PHILOMATH NEWS.

The picnic that was given here last Saturday by the I. O. O. F. was a grand success. The people were entertained in the forenoon with an able address rendered by Rev. Hoberg, of McMinnville, who gave a brief history of the order and its workings from its beginning in America with four members in the year 1818 to the present time which makes a wonderful showing. He also gave a statistical account of the enormous amount of money expended annually for sick benefits, taking care of its widows, and the education of its orphans. In the afternoon they were entertained by recitations, vocal music and stump speeches. In the evening there was given a public installation at which the following officers were sworn to perform their respective duties: J. W. Spaulding, N. G.; G. M. McDonald, V. G.; R. F. Holm, Secretary; J. A. Park, Treasurer; Johnny Irwin, Warden; R. O. Logan, Conductor; J. A. Hawkins, R. S. S.; W. H. Newton, L. S. S.; Nathaniel Dixon, Chaplain; J. W. Ingle, R. S. to N. G.; E. L. Bryan, L. S. to N. G.; J. A. Gellaly, R. S. to V. G.; T. Lee Wells, L. S. to V. G. Judging from the number of new barns being built this summer in this vicinity we would prophesy a hard winter, as some six or seven are under construction. Miss Hattie Ingle completed her term of school last Friday in Alsea and returned home Saturday. Rev. McLain, who has occupied the pulpit of the Radical church for the past year, preached his farewell sermon last Sunday. Rev. Sicafoos, of Portland, was here over Sunday, holding quarterly conference. The annual conference will be held in this place commencing August 3d. CAELEBS. Philomath, Or., July 6th, 1893.

DECIDEDLY SHAKY.

A trembling hand, an uncertain step, dizziness, indicated by restless shifting from one place or posture to another, usually mental annoyance at unexpected noises, are among the indications of extreme nervousness. These seem trifling, but the health of men and women in this condition is "decidedly shaky," liable to be overturned disastrously by causes which the vigorous might defy. To fortify the nervous system, general vigor must, through the medium of reinforced digestion and a renewal of an impaired power of sleeping at night, be raised to a healthful standard. A guarantee of this is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which re-establishes digestion, bile secretion, and the habit of body on a permanently regular basis, thus renewing the bodily equilibrium, which is followed by a gain of strength and nerve tranquility. For kidney complaint, rheumatism, neuralgia, and as a preventive of the first attack or subsequent return of malarial disorders, this medicine is without a peer. Thrice daily take a wineglassful.

About two years ago a sewing machine agent named Peck or Baxter hired a horse and buggy from Mr. Egin in this city for an afternoon. The fellow did not return at the time agreed upon and Mr. Egin started out after him. He traced the fellow through Monroe and south to the headwaters of Long Tom; thence eastward to forty miles up the Willamette from Eugene. Here Baxter had abandoned the animal and vehicle and made his escape on foot. Later he was sent to the penitentiary for embezzlement by the Singer Sewing Machine Co., and he completed his term of confinement some time ago. He was serving a term in the Coos county jail for some misdemeanor, and Sheriff Osburn made a point to be present when he was liberated. He is now in the Benton county jail awaiting trial on a charge of horse-stealing. We understand that Baxter was sent to the penitentiary from this county some years ago for forgery.

A WOMAN'S REMEDY FOR INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM.

I am an old sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism. The past winter it came on me again, very acute and severe. My joints swelled and became inflamed, sore to touch or almost to look at. Upon the urgent request of my mother-in-law, I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm to reduce the swelling and ease the pain, and to my agreeable surprise it did both. I have used three fifty-cent bottles and believe it to be the finest thing for rheumatism, pains and swellings extant. D. E. Carr, 1235 Harrison St., Kansas City, Mo. For sale by T. The Glorious Fourth.

THE GRAND CELEBRATION IN CORVALLIS.

A MAGNIFICENT SUCCESS.

The magnificent success of the celebration at Corvallis on the 4th of July was presaged by all who were in a position to realize the systematic, tireless and effective work being done by the committees, as follows: General committee, S. L. Kline, Sol. M. Stock, R. H. Huston, Geo. E. Fish, B. W. Johnson, M. Schmidt; finance committee, J. M. Nolan, S. N. Wilkins, R. H. Huston; ladies committee, Mrs. R. M. Davison, Mrs. Rose Selling, Mrs. R. H. Huston, Mrs. Ida Callahan, Mrs. S. L. Kline, Miss G. Turney, F. M. Johnson was the grand marshal and his aides were S. N. Wilkins, E. E. Wilson and Otto Wells. Geo. E. Fish was the captain of the parade and his aides were J. D. Howell and Walt Smith.

Upon the dawning of the bright morning of the 117th anniversary of our independence the national salute was fired, the cannon responding vigorously to the touch of the heated rod. The populace of Corvallis was early astir, the farmer of this thrice-blessed commonwealth arose and had his "clothes done up" at an unusually early hour and was on the highway to the scene of the day's festivities before the sun had dissipated the dews, and while yet the Chinese pheasants were crowing a patriotic quartette in every acre of grain by the roadside, as though they had in reality renounced allegiance to their native land. Patriotism and good cheer seemed to pervade the atmosphere, and later in the morning nature blessed the day with a slight shower of rain, after which the appearance of the sun was a most welcome and pleasing event.

THE PARADE.

The participants in the parade reported seasonably at the new city hall and promptly at 9 o'clock the procession moved southward on Fourth street in order as follows: Grand marshal and aides. Marine band of Corvallis. Carriages with officers of the day: President, Mayor W. S. McFadden; orator, Hon. John Barrett, of Portland; reader, Miss Hattie Bronson; chaplain, Rev. H. Gould. Float with Goddess of Liberty, Miss Lillian Hamilton; District of Columbia, Miss Bertha Forbush; Peace, Miss Edie Handy; Plenty, Miss Blanche Kantner. Liberty car, containing a throng of little girls in white and wreaths of ivy, bearing state banners. Ladies and gentlemen on bicycles, to the number of forty. The division was led by little Roy Bell, who managed his wheel with ease. The bicycles were handsomely decorated and many of the suits worn by the riders were unique and attractive. This feature of the parade called forth many favorable comments. Captain of parade and aides. Monmouth band. Float, with Columbus at the Spanish court before Ferdinand and Isabel, represented by Walter Hufford, Roy Woodcock and Miss Lula Spangler, respectively, each in appropriate attire, and all forming an interesting spectacle. Corvallis fire department with tastefully decorated apparatus—engine, hook and ladder truck, hose carts, etc., adding much to the magnificence of the parade. Carriages with ladies' committee, bearing banners. All along the line of march the ladies received assurances of appreciation of their efforts. Ladies and gentlemen on horseback. This feature of the parade was a grand display of the attractions of proud horseflesh and equestrian skill. Citizens in carriages. The magnificent teams and handsome vehicles appearing, together with the conspicuous vacancy of the place reserved for "footmen," gave evidence of the fact that all who cared to take part in the parade could afford to ride, and to ride in style, too.

LINE OF MARCH.

The procession moved up to A street, east to Second, north to Jackson, thence west to court house yard. FORENOON EXERCISES. The forenoon exercises were opened with the "Star Spangled Banner" by the Marine and Monmouth bands. Rev. H. Gould then offered a prayer in well-chosen words which brought the large assemblage to a sense of their obligations to the ultimate source of the superior blessings enjoyed. Music by Monmouth band. The president here introduced Miss Hattie Bronson, reader of the Declaration of Independence. Miss Bronson possesses a strong voice and her words rang out clearly to the limits of the vast throng. The young lady seldom took recourse to the volume in hand so well had she mastered her lines, and the earnestness and charming emphasis with which she spoke, gave evidence of a thorough knowledge of the document. Miss Bronson is a graduate of the Oregon Agricultural college, class of '93, and her alma-mater and friends have just reason to feel a strong pride in her efforts on this occasion. Music by the Marine band. The orator of the day, Hon. John Barrett of Portland, was then introduced. Although Mr. Barrett has been an actual resident of Oregon but a comparatively short time he is charmed with the attractions of the state, places a high estimate upon her resources and capabilities, and has enthusiastic faith in the future prosperity of the Pacific coast in general. Mr. Barrett has traveled extensively in all lands as correspondent of the leading newspapers of the United States. Previous requirements which fitted him for such a capacity and the fund of information gathered in his travels surely enable him to make a wise choice of a permanent home, and to speak intelligently on matters pertaining to the development of commonwealths. He is at present associate editor of the Portland Evening Telegram, an enterprising and ably edited journal which is taking rank with the leading newspapers of the coast. In his address on this occasion the speaker did not follow the well-worn paths of 4th-of-July oratory, touching merely upon the leading characters and most important events in our country's history. He preferred to discuss current matters and those immediately concerning us, and endeavored to awaken a more enterprising and energetic spirit, urging that we, as citizens of Oregon—as citizens of Corvallis—blessed with our advantages, should forge ahead to commercial supremacy. The address was eloquent throughout and held the profound attention of the assemblage from beginning to end. Mr. Barrett's words of cheer and sound advice will long be remembered by the people of this community, and when the railway facilities no longer handicap in this vicinity the Portland evening papers, we can safely promise an adequate "boom" in the business of the newspaper with which Mr. Barrett is connected. The oration completed the exercises of the forenoon, and the assemblage retired to luncheon.

AFTERNOON EXERCISES.

Promptly at 1 o'clock the baby show began at the court house grounds. About fifteen cherubs, ranging from one month to one year-old, were entered in the contest. There is some doubt as to the propriety of contests of this nature because the distinguishing marks of homeliness are seldom developed to any degree in children of such tender age, and the foundation for judgment as to their beauty is very narrow indeed. The judges of this contest, however, faced their task with courage, and decided that Zettie, the 7-month-old infant of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Underwood, was entitled to the $10 prize. The other exercises of the afternoon took place on Second street. The bicycle race, one-fourth mile, two best in three, had three entries, namely, Brady Burnett, Caleb Davis and Bart Abgar. Burnett was an easy winner in two straight heats, Davis second. As there were a number of bicyclists present who were not entitled to compete for the committee's prize, a free for all subscription purse of $10 was gotten up by Conover & Keady, to enable such persons to enter. A young man named Woods, however, was the only one who cared to compete with Burnett and Davis. The race was a single dash of one-quarter of a mile, and was won by Burnett, Davis second. In the boys foot-race, 100 yards, for a purse of $5, the Woodses were decidedly "in it." The entries were Elsie Harris, Selma Woods, George Woods, S. G. Woods. This was a pretty race and was won by George Woods.

A crowd of excitement passed over the crowd upon the first announcement that the greased pig would be turned loose. A throng of people hurriedly gathered about an ordinary box which had been placed in the street, and the congregation in one spot led others to believe that a fight was on. The gathering was dispersed in a measure and the pig was liberated from the box. A big fat man at once threw himself athwart the carcass of the little porker, and nobody anticipated that more than a "grease spot" would be left of him, but contrary to expectations, the pig wormed himself to liberty and the fat man was left with a pound or so of strong butter on his 4th of July toggery. Another gentleman, named Newland, was more successful, and obtained a few pounds of fresh pork in return for a ruined suit of clothes. A tug of war contest for a prize of $10 was next on the programme and was won by the team whose members were R. B. Blodgett, James Bryant, W. H. Green, W. E. Allen, M. Allen, Madge Davis, J. E. Clark, E. W. White, W. J. Hurlburt, James Willbanks. There were entered for the 100 yard foot race for men Will Ray, W. F. Keady, Ellsworth Cameron. Ray won the race and the $10 purse, Cameron second. Three Corvallis teams entered for the horse race under the usual conditions, for a first prize of $35, second prize $15. The winning team made the run of 100 yards, laid 150 feet of hose and obtained water in 30 seconds. This was known as the "kid" team and was composed of Ellsworth Cameron, Clyde Beach, W. F. Keady, C. Oren, D. Irvin, Pearl Hutton, Claude Carlyle, John Bereh, Miles Phillips, James Jacobs, H. C. Schreuder, A. P. Hill. In the ladies' equestrian contest Mrs. A. Wood secured the prize of $5, and Dick Kiger carried away the laurels as the best gentleman equestrian. A great many persons regarded the buttered pig as a "smooth" feature of the celebration, but finally the greased pole was voted the "sleekest" thing of the day. Quite a number made the attempt to climb the pole and secure the prize, but none succeeded. This closed the afternoon's exercises. FIREWORKS. At an early hour in the evening the fireworks were set off on the veranda of the opera house in the presence of an immense throng of admiring spectators. This feature of the celebration surpasses description. The sheets of variously colored flame that shot out in every direction, illuminating the heavens, the bursting of rockets, etc., gave the incoming excursionists from the bay the impression that the confines of eternal fire had burst in our midst. At the close of this magnificent scene large numbers of the spectators filed into the hall to witness an entertainment by the Marine band and take part in the ball which followed, both of which resulted satisfactorily to all concerned. The music and other features of the entertainment were of a high order, and brought forth rounds of applause from the appreciative audience. Dancing to the sweet melody of the Marine orchestra began at 10 o'clock. At a later hour as eye-grew heavy the enlivening strains of music put new life into the weary feet, and thus the dance went on well into the hours of July 5th. NOTES. A fact upon which the officers of the day and the people generally may be congratulated is that there was no disorder whatever on the Fourth. The front of Stock's cash store was magnificently decorated on the Fourth and called out much favorable comment. Something concerning this establishment will be found in another column. The movements of the bicyclists in the parade were very much hampered by the gentleman driving the Columbus float, in that he moved too rapidly and did not give the riders sufficient room to make a number of evolutions which were intended. Some people are very slow to recognize the bicycle anyway. The Monmouth band is one of the strongest musical organizations in the state. Frank Lucas is the leader and he is an artistic manipulator of the solo b-flat cornet. The boys are all good in their respective parts, and, withal, are a very gentlemanly set of young men. The Marine orchestra is under lasting obligations to Fred Lucas for his assistance with the clarinet at the ball. "Tex" loomed up in his usual magnificence as leader of the home band. The music furnished by the Marines was second to none ever heard on the streets of Corvallis by a single band, and in combination with the Monmouth band they came near blowing in the sides of the brick buildings. The young man from the border of Benton and Polk said to his chum: "Let's buy some cheese and get the girls and eat where we please. We don't want to pay these town people no two bits for meals."

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

HOW IS THIS?

Something unique even in these days of mammoth premium offers, it is the latest effort of Stafford's Magazine, a New York monthly of home and general reading. The proposition is to send the magazine one year for one dollar, and regular subscription price; and in addition to send each subscriber fifty-two complete novels during the twelve months; one each week. Think of it. You receive a new complete novel by mail, post paid every week for fifty-two weeks, and in addition you get the magazine once a month for twelve months, all for one dollar. It is an offer which the publishers can only afford to make in the confident expectation of getting a hundred thousand new subscribers. Among the authors in the coming series are, Wilkie Collins, Walter Besant, Mrs. Oliphant, Mary Cecil Day, Florence Marryat, Anthony Trollope, A. Colon Doyle, Miss Braddon, Captain Marryat, Miss Thackeray and Jules Verne. If you wish to take advantage of this universal opportunity, send one dollar for Stafford's Magazine, one year. Your first copy of the magazine and your first number of the fifty-two novels (one each week) which you are to receive during the year will be sent you by return mail. Remit by P. O. Order, registered letter to the following Address: H. STAFFORD, PUBLISHER, Stafford's Magazine, P. O. Box 2264, New York, N. Y. Please mention this paper.

The north-bound S. P. freight train was ditched on Saturday morning about a mile north of Parker's Station, at the Clay Pit siding, at which point the switch rails spread. A particular bolt which holds the connecting bar was found on the track near where it had evidently been removed by some person intent upon wrecking the train. No person on the train was injured. As there was no engine south on this division, a wrecking train was sent from Portland up on the east side and reached the west side over the O. P. track thence north to the scene of the disaster. The passengers, mail, etc., was transferred and reached Corvallis late in the evening.
