LINCOLN COUNTY NEWS.

It is generally recognized that the honey from the Alsea and Yaquina bay country is the most choice of any that reaches the Oregon or California market.

The Yaquina fruit company have put out eight acres in new fruit on their farm near Nashville, this spring. The new fruit set out are mostly Japan varieties.

The people at Elk City will move the sidewalk from Siding No. 1, and put it down at their place, and will assist the company in erecting a depot building for the accommodation of the public.

A petition is being circulated and receiving many signatures, asking for the pardon of Henry Miller who was sentenced to the penitentiary for life in '88 from Benton county for murder in the second degree.

PREVENTING FUTURE MISERY.

If there is, in this vale of tears, a more prolific source of misery than the rheumatic twinges, we have yet to hear of it. People are born with a tendency to rheumatism, just as they are with one to consumption or to scurvy.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.

When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

The persistent scratching of a police whistle Sunday night created something of a breeze for a few minutes, and brought the officer to the scene of trouble.

MOSES PRICE CURED OF RHEUMATISM.

The many cases of rheumatism cured by Chamberlain's Pain Balm during the past few months have given the people great confidence in its curative properties, and have shown that there is one preparation that can be depended upon for that painful and aggravating disease.

GREATLY SURPRISED.

My wife was confined to her bed for over two months with a very severe attack of rheumatism. We could get nothing that would afford her any relief, and as a last resort gave Chamberlain's Pain Balm a trial.

THE FRUIT OF THE GREATER PART OF SIX STATES WAS RUINED BY FROST LAST MONDAY NIGHT.

The fruit only which blossoms before its first leaves are fully out was hurt, including pears, apples and peaches. The states that suffered were Missouri, north of the Ozark mountains, Illinois, Indiana, half of Ohio, Northwest Pennsylvania and Northern New York.

On Salt Creek, Polk county, Mrs. Mary Smith, nee Clamfield, presented her niece last Saturday with a male heir.

Mrs. Schmidt is the 14-year-old girl who some months ago eloped with her father's hired man from the farm. She is probably the youngest mother in Oregon, the child arriving on the 15th of April, her 15th birthday.

CONGREGATIONAL ASSOCIATION.

The Willamette association of Congregational churches held session with the Congregational church of Corvallis April 18th and 19th. About 100 delegates were present and the proceedings were spirited and of considerable interest.

TUESDAY P. M.

Convention called to order by C. C. Hogue. Rev. J. L. Hershner, of Albina, elected moderator; Mr. A. E. Wheeler, of Eugene, scribe.

After the regular order of business of executive organization, Rev. H. V. Rominger, of East Portland delivered an address on "The Today and Tomorrow of the Church," being a very able effort on the condition of the church of today, and a stirring prophetic allusion to the possibilities of the church of tomorrow.

This was followed by an address by Supt. C. F. Clapp, on the American home missionary society. The speaker gave some very interesting statistics relative to the condition of the parent society in New York, after which he took up the work of the society in Oregon. Mr. Clapp said: "The spiritual destitution of Oregon outside of the larger cities is simply amazing," and closed with an eloquent appeal to the purses of the christian people of the state to do more aggressive work for the evangelizing of the state.

Rev. H. L. Bates, of Eugene, then told the convention "How to be good Congregationalists," offering as necessary factors to good congregationalism the following: "Be loyal to your polity which embodies an unswerving fidelity to the vows we have taken. Be in harmony with all enterprises tending to build up the denomination as a whole."

After Mr. Curtis finished he offered the following resolutions, Resolved: That every Sunday school connected with a church accept the special care of one or more of the missionary Sunday-schools nearest it. Resolved: That every church, Sunday school, Y. P. S. C. E. and every ladies' society make an offering during the year for the support of the C. S. S. and P. S. S. C. E. of the C. S. S. and P. S. S. C. E.

Rev. J. M. Dick of Hillsboro followed in an address on "The Today and Tomorrow of the Temperance Conflict." The speaker struck the key note of the successful solution of the temperance problem, in the following suggestions and needs: 1. Enforce temperance laws now on statute books before enacting new ones. 2. We need systematic scientific temperance study in our schools.

"The star of hope of the temperance conflict hangs over the school house." 3. We need the ballot in the hands of the women; "It is no more degrading for a woman to place a ballot in the ballot box, than it is for her to stand over a wash tub, earning money to support the children of a drunken husband and father." 4. We need the absolute withdrawal of christian voters from the parties who sustain and support the liquor traffic.

TUESDAY EVENING.

After a song service led by Rev. Hershner and a beautiful anthem by the choir, Rev. E. E. Smiley, of Vancouver, Wash., delivered in an exceedingly impressive manner the annual association sermon, from the text "What think ye of the Christ?" We quote from his sermon a few gems of thought: "To know Christ is to have our hearts in correspondence with His; Christ was the Truth for he put it into life; 'We see in the life of Christ, God, in humanity revealed; 'What a man thinks of Christ depends largely upon what he looks to find Him.'"

James Webber, who was some weeks brought in from the coast with a broken leg and a badly shattered constitution from a desperate experience he had undergone, is doing remarkably well at the residence of Mr. Quiver, and will soon get out again without further doubt or trouble.

My wife was confined to her bed for over two months with a very severe attack of rheumatism. We could get nothing that would afford her any relief, and as a last resort gave Chamberlain's Pain Balm a trial. To our great surprise she began to improve after the first application, and by using it regularly she was soon able to get up and attend to her house work. E. H. Johnson, of C. J. $100 REWARD, $100.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists 75 cents.

DEATH OF ANDREW RECORD.

The death of Andrew Record, a pioneer of 1853, occurred at his home two miles east of Monroe on Wednesday, 19th inst. He had been in ill health by spells for some time but was able to be out for the most part up to the time of his death, when he sank away very suddenly with heart failure. Mr. Record was about 60 or 62 and leaves a wife and nine sons and daughters to mourn.

The editor of the Prim vein News writes:

"We have lived in eastern Oregon since '77 and do not remember ever to have seen a spring-time so backward as this has been. The snow-drifts are still on the hills, and where it is the normal thing to get a light to fall upon green hillsides and dales, and still from behind the western hills the rain-cloud looms up white and like some mountain of eternal snow." Shake, Br. & W. Portland. That's just about the case of this establishment that hovers over this alpine landscape. We're all mad about it, too.

LOCAL NOTES.

Case has the best bath in the city. Shaving at Case's 15 cents Sundays and 10 cents.

Try Case's new map for a first class shave or hair cut. Mrs. Stout of Newport has gone to month to live. George Fish and wife spent Sunday last with friends in Albany.

See those beautiful new patterns of new carpets and matting just in at Wilkins' furniture store. M. Stock, the pioneer merchant of this city is preparing to take up a permanent residence in Portland.

There will be a meeting of the coffee club at their headquarters in the city hall next Monday afternoon at four o'clock. W. H. McBrayer and Old Crow whiskeys, and also imported wines and liquors for medicinal purposes at Tommy Whitehorn's.

The Washington state agricultural college opened at Pullman Monday last, after an extended vacation ever since its last winter's riot. Polk county will add greatly to her hop acreage this year, in every section of the county. Its a mighty profitable industry for old Polk.

Arrangements are being made for a Union Sunday school convention, to be held at Monmouth May 4th and 5th. There will be a good program. Mrs. Walter Hartges, wife of conductor Bartges of the O. P. road and resident of Albany, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Lenger of this city.

The annual state convention of the Y. P. S. C. E. convenes in Portland the 27th, and continues three days. Seventeen delegates will represent Corvallis. Jump Off-Joe, near Grant's Pass, is now the scene of a mining excitement. A rock et in a ledge has been discovered, which it is said will yield $100,000 to the ton.

According to a Dallas correspondent Dr. Mason of that place spent Sunday in Salem. Another writer observes that Miss Clark of Salem spent Sunday in Corvallis. Circuit court adjourned for the term last evening. Judge Fullerton will return and take the bench on Wednesday next for the hearing of some Oregon Pacific railroad business.

Money is scarce and times are hard. Therefore, to accommodate his customers D. F. Irvine the foot gear manufacturer will sell fur boots, tops, shoes, puttees, leggings, in fact all kinds of country produce, in exchange for boots and shoes. The poem a Legend of the Willamette is and story: "Life is not What We Make It" that lately appeared in the GAZETTE, have been published in pamphlet form parties wishing copies can procure them at T. Graham's, or Allen & Woodward's.

News of the death of Timothy Donohue, at the home of his brother in Illinois reached Corvallis this week. For years he was the "sexton" of this city, a clever old character, whose memory is still fresh to those who remember those who speak of him bestow a kindly thought.

W. P. Drugg, who was arrested in California on a warrant from Corvallis, charged with burning a flouring mill near Astoria, will be tried at Corvallis. The insurance company, which caused his arrest, for $10,000 damages.

Astoria's great moral upheaval doesn't seem to score a single point so far on the side of reform. Although arrests have been made upon a wholesale sweep among the dives, and a conviction has been secured, but on the other hand the most farcical lot of proceedings ever seen in courts of justice have been witnessed.

The First National bank of Corvallis wants to loan twenty thousand dollars more to regular business in the usual course of banking. Deposits received from customers in the usual lines of business. Exchange drawn direct on the principal cities of Europe and America. Call and get a circular explaining the benefits derived from the business and the safety deposit banks at your own home.

The Hoag came up yesterday morning and delivered a light freight at her dock besides unloading a big wagon piled high with camping traps at the ferry landing. The steamer proceeded to Harrisburg taking freight that came over the Pacific route via Yaquina from San Francisco. Eighteen car loads of such freight have been sidetracked at Corvallis within the past week, and this the O. P. company's steamer is transporting to points both up the river and down as far as Portland.

Of course the weather in Oregon is "the worst ever seen." Of course it is, and it gets that way every other year or so. Over east of the Rockies it don't act that way. It don't keep the people on the ragged edge of suspense and displeasure. It does business up with a whip-snap movement; sends out a cyclone that turns down and roots up everything in its wake and kills off a score or two of people just to sustain its reputation. No fooliness about the weather in Kansas and Missouri et al.

A week from next Monday will be the 1st of May and the last day taxes become delinquent and costs will be added for their collection. At such a time as this, when money seems to come out like "drawing blood out of a turnip," any essay at giving advice seems just about futile, because those who have the money to pay their taxes are intelligent enough to use it properly, and for those who haven't the money, and no herewith to get it, a whole world full of advice wouldn't bring them a dollar.

In the face of the almost distressing money market, people generally will probably do the best they can because they must, and there is little else to be said about it. J. R. Durham, the printer with H. Pape's job printing office, met with a painful accident yesterday. While running a job press and attempting to watch two many points at once he overtook the set that his fingers of his left hand were lingering between the sharp edge of a form of type and the iron surface that does the pressing, and the result was he had the tips of three fingers clipped off as slick as a knife would have done the job. Fortunately the bones were not injured, and after the wounds heal the digits will be little the worse for their present abbreviations. Dr. Farra attended injured man.

The Union Pacific railroad shop employees are off on a strike, and it is possible that a general railroad blockade will yet come before the world's fair season is over. Of course! How can a railroad reduce fares when its employees are striking for higher wages?

A BIG PAY DAY.

Yesterday forenoon a special train arrived in Corvallis over the Oregon Pacific railroad bringing a number of officials of the road. Important among these was John P. Fay, of the law firm of Fay & Gest, attorneys for the present management, who has just returned from New York. Under the circumstances it was quite natural to surmise that something was on the tapis, and ere long the rumor went flying about that the promised $50,000 back pay due the railroad men was about to come forth. Nor did the report in this instance prove a shadowy disappointment, as similar reports have so often proved before. A few hours later it developed into a veritable fact, when Paymaster Hogue took his train for the bay, where he commenced to distribute the long looked for funds that will make glad the hearts of many men along the line.

The payment now making constitutes 46 per cent. of arrearages. It begins with the 7th of March, the date upon which the receivership changed, and goes back to October. While this leaves the larger balance still due the labor creditors, still it will be as a comforting police to an aching brow, until the sale of the road which comes on space, when there is every reason to believe provisions will be made for the payment of the back wages still due. At any rate the air of determination now prevalent in the management to get affairs straightened out and the road on a paying basis, inspires all concerned with new hope and confidence, and there is a broad smile of satisfaction visible on every countenance in the community.

A man has to be pretty well covered with moss not to be a regular advertiser. Here is another case of the value of advertising. A family down in Florida lost one of their children. After failing to find it for two days, they put a twenty-five cent notice in a paper and the next morning they were surprised to see an alligator upon the door step, where he had disgorged the last child alive, and then died himself. They sold the alligator hile for $3, and the parents are exhibiting the child in a dime museum for $50 per week. The story illustrates the value of advertising. It also illustrates the writer as a cheerful and painstaking liar.

Another Oregon boy has won great honors, out in the big world. Percy N. Olmsted, son of Judge M. L. Olmsted, of Baker City, is the cadet for Oregon at Annapolis, and was honored by the grade of commander of his class. This position is one which is attained purely by merit and hard work. The class graduates June 1st, after which Percy will be sent abroad for two years, before being commissioned for regular service. He holds the second best record in the world for artillery shooting, the first being held by a Minnesota boy, who is a cadet at Annapolis. As soon as a vacancy occurs Percy will go into the service of Uncle Sam on board one of the monster war ships which carry the stars and stripes.

The American protectorate in Hawaii has gone out of commission. The stars and stripes have very gracefully come down from the heights and gone back to mind their own business, at the mast-head of judicious neutrality. It was only the die appointed speculator who saw anything in the proceedings to shed tears over the swarthy Kanaka looked on with stolid indifference, and there is nothing to indicate but that business will go on in Hawaii just as prosperously as it has in years gone by, putting enough money in the pockets of Messrs. Claus Spreckles et al. to protect them from poverty, although it may not crown them with the princely fortunes which annexation would have assured them.

The Chinese residents of Corvallis will not register under the Geary law, neither will they pose in the picture business. Sorbin, the intelligent laundry tyee, says they won't. They will all go to jail first; then the big merchants will "put up the stuff" and get them out. Sorbin says they will. There is a systematic understanding among the celestialists of the country just what to do in this matter, and if there is one of them on American soil who is not thoroughly advised upon it, it must be one who has abandoned his tribal relations or is not worth looking after from some cause or another. Meritime there is a tinge of acknowledgment on the part of the government that it has slightly put its foot in it with the new law, nor the fact of its having withdrawn the photography clause of the measure. The United States marshal at Portland notifies all Chinamen that he will enforce the law. Looks as if there might be some fun ahead.

TAKE A WALK.

A good walk does what so many patent medicines profess, but usually fail to do, it helps to prevent almost any ailment under the sun; and it does it by keeping the system in good condition. During the time they were living in London, Dean Swift and Matthew Prior used to take long walks together daily, for their health, explaining to their friends that Swift was walking to reduce his flesh, and Prior, who was not only thin, to add to his. The two objects are not inconsistent; for extreme leanness, as well as extreme fleshiness, is due to imperfect assimilation of food, and the walk by improving digestion, will serve to modify each complaint. There is nothing which will so surely render useless all tonics, anti-bilious remedies, liver pills, and cosmetics of every description, as a fine, brisk, cheerful, daily walk.—Demorest's Family Magazine for May.
