NEW RECEIVER RECOGNIZED.

NEW YORK, March 20.—Judge Ingraham in the supreme court today made an order confirming Everett W. Hadley, of Corvallis, Or., as receiver of the Oregon Pacific railroad, and directing ex-receiver Hogg, of New York, to surrender the books of the company to the Farmers' Loan and Trust company. Hogg's counsel said the order would be obeyed.
Among the most prominent applicants for official appointment at Washington is named will T. Webber for collector of customs at Yaquina bay. Webber is something of a rustler himself.

NATURE'S SUREST ALLY.

If nature did not struggle against disease, even in weakly constitutions, swift relief would be the course of a malady to its fatal termination. While nature thus struggles for us, let us bestir our own strength with judicious medicinal help. Experience must be our guide in battles with disease, and that "Lamp to our feet" indicates Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a safe, tried and thorough ally of nature. If the blood be infected with bile, if the bowels and stomach be inactive, if the kidneys fail to expel impurities of which they are the natural outlet, a course of the Bitters is the surest reliance of the sufferer, one, moreover, that is sanctioned by professional indorsement and used for nearly half a century. No American or foreign remedy has earned greater distinction as a remedy for a host of chronic liver complaint, malaria, constipation, kidney and rheumatic trouble and debility.

CONCERTS.

The Marine band gave an excellent open air concert Saturday evening at the corner of Second and Madison streets. This was a first of a series of concerts to be given one evening each week during the season at such points on the street as may from time to time be most acceptable. There ought to be a band stand at some eligible situation in the city for this purpose. The band is working industriously to attain the most favorable result and their music given to the public is hailed with pride and appreciation. The influence a good band has upon the reputation of a town in the eyes of visitors and strangers is more weighty than many people imagine. It is the opinion of competent judges that Corvallis' now has the best band she has ever had.

CHOLERINE IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Swickley, Penn.: We had an epidemic of cholera, as our physicians called it, in this place lately and I made a great hit with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I sold four dozen bottles of it in one week and have since sold nearly a gross. This Kennedy did the work and was a big advertisement for me. Several persons who have been troubled with diarrhoea for two or three weeks were cured by a few doses of this medicine. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. Graham, Druggist.

The verdict of murder in the first degree brought against George Moore, the slayer of Gus Barker, created a touching scene in the Portland court. When the clerk read the document Moore flinched, but remained perfectly cool. His aged mother, Mrs. Joico, who sat beside him, appeared to have been stricken with palsy. She trembled from head to foot, but with heroic fortitude restrained her tears. Rev. Mr. Habersham, who had sat with Mrs. Joico throughout the trial, put his hand to his eyes and wept like a child. Moore was then taken back to jail. When the terms of the verdict were broken to Mrs. Barker she broke down in hopeless grief, and the widow of the murdered man cried but said the verdict was just. An effort is being made for a new trial.

Morgan Wasson, indicted for murder in the first degree for killing A. W. Grubbe, at Lebanon, was arraigned in court at Albany last Saturday, and plead not guilty. The prisoner appeared to be in poor health, and looked pale and nervous. An application for a continuance was made, a showing being made that an important witness by the name of E. Marshall, who is now in Independence, Kansas, will swear that Grubbe threatened to kill the defendant. After the argument of the motion to continue, the case was set for trial at 1 o'clock on April 24th at a special term to be called for that purpose.

The train on the Oregon Pacific to the front Monday found an embankment on the lower side of the track at a point just above W. H. B. Stewart's place, a mile and a half side of Niagara, had slid out. Section Superintendent Sexton with his men had thrown the track back, but it was thought best not to cross, so the mail to Niagara and Green Basin was sent up and brought out by hand car, and the train ran no farther up.—Albany Herald.

The city council failed to get together and appoint a night watchman last Saturday evening, and will probably take another twist at the deadlock at another meeting next Monday night. Mr. McClagan is now officiating.

Hon. Lydell Baker addressed the students at the college chapel Sunday last, as per announcement. A large congregation of the city's residents heard the discourse and generally speak highly of it. His subject was "The Life of Lincoln."
At the last meeting of the Agassiz scientific society President Bloss delivered an address on "The early lives and works of some of our Scientists," which is spoken of with particular interest in scholastic circles, and highly complimented by those who heard it generally.

Along the low places coursing many farms are to be seen long red lines of tiling, where workmen are engaged in sinking an effective system of drainage and thereby adding great value to the lands thus treated. This little item contains a story of some moment, itself.
The Florence West aptly states that the Junction City Times "is thoroughly inoculated with county division madness." The defeat of the Blaine county confiscation scheme is what ails the Times. To this day it reuds the air, fights invisible demons and refuses to be comforted. The Times should cool off a little and be reasonable about these matters. It is a badly bred child which has not been taught that it cannot have everything go just the way it wants it to go in this life.

No clue has yet been found to the murderer of John Lovell, who was murdered in his cabin near Lebanon. The murder was no doubt committed for money. Mr. Lovell is said to have been a miserly old gentleman, and likely had several hundred dollars in his possession at the time.
Early in April there will be issued from the scientific experimental department of the agricultural college a bulletin on the proper treatment for defense against the codling moth and the hop louse, the result of the work during the past year. Farmers and hop growers will receive this important bulletin in ample time to make preparations for spring.

At the last term of the county court it was decreed that in the matter of supplies to be purchased at the expense of the county all such supplies shall be bought upon a requisition issued by the county judge, and no bill will be recognized by the court that is not accompanied by such requisition. Other counties long since adopted this system of conducting business.

The Masonic fraternity of this city it seems is taking definite steps towards erecting a brick building on their lot north of Nolan's store on Second street. They have ordered the vacation of the building now standing there preparatory to cleaning it away to make room for the new structure. Several other brick buildings are talked of in the city for the coming summer, though nothing decisive is to be reported on projects in contemplation at the present writing.

Ex-Assessor Skipton, living three miles from Philomath, last week lost a valuable mare under peculiar circumstances. The animal seemed to be in fine health and playful spirits when he latched her to the buggy for two ladies of his household to drive to Philomath and back. As they were driving off the Mary's river bridge on their return home, the mare without any warning symptoms fell dead, breaking both shafts of the vehicle as she dropped, but never making a struggle save that of stretching out her limbs in the rigidity of death. Heart disease was the cause assigned. A neighbor happened along with a team and took the ladies home.

Lincoln County News.
Newport has a big, new, good temp lars' lodge, with F. C. Whitten as Chief.
The following, probably a bit of Van Cleve's joshing, is from the Post: "Judge Blue says the sheriff and clerk must furnish the wood to keep their offices warm—they are fee offices, and the county won't furnish wood for office fires."
The "Blake house" that was, is now the "Hotel Lincoln."
The citizens of Toledo are raising a subsidy to induce the railroad people to put them up a good depot building.

News: The government works are progressing rapidly under the careful management of Mr. Holcomb. The pile-driving on the first spur of the south jety is about completed.
The steamer Willamette Valley passes over the Yaquina bar at half tide to suit her own convenience and does not need any tug to help her in or out, either.

SUGAR BEET CULTURE.
Sugar beet culture is receiving increased attention in Oregon. Several interesting bulletins have been prepared by Chemist Shaw, of the state agricultural experimental station. His observations have evidently been made with great care, and his figures and deductions give information that is both interesting and instructive.
His conclusions are favorable. He argues that the industry can be made to pay well here. If so, the farmers should do all in their power to promote it. Wherever it has succeeded, the profits have been large. It is bringing a great amount of money into Nebraska, and also much into California. If properly managed here it will furnish a needed diversity to the farmers' crops, and give them further opportunity for making money.

The analysis of the chemist for beets raised in twelve counties show an average sugar per cent. 14.13 and 78.08 per cent. purity. As the typical beet weighing 600 grams has 14 per cent. sugar and 80 per cent. purity, this trial is very encouraging. The yield of beet per acre for the state averaged 23.2 tons, and a range from 9.3 in Clackamas to 53.2 in Marion. With a good season the average would have been much higher. As to the cost of raising, the average for last summer was said by twenty-eight farmers to be about $4. That of the summer before, when raising was less perfect, it was from $11 to $24. The figures of 1892 do not include all the expenses of harvesting and carting to market. These would raise them a little. The profits vary according to conditions, but one large test made the average about $40 per acre.

The industry is yet really in its experimental stage in Oregon, but the investigations of the agricultural station show it can be carried on successfully.—Herald.

THE MARKLEY CASE.
Judge Shattuck, as arbitrator in the claim of Markley and Hayes against Multnomah county, decided Friday last that the claimants were entitled to $4500 more than the $13,100.
The claimants were authorized by the county court to get up the present property-ownership books. For the work they were to receive $6000 and a per centum upon the property discovered by them which was not on the assessment roll for 1891. These items the county court was willing to allow—they footed up to $7100—but the contract did not recite a previous order providing only for property not on the assessment roll at all. Judge Shattuck therefore held that the contract called for much more and very different matters from those provided in the order. Accordingly he made the award as above stated.

Sheriff George H. Landis of Lincoln county was a sojourner in the city a day or two the first of the week, looking into matters affecting the shrievalty of the new county. He will soon remove his residence from Newport, where he has considerable property interests, to Toledo, the adopted county seat.

SLIGHTLY "MIXED."

With the ordinarily level headed and efficient fire department of Corvallis, a pertinent question just at present writing would be something of the "Where are we at?" tenor. Things in that line seem to be somewhat a-wry. The department board of delegates appear to have subsided into a state of "innocuous desuetude" owing, perhaps, to a deadlock between themselves and the city council regarding certain compensations claimed by the b. of d. under stipulation, but never received. The upshot of that matter is that no annual election of officers of the department was called or held early in March, as by law provided; at the instance of the board of delegates, and the probabilities are the old officers will have to hold over another year. Then again Corvallis Hook and Ladder Co. No. 1.—the old reliable—feels backward about bowing its head to new conditions. It is by far the oldest organization in the city. It has an elegantly appointed hall in Fisher's block, which it has furnished at cost well on to $1,000 at its own expense. It has maintained itself always on its spirit of independence, receiving from the city only the item of hall rent. It is loth now to surrender all its past accomplishments which its members feel will be the virtual result of moving into the new city building and sharing quarters with the department in common. However, they have a committee out with a view of finding a buyer for their furniture, so that their differences may soon be brought to an amicable adjustment. The bill of the fire delegates, also, is in the hands of the finance committee for early settlement. All these things will come around all right in due time. No trouble about that. It is pertinent to suggest, however, that the best way to do business is to do it on business principles.

PRUNES.
G. A. Waggoner returned Saturday from the Excelsior fruit farm, 5 miles west of Monroe. He has just completed setting out 100 acres in Italian prunes. The company of which Mr. Waggoner is general manager intends to plant 100 acres each year until they will have 500 acres in prunes. This will make the largest orchard in the state. It speaks well for the enterprise of Benton county's fruit growers, and bodes a handsome return of profits in the near future.

Touching prune raising as a source of revenue a little item is mentioned to a GAZETTE representative which speaks for itself. James Hendershott, of Union county, Oregon, and member of the state board of horticulture, states that the receipts from his crop of Italian prunes last season amounted to $9,020 per acre. This knocks out any what statistics by several large majorities, much as we pride the superiority of Oregon's wheat product, and demonstrates the value of Oregon soil and climate to the home secker.

SUSPICIOUS CHARACTER.
The young scamps who have been working towns on the east side, peddling worthless rings on the "I'm in want—all I've got to help myself wish" racket, evidently struck Corvallis last week. Saturday afternoon a fellow was arrested who had sold one ring. He was very keen to scent officer Scafroff when the latter got on his track and succeeded in eluding arrest. Jim Dunn headed him off later, as he was sliding out of town in a cart and brought him back to give an account of himself. He was searched but no more rings were found on him and later when he was taken before the police judge nothing tangible could be brought against him, upon which he could be held or fined and he was released. He gave the name of Harold and said he had just come from California where his parents live. He evidently has a pal and the two of them are bent on working the country for whatever swag they can extract from it, with an ultimate landing in the penitentiary in store for them.
