturday. He was hauling a load of lumber from Rickard's mill and while passing the McPorter place his team became frightened and ran away. Dow was thrown from the wagon and collided with the earth in such a manner as to break two of his ribs and badly bruise him about the head and body.

THOSE 10-ACRE FRUIT FARMS.—The ten acre fruit farms, on sale by The Oregon Land Co., within four miles of Salem, are within reach of all desiring a homestead, and attended to with due diligence will afford a good living. Not many years hence each of these small farms will become a valuable possession.

There will be services at the Congregational church next Sunday at the usual hours. In the morning the children will take part in the services, and several children will be presented for baptism. In the evening the pastor will lecture on "Flowers, Birds and Children." All children under one hundred years of age are cordially invited to attend these services.

CONVERGING THAT WAY.—The Columbian of Astoria says: "The railroad situation brightens every hour. Sure of one great line, Astoria now finds much pleasure in counting up the others which are looking this way. Surveyors are coming down the river, and the Albany & Astoria company will have its men in the field next week. The Northern Pacific is not idle, but may be expected to place its engineers at work at any moment. The Coast Line from Astoria to San Francisco is far from being a chimera, and will be built within ten years." This shows that the people of Astoria are awake to their advantages as a seaport, and understand that the volume of their ocean commerce largely depends on their facilities of interior transports. That city is forcing rapidly ahead and those lots remaining unsold in North Pacific Addition to Astoria now on sale by The Oregon Land Company afford an opportunity for profitable investment.

Scaly Skin Diseases.

Poriasis 5 years, covering face, head and entire body with white scabs. Skin red, itchy and bleeding. Hair all gone. Spent hundreds of dollars. Pronounced incurable. Cured by CUTICURA Remedies.

Cured by Cuticura.

My disease (psoriasis) first broke out on my left cheek, spreading across my nose, and almost covering my face. It ran into my eyes, and the physician was afraid I would lose my eyesight altogether. It spread all over my head, and my hair all fell out, until I was entirely bald-headed; it then broke out on my arms and shoulders, until my arms were just one sore. It covered my entire body, my face head and shoulders being the worst. The white scabs fell constantly from my head shoulders, and arms; the skin would thicken and be red and very itchy, and would crack and bleed if scratched. After spending many hundreds of dollars, I was pronounced incurable. I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using two bottles CUTICURA RESOLVENT, I could see a change; and after I had taken four bottles, I was almost cured; and when I had used six bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT and one box of CUTICURA, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I thought the disease would leave a very deep scar, but the CUTICURA REMEDIES cured it without any scars. I cannot express with a pen what I suffered before using the CUTICURA REMEDIES. They saved my life, and I feel it my duty to recommend them. My hair is restored as good as ever, and so is my eyesight. I know of others who have received great benefit from their use.
