The committee on utions. resolutions was instructed to prepare a minute expression of the sympathy of the Presbytery with the latter in his affliction. President Bloss delivered the address of welcome, to which the moderator replied. The ladies' aid society furnished refreshments and a pleasant evening was spent. Wednesday morning the Presbytery met at 9 o'clock and the devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. G. H. Whitman of Turner. The minutes of the preceeding meetings of Presbytery were read and approved. The moderator then appointed the standing committee and the routine business of the Presbytery was taken up and transacted. The report from the churches was very encouraging and showed much growth throughout the grounds of Presbytery. At two o'clock the election of commissioners to the general assembly, which meets in Saratoga, N. Y., the 17th of May, took place and resulted in the choice of Rev. F. H. Gynne, D. D., and Elder Caleb Davis.

The evening service was conducted by the ladies, and was very interesting The church was filled to overflowing and the exercise, "Little Lights," by the Junior Endavours was a beautiful service. This was followed by an address from Rev. O. F. Wisner a missionary from Conton, China

The Presbytery adjourned at II a. m. Thursday after a most successful session and the delegates expressed their delight in visiting our beautiful city and enjoving the generous hospitality of our prosperous Presbyterian church here.

Last Night's Meeting.

At the ratification meeting held last night a futile attempt was made to restore harmony in the democratic ranks. The audience was quite large and at first quite enthusiastic. McFadden made the opening address and while he produced Wasco were nominated, the second ballot no argument, and made the startling announcement that thirty years of being favorable to Illoman, By the time prosperity had brought abject poverty he got off the stage without disgracing him-self. This was followed by music by the Cleveland quartette club which was the only creditable feature of the evening. At this juncture Judge Burnett was introduced who spoke for an hour. He told the people that the republican party was built on fraud and that ex-president Harrison was a liar. He was only scheduled for a ten minute speech but mistaking ridicule for applause, he held the boards for sixty minutes thinking the audience was being entertained by his clowish appearance, and misstatements of facts. During his remarks most of the audience left in disgust while those remaining turned the meeting into a regular pandensonium and the speaker turned on to the president and demanded still loath to close and so continued until his words were no longer audible above in disgust, after being called down the third time. The democratic convention to-day furnished the most complete illustration imaginable of hard times. Not a deleloving folk of Corvallis. The most prominent part of gether for several seasons, nothing but democratic politics for many years has soulful and approved melody bubbles been its platforms, which have uniformly been honored more in the breach than the observance and are to-day looked upon as the cheapest of all claptraps to catch credulous voters. No intelligent democrat expects a sensible man to place any confidence in his platform; the wonder is that he preserved cheek enough to make any promises to the people whatever. Democracy, being of southern birth, has claimed the chivalry and gallantry of the south. The Benton county dem ocrats are a long ways from home and have forgotten their mothers and sisters when they, in a resolution designed as part of a party platform and for the purpose of their own political advance-ment, cast a vile and contemptible slur upon the young ladies who were employed to act as clerks of committees in the last legislature. We have not the space at this time to show the enormity of this insult to worthy young ladies, who have, like young men, sought and obtained employmet at the state capitol during the session of the legislature, and will only say the resolution cannot but brand the convention which passed it as one which all good people should feel ashamed to admit was held in the 19th century.

The nomination of Dr. Applewhite for coroner, under all the circumstances, was intended as an indecent reference to a scandal which it was not proper to refer to in a convention. The remarks which followed showed quite plainly that the members had forgotten the dignity of gentlemen after passing a resolution inulting to ladies.

McFadden attributes the present hard times to thirty years of prosperity.
