A PURE BAKING POWDER.

A baking powder that can be depended apon to be free from lime and alum is a desideratum in these days of adulterated food. So far as can be judged from the official reports, the "Royal" seems to be the only one yet found by chemical analyses to be entirely without one or the other of these substances, and absolutely pure. This, it is shown, results from the exclusive use by its manufacturers of cream of tartar specially refined and prepared by, patent processes which totally remove the tartrate of lime and other impurities. The cost of this chem-A fine line of new boots, shoes and rubically pure cream of tartar is much greater than any other, and it is used in no baking injurious substance." Prof. Love's tests, and the recent official tests by both the United States and Canadian governments, show the Royal Baking Powder to be superior to all others in strength and leavening power. It is not only the most economical in use, but makes the purest, finest flavored and most wholesome food.

FROM THE SUNNY SOUTH.

BATESVILLE, MISS., Nov. 11, '91. It is with pleasure I announce to you our safe arrival at our once old home, finding our friends all well. We had a very pleasant trip, but a little too long, being completely worn out when we reached Batesville. We were just six days and seven hours on the road from Corvallis, and that was a good while for me to be cooped in so small a space without exercise; but a few days' rest have straightened out all kinks, and we are ourselves once more. We never met an ill-tempered conductor on the run from Portland to St. Paul, but all seemed clever and accommodateing, and looked after the welfare of their passengers.

No accident happened of note during our trip. One brakeman had a foot crushed and one band of cattle had its rank and file thinned to a considerable extent; but cattle are cheap.

The election had just passed off when w landed in Mississippi. Only one ticket was in the field. Neither the republicans nor alliance put out a ticket, so there was no interest taken, as there was no one to be beaten, not half the yoters went to the polls. We Webfooters know nothing of hard times. If those persons in Oregon who think times are hard there would only spend a few days in these old states they ould not find a train that would carry them fast enough to reach Webfoot again. The cotton crops are short and prices are low, being only seven cents per pound. I can make more money at forty cents per bushel for wheat in Oregon than can be made from cotton at seven cents.

A great many negroes are in a deplorable condition. The fool creatures will not rent land and give part of the crop, but must give so many bales of cotton for so many cres of land, and this year they will not nake the rent. We read in the papers, we near ministers preach from the pulpit, we near men talk on the streets what rapid strides the negroes are making financially, morally and religiously. It is emphatically not so, when we come to regard them as a race. There are plenty of families right here that have not one bite to eat but bread

When we reached our destination it had not rained in six weeks, but since our arriheavy winds; but that is common in this that the State Agricultural College is country. STRANGERS' IMPRESSIONS.—The impression that strangers who visit this city would have of Corvallis can only be wondered at. Walking in the western suburbs of the city, they could not but be favorably reminded enough to make a city. Then they would look at the dormitory and inspect the experiment station, and see all the improvements of the past year, and go away feeling that there is a spirit of public enterprise somewhere in the air. Passing along the Corvallis public school building, they would be highly impressed with the manifestations of the Marine band of this city are making of progress that prompted its erection. Looking to the southwest, they would see the carriage factory, the result of home enterprise in the investment of home capital. and of course the stranger would know that our monied men are trying to solve the problem of progress. He would also be impressed-in fact delighted-with the numberless nice dwellings, the court house, the. railroad depots, our nice churches, etc., and he would go down to Main street. Then the stranger would certainly feel like kicking himself. The bottom would completely drop out of his magnified imagination. In fact, it would be bottomless both at the top and bottom. He would look about him and see Chinese laundries and mud, and tobacco signs, and old wagon axles, and mud, and tobacco signs, and Chinese laundries, and old buildings that had been built as far back as the eye can reach. The stranger would then take the first train for home. Would it not materially help the appearance of Main street and benefit the property owners financially if they tear down some of those old and disgraceful looking woodbrick buildings in their stead?
