

GEER ON PENNOYER.

He Uses Cold Facts as a Knife—Poppies Done Up.

On Tuesday evening the Benton County Republican Club held a torchlight procession in honor of the Hon. T. T. Geer, of Salem, who, later on, addressed an audience that filled the court house to overflowing.

After an introduction by Chairman W. E. Yates, Mr. Geer quickly, but in his earnest and sincere manner, that carried conviction with each argument, and they were many, proceeded to wade into our much warped governor in a manner that showed his thorough knowledge of his movements and his insincerities and the motives which actuated them.

"Have a warm personal regard for Pennoyer as a man," said Mr. Geer, "but I pity his moral condition. I am a farmer, have been for years, and consider a farmer as good as my governor of any state—especially in Oregon."

The reading from Pennoyer's speech delivered in Ashland on Apr. 20, "That business, and in fact all the mercantile pursuits, had not felt such depression within the forty years"—proceeded to review the history of the country for that period—as there are plenty of statistics, records and all the opportunities necessary to make an actual and complete comparison to date.

Reading from the congressional record of 1857, after a short period of democratic power, that adversity overtook the land and always follows that party in power—that in six months real estate in the city of New York alone had depreciated $100,000,000, fully equal to that of 1892, also that in two months 250 failures of business occurred in that city.

So when the governor says everybody was prosperous, he forgot to search the records and there learn that 20,000 individuals were thrown out of employment in the same city and that the discharge of that number of men then, was fully equal to that of the year just past; and yet the brilliant statesman and jurist never thought of the populists' plan of grinding out money by the bushel to make all men rich and thrust away the depressing times then existing, for the only known way of getting money then, was to work for it.

There was no Coxy's Army in those days—nor any populists—for the former is simply the people's party on wheels.

On June 9, 1846, Mr. Johns, of Kentucky, address to the house asserts that "There are on all sides signs of serious distrust in business circles." Trade is prostrated and entire cities are piled upon cities until through such a multiplicity of disasters, confidence is entirely gone and property is valueless.

Doesn't this prove an intentional misrepresentation on the part of Gov. Pennoyer? Why, many western states passed relief laws for the farmers. Why, forty years ago my own grandfather, then living in Kentucky, had but one single garment, and made his calls on the girls and his visits to church in the same and it consisted of a long tow shirt, while the girls, themselves, carried their shoes in their hands and only put them on when nearing the house of God.

Do any of the boys go calling in a long tow shirt and nothing else? I guess not. You cannot tell any of our boys apart—the clerks and the bankers' sons dress alike.

Notwithstanding that two-thirds of our men are out of employment, yet I was there during my absence and then only for $18 did I secure a neighbor owning his own plot of ground, while I, as a young man of 19, could only command $5 for the same service.

seems very sorry, indeed that no such measure was presented.

Touching on the World's Fair appropriation bill passed in spite of his veto, Pennoyer said to Wright of Marion county: "I vetoed the measure, had to do it to be consistent with my policy, yet I would rather it had passed, but I will tell you how you can get the money. Put it in the general appropriation bill, which I cannot veto and get it in that way."

A very enlightening point is the Governor's sympathy for the taxpayer and his high and mighty wrath at the Judges receiving an extra compensation over and above their $1,500 salary. Would the executive do the same? There are some facts from the archives of Salem, concerning the compensation for being an absolute demagogue. Pennoyer's salary, $1,500; Prison Inspector, $300, and all the inspection he does is to go to the penitentiary, eat a good meal and return to his office and pardon 6 or 8 bad criminals. Member of Building Committee, $500; Member of Domestic animal Com., $250; Deaf Mute School Com., $250; Member Asylum Trustee, $100; Member Reform School Com., $250. He has made incessant warfare against commissions, and claims they are unconstitutional and yet combines the executive and judicial and scoops in all the pay in sight—poor tax payer.

The "third party" made its first appearance in the Garden of Eden and did a little talking and is pursuing the same tactics down to the present time.

Pennoyer has been a signal failure as a Governor and a state disgrace ever since his election. He has insulted two Presidents just to advertise himself, and is a man who would rather be abused than be let alone. He must have notoriety and in the race for such, has been a disgrace to our state and the embodiment of conceit and personal vanity.

Our sister states claim California credit for our apples, prunes, scenery and climate and I only hope she may have the courage to claim our Governor too. For he is a bold misrepresenter, an arrant humbug, an arrant ass and a rank failure—this man who goes around the country preaching discontent, socialism and anarchy, spends two days a week in the executive office and expects us to pay the bills. I am very sorry for the democrats for having to shoulder the responsibility of having placed such a rank object in office.

Major Bruce Should be Made a County Charge.

Major Bruce, populist nominee for joint senator, asserted in a public speech the other day in Lincoln county, before a large audience and in the absence of Mr. Carter, that Mr. Carter was a rich man; had a barn full of buggies and fine horses, while he (Bruce) was poor; toiling all the time to get enough to live on; his wife was working like a slave all the time and his children were suffering for the necessities of life.

For a long time Mr. Bruce and family have been looked upon with pity by the sympathizing community who were thinking of taking up a collection for him and his starving family but had finally concluded to petition the county court to make them a county charge and send them to the poor farm to be cared for by Mrs. Higgins. The lying capacity of the average populist is indeed surprising and in this line Bruce is no exception. Mr. Carter has raised a large family all of whom are respectable citizens of Benton county. Bruce has one small child. Last year Bruce paid taxes on $10,842; Carter on $9,715. Bruce is known throughout the state as one of the wealthiest—if not the wealthiest farmer in Benton county. A fair valuation of his property would be at least $25,000 free of all indebtedness. He owns a herd of blooded cattle; drives good teams; dresses as well, or better than any man in Benton county; pays cash or its equivalent for merchandise; is supposed to be entirely free from debt; comes to town in good style, yet he goes about the county breeding discontent, socialism and anarchy. If he is issued he should be promptly placed in the asylum, but if he is not and is taking advantage of his nomination to go about willfully and maliciously misrepresenting his neighbors and the present condition of things, he should be incarcerated and not allowed the privileges of free born American citizen. Such men are dangerous and a menace to good government. They are of the same ilk as Herr Most but lack his courage. Mr. Bruce is an impostor and his statements should be given no credence.

There was a nice little meeting of pops and prohis at Oakville, in Linn county, on Tuesday, as was easily seen by the picnic being held at the intersection of three dusty roads surrounding the town pump. It was a cute little affair, indeed, for when the windy utterances of Ramp and fellow Coxyites went rolling down the lane to get hung up on the hazel brush, they could immediately adjourn to the afore-mentioned cucumber pump and soak their collapsible heads. Everybody cheered everything that was said and seemed totally unmindful of the cruel splinters which were penetrating their seats of knowledge and populist principles, and all returned to their neglected homes, full of visionary plans for spending their many thousands of machine-made, without-interest, dirt-cheap money.

A team owned by Mr. Voss of Granger, became frightened Wednesday morning and ran away. At the corner of Second and Jackson streets, in front of the Exchange hotel, the team collided with and smashed the rear of a buggy driven by Mrs. McElree of Linn county. No one was injured. The tongue of Voss' wagon dropped, caught under a crosswalk and snapped off, freeing the horses that cut for home and throwing the wagon twenty feet in the air. That part of the tongue broken off is firmly embedded in the crosswalk.

Tuesday evening a daughter of Norm Lilly was driving in from the country with an old "gentle" family horse that became scared at the college and started for town in a run. Miss Lilly was accompanied by a friend, and although considerably frightened she kept the horse in the middle of the road until Main street was reached. At Allen & Woodward's corner, where the fractious animal was stopped by John Stewart, before any damage or injury had occurred.

FOURTH LITERARY CONTEST

The Ciceronians Win From the Websterians by 32-2-3 Points.

An audience of 300 intelligent persons was on hand to greet the participants in the fourth semi-annual literary contest between the Websterian and Ciceronian societies of the agricultural college. The contestants, ten in number, had been rehearsing faithfully for several weeks and had prepared a program superior in excellence—if such a thing were possible—to any similar one heretofore given. These contests have taken place half-yearly during the past two scholastic years, and in each of them much interest has been manifested, not only by the participants, but by the entire school and faculty. A year ago when the medal was first offered the Websterians were victorious. At the next contest the Ciceronian president was accorded the honor of wearing the trophy. The last time the societies met in combat it again passed to the Websterians only to be wrested from them by the Ciceronians last Friday evening.

Conspicuous among the stage decorations were portraits of Cicero and Webster, also a large American flag, and with its presence the contestants seemed to gather inspiration. An immense burst of enthusiasm was accorded the participants as they entered upon the stage to again struggle for possession of the costly medal. In point of enthusiasm the contest fell far below former ones, but for careful preparation and excellence of the entertainment the last one would certainly take first place. The entire programme evidenced that rapid advancement had been made in literary work during the past two years, and each number reflected credit upon the societies interested. If the rendition of this programme be taken as a criterion of the work being accomplished in each of the several departments of the agricultural college, the faculty have reason to congratulate themselves upon their success. No one stumbled over his lines; there were no corrections or promptings, and each contestant acquitted himself in a most creditable manner.

Of the essays too much cannot be said for the pains taken and the careful research exemplified in their preparation. One or two of them contained many beautiful thoughts and were thoroughly appreciated by the audience.

In the rendition of the recitations, elocutionary talent of a high order was displayed; the readings and the able manner in which the debate was handled, all met with commendation from the audience.

Professor John Straub, of the university of Oregon, Rev. J. A. Townsend, of Independence, and Prof. Eugene M. Earle, of Albany, acted as judges and occupied seats in various parts of the house. After the results had been announced Prof. Straub was called on to make a few remarks. He stated that the judges were sorry that only one medal had been offered; that several had acquitted themselves so well that they were individually entitled to some reward. He also spoke in a most flattering way of the evening's programme. President Bloss stated that it was somewhat peculiar that the medal had passed alternately between the two societies, and for fear that some might imagine that the matter had been "fixed" beforehand he would state that the judges were in each instance disinterested parties, and that everything had been conducted in a regular manner.

The total number of possible points for each side was 1200. The Ciceronians were credited with 1223; the Websterians 1193, the former winning by 32 2/3 points.

Holm and Bryan.

ED. GAZETTE.—It is not often, and certainly not in the regular line of campaign work, that candidates should cause reports to be circulated that under other circumstances would be detrimental to their interests, but such seems to be the case in the instance to which I am about to allude. There is a report in circulation through the county to the effect that E. L. Bryan, nominee on the democratic ticket and present incumbent of the office of county school superintendent of Benton county, is in the habit of getting drunk whenever favorable opportunities present themselves. This is indeed news to the people of Philomath, where he has lived since early childhood and all know that he had no greater sin than this to answer for and his moral character was as blameless in other respects as in this particular, his passport to the kingdom when Gabriel blows his trumpet would indeed be there. The above report comes from Monroe, a part of the county where Bryan has done the principal part of his campaign work; a part of the county where Professor Holm is not known and has never visited. E. L. Bryan, with his small following, appear to be straining every nerve in the way of circulating any and all kinds of reports which they may think detrimental to the interest of his worthy opponent. It is said that Professor Holm is comparatively a stranger in Benton county; this is true, but to their astonishment, he is making friends wherever he goes and is developing a strength under which their boasted majority of two hundred is fast disappearing and it would doubtless be to the interest of E. L. Bryan were he also a stranger, particularly to voters of Philomath precinct, as will be clearly demonstrated on the 4th day of June next.

There has developed a general dissatisfaction with his official administration; he is charged with not visiting the schools of the county as the law requires. He is also charged with partiality in the examinations in granting certificates to applicants above their grades and denying others where their grades entitle them to pass, as one lady is said to have expressed it in Corvallis some time since, that she obtained a first-grade certificate because her brothers electioneered and worked for Bryan two years ago. He is also charged with using his official capacity in the interest of teachers belonging to certain factions to the detriment of others better qualified, but not belonging to said certain factions. In conclusion, Mr. Editor, I appeal to the voters of Benton county in order that we may have an honest and impartial administration of our school affairs in the coming two years to vote for F. J. Holm for county school superintendent.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

PEARSE, CLARKE & Co. May 24th, 1894.

THE CANVASS OPENED.

Observations Made by the Gazette Reporter at Summit, Blodgett and Wren.

SUMMIT, May 21, 1894.

The political canvass opened in this precinct today. The meeting was called to order about 10 o'clock and a rather small audience greeted the populist candidates and Hon. Tolbert Carter, who were the only ones on the grounds until the arrival of the train about 4 p. m., on which were the rest of the nominees for the different offices. Hon. Tolbert Carter, being on the sick list, retired early, and Maj. Bruce, populist candidate for joint senator, took advantage of this and made the remark that Carter was a gold bug and a millionaire, but neglected to remark at the same time that he was worth at least three times as much money as Hon. Tolbert, and just as much a gold bug. The boys of the town had a little fun at the expense of the populists this day. Of course we all know that it is customary at this time of the year for cigars to be passed rather freely. Of course the pops were tackled for cigars and positively refused. They vainly tried for some time to get them to produce, but all to no purpose. Finally the boys grew weary, and taking up a collection among themselves, bought a box of cigars and passed them around among the pops, but the Right Honorable Felix Dodele, he of the Hoff fame, eagerly grabbed for one and it was a source of great laughter for the boys.

This precinct will give the republican ticket a good majority.

Korthauer and Smith are making friends rapidly and are sure of election.

Dr. Lee is, so far, conspicuous by his absence. Good scheme, as he will make votes by it.

Quite an audience of ladies and gentlemen greeted the candidates here today. The meeting was held in the warehouse and was presided over by J. J. Harris, who filled the bill to a dot. Maj. Bruce was the first on the list and ranted around for fifteen minutes, which, by the way, is the time now allotted to all the candidates, telling how the old parties were rotten,—oh, well, you know what they say, the same old story. Tolbert Carter followed in one of his sensible talks and made many friends. He is making friends rapidly. Tolbert told the people how he had been instructed in the republican principles by Judge Chewoweth, who is on the canvass running the party down for all he is worth. Thos. Stakley snorted awhile for the pops. Money! Money! is all he can say. John Daly followed with a neat speech and referred to the parties by saying that the two old parties had a record and the other had a scheme. Felix Dodele, who has been dubbed "Crazy Felix," showed his eloquence for his allotted time, and five minutes more, which was given him by Mr. Daly. If Felix gets any worse a commission will be appointed to examine into his sanity. Something is surely wrong, for when you stand close to him the buzzing of cogwheels in his head can be plainly heard.

A. F. Hersherer now made a few remarks which were well received. At this juncture Dodele flew to his feet again and caused Chairman Harris to call him down gracefully. The several candidates for school superintendent were introduced and spoke a few words. Miss Harrington stated that she was one of the schemers mentioned by Mr. Daly. She didn't make the impression she thought she would with the boys. Hufford and Cauthorn closed the meeting with short speeches. "Crazy Felix" tried to hold the crowd longer but failed.

WREN, May 23. Meeting called to order at 1:30 by the chairman. Here, as at other points, the republican ticket is gaining strength. Honest Tol. Carter told the voters in his usual candid way that if elected he would represent the people of the two counties to the best of his ability. His sincerity can not be doubted, and his high sense of honor so thoroughly impresses his listeners that he is making many friends on the canvass. John Daly said that the scheme of the "scheming" party was to scheme Pennoyer into the U. S. senate, but their scheme wouldn't work. If M. H. Bruuk was on hand he would stand no show by the side of our Daly. Korthauer has got onto the political string and is gaining admirers all along.

"Crazy Felix" is determined to go to Salem at any cost, and the chances are that he will get there for a few months' stay—in the asylum for the feeble-minded. At this point is where Osburn and his henchmen first sprang the embezzlement racket on George Smith, which is known to be an infamous lie, and instead of injuring Smith, it is doing him good. The voters put no credence in it and consider it a blackmailing scheme on the part of Osburn to defeat his opponent.

A Serious Charge.

An indictment was found by the grand jury of Lincoln county, last Tuesday, against Cyrus Burleigh charging him with assault with intent to commit rape upon his little 12-year old granddaughter. Burleigh is an old decrepit person who lived with his family last winter in the Diller house, and is the father of "Big Six," a notorious female character, who married a fellow by the name of Irish, and for a time last spring lived in a tent on the flat just south of town. The crime is alleged to have been committed at the home of his daughter near Nashville. The girl's condition was first discovered by one of the neighbors named Altree. At first the girl refused to tell them the circumstances but the little thing was finally induced to expose the matter on being assured that no harm would come to her at the hands of her relatives. The old man pled not guilty to the charge and claims that other parties had been committing wrongs upon her person. If the reports that reach Corvallis regarding this matter are true the whole outfit should be dealt with in the most severe manner. The family bore by no means a savory reputation while residing in this city and our people considered it good ridance to have rubbish when they pulled up stakes and rammed.

LATER—Burleigh was tried yesterday, found guilty and sentenced to 3 years in the Penitentiary. He was escorted to his new home today by Deputy Sheriff Ball of Lincoln county.

Memorial Services.

Memorial Sunday will be appropriately observed in this city with services at the opera house at 11 o'clock. The G. A. R. post, relief corps and the sons of veterans will attend in a body. Music will be furnished by the O. A. C. quartette and a large choir of mixed voices and the sermon will be preached by Rev. Powell. LEADING FORLORN HOPES.

Democratic State Candidates Visit Corvallis and Speak to a Good Audience.

At the Opera House last Thursday evening a good sized audience met to listen to speeches by the nominees on the democratic ticket for governor, for congress, state treasurer and superintendent of public instruction. The countenance of each of these genial gentlemen betrayed the fact that each of them recognized he was leading a forlorn hope. The audience was enthusiastic and attempts on the part of the speakers to create a flow of enthusiasm proved futile. Mr. Galloway seemed to impress his listeners that he was sincere and would not steal if elected, as the present democratic governor does. His most pertinent suggestion was that his hearers should go to their homes and meditate until election day and then choose between himself and Mr. Lord. This suggestion was unnecessary. The people had already concluded to vote for Lord. Mr. Weatherford was next introduced and aimlessly led off to river and harbor improvements, evidently forgetting for the time that river and harbor appropriations were the result of the fostering care of the republican party. This, however, is usual with that party, which has always lagged a decade behind, only to jump up some thread of progress made popular by republican enterprise against democratic opposition. He attempted to answer the arguments of Mr. Hermann regarding the effect of the Wilson bill on the hop, prune and lumber interests of this country by asserting that some of the commodities had found sale at better prices since the "change" than before, which is certainly no argument that these industries will not suffer much damage, if not total destruction, if the Wilson bill becomes a law. He stated that our sawmills were shipping cargoes of lumber to South America and elsewhere on the same waves that carried the lumber of British Columbia to the same foreign ports, but failed to show that the United States would become the chief market for Canadian lumber if that commodity was placed on the free list. He failed to state that a home market was the best market and that by destroying it a destruction of other interests would inevitably follow. In speaking of the grain harvest he cited an establishment in Oakland, Cal., that was manufacturing sacks fostered by the tariff which cost the poor farmer so much, and declared that the factory gave employment to a few whites and a good many Chinamen, and then with tearful eyes complained that the farmers and the wool growers. But the speaker said nothing regarding the recent treaty promulgated by Cleveland, Yang Yu and Wong Queshan that will render all our Chinese restriction laws void and again flood the country with this class of pauper labor. The names of Cleveland and the acts of the present democratic governor seem to be contemplated with remorse. Mr. Davidson, the party's nominee for state treasurer, who is known as a chronic liar, during a period of at least 15 years, spoke in any thing but a brilliant manner. The principal thing he said was: "Now my fellow citizens I just want to get hold of that sack which Phil Metachan now has his fingers on." There is little doubt but that Mr. Metachan will continue to hold it four years longer. Mr. Reid closed the meeting with a sort of an apology for Davidson and finished with some stirring remarks about his opponent, Mr. Irwin.
