GREETING AND GOOD BYE.

Spoken at the Commencement Exercises Last Wednesday Morning.

SALUTATORY BY MISS ALICE LETTIE WICKS

"Oh, Cæsar, we, who are about to die,
Salute you! was the gladiator's cry
In the arena, standing face to face
With death and with the Roman populace."

Dear friends, this day we enter the arena and salute you. Like the gladiator, we go into combat facing the stern realities of life. It is indeed with pleasure that we welcome you to our commencement exercises. We are glad to have you with us on this occasion, and every member of our class appreciates the interest that you have manifested in our behalf.

Dear parents, you are thrice welcome. We know that you have anxiously watched the progress we have made from year to year, and that you now rejoice with us in our final success.

To the members of the Board of Regents and the Faculty, we feel that we are greatly indebted for the advantages that we have enjoyed. We owe it to your kind and constant supervision that we have at last attained this honor. Knowing that you have toiled so earnestly for our upbuilding, we welcome you and once more thank you for what you have done for us.

What the future has in store for us, what obstacles we must surmount, and what difficulties are to be overcome, we know not; but we believe that the training we have received during our school days will aid us when we meet them and will stimulate us to great success in life's hard school. How easily we recall those days when we began our ascent of the ladder that we have since been climbing. Oh, what a distance it seemed to the round on which we now stand! Countless were the steps that intervened! But, planting our feet firmly on the base, and growing in strength, we were soon enabled to take one step higher, and thus by degrees we have ascended.

Fellow classmates, we all remember these steps. Recall the suspense after the examinations, when we waited to know how much our instructors thought we had grown—what had been our progress—whether they were convinced that we were ready to step on a higher round. But now these experiences are all in the past; we have reached the round which takes us into new scenes, where we shall find other tasks, and where the lessons to be learned are of a widely different character from those we have been studying. In this school we will not have our instructors to depend upon when we are in the midst of difficulties. We must be self-reliant, going forth determined to succeed. Let us ever bear in mind that "the world is a looking-glass and gives to each individual the reflection of the face he brings to it; smile on it and it will smile in return, frown on it and it will frown in return."

And now again to all we extend a hearty welcome. We fully appreciate your kindness in aiding us whenever circumstances permitted. It is through your assistance that we have enjoyed countless advantages that are afforded only to the few; therefore as we go out into the world facing the responsibilities and duties of life, we will endeavor so to live that our lives will reflect credit upon ourselves and this institution of learning. We hope that success will be the reward of our efforts, and that you may have occasion to look with pride upon the career of the class of '94.

VALEDICTORY DELIVERED BY W. FRANK HOLMAN.

Every beginning must have an ending and every pleasurable duty must find a close. Today, for the last time, we stand a united class and must now sever the ties that have bound us together during four short, happy years of school life. Tomorrow we will be alumni, and following where duty calls; our paths will then begin that divergence which in a few years will scatter us far and wide over life's battlefields.

Commencement and graduation does not signify that our education is finished or that our knowledge is complete. Far from it. We have only mastered that which has been attempted. New fields have been revealed to us which will require a life-time of study and application. We have only risen out of the valley into the foothills with higher mountains farther on and as these are surmounted, one by one, others of greater magnitude present themselves to view. As we approached from the valley only the lowest hills were at first discernable and after these the mountains, so we can imagine that beyond these discovered, still greater ones exist which, to the patient traveler who succeeds in overcoming the opposing fobstacles, are bound to be filled with beautiful and luxuriant fields of thought and rich mines of undiscovered treasure.

Not only have our school days been profitably spent, but our environment has been an added source of strength and comfort.

To the good citizens of Corvallis from whom we have received so much kindly encouragement, we shall ever remain greatly indebted. At our public efforts you have ever graciously honored us with your presence and expressed your approbation. You have rejoiced with us in our victories and extended your sympathies in our defeats. During our brief stay your homes have been open to us, and we believe the result will prove a lasting benefit. We are grateful for the privileges you have granted us, and thankful that the O. A. C. was placed in your midst. Assuring you that your kindness will ever be treasured in memory's halls, we must bid you farewell.

To you, Honorable Board of Regents, we shall ever remain grateful for your untiring efforts in our behalf, in surrounding us with so many comforts and advantages, for providing such able and efficient instructors in our several departments, and for placing such excellent and improving courses of study within our reach. We thank you for these numerous advantages and for your interest in our own and the college's welfare. Wishing you the success in the future that you have enjoyed in the past and hoping that the board may ever, as now, be composed of men anxious and able to advance the best interests of our college and of education in general, we bid you farewell.

And you, Honored President, we cannot speak too highly of your kindness and gentleness, of your firmness and impartiality, of your consideration and wisdom in dealing with our various shortcomings and offenses. We feel that when heroic treatment has been practiced it was a necessity and that on your part no pains have been spared to reclaim the wanderer, to reform the erring and to strengthen the weak. In you we find a worthy successor to our lamented President Arnold, under whose kindly influence and able instruction we passed two profitable years. To you we feel indebted for the beautiful stand of colors with which our battalion has been recently presented (by the college authorities.) We are proud of our nation and our national flag and feel honored at being the first into whose care it was entrusted. Fellow comrades, let it not be carried simply for show, but carry it because we love it and believe that the sentiments which it inculcates should be instilled into the heart and life of every American youth. Wishing you and your administration of the college the continued success and prosperity which it deserves, we bid you a warm hearted farewell.

To you, kind and honored instructors, who have patiently guided our wandering footsteps in the paths that lead to knowledge, we owe a debt of gratitude. Slowly but surely, step by step, have you led us into the beauties and intricate depths of applied science, and with simple, repeated and patient explanation have tried to arouse our enthusiasm and develop in our untrained minds the capacity of full and thorough understanding. You have been kind and obliging and even indulgent to secure our advancement which has seemed to be your greatest source of pleasure. Though at times we may have seemed inappreciative of your efforts, we hope to be able to prove that they have not been in vain.

On the marble tablets of memory your names with those of our classmates, shall be deeply engraved in letters, which time and change of surroundings can never efface, each there to remain till life's brittle cord is severed. Trusting that you may ever follow your noble callings with unalloyed success, and that you will at life's end be rewarded with the plaudit "Well done good and faithful servants", we must now reluctantly bid you farewell.

Dear classmates, at last we have reached the goal for which we have so long been striving. The long coveted prize is just within our reach, yet we pause a moment before grasping it. Are we undecided as to whether there will be more pleasure in its possession than there has been in it pursuit? No; we now find that we are not so anxious to sever our connections with our alma mater as we had anticipated. That act will mark a new epoch in our lives, the passing of another mile stone. It is the passport from pleasant school days into the active duties of life. Side by side and full of hope we have glided through the halcyon days of school life. We entered college from three to five years ago. Each launched and steered his own vessel; but together we have sailed peacefully onward, following the same general direction and being borne on by that swift and irresistable, yet unseen, under-current of time toward that unknown realm—our future. Suddenly, and seemingly too soon, we find ourselves at the end of this pleasant journey and all pause for a moment to speak one last word of parting, to give a word of encouragement before entering upon the stormy sea of reality and experience. But the pause is only for a moment. Again we pass on and strike out boldly on the broad expanse of life. As we are bound for different ports and each will soon be left to his own resources and companionship our directions will then diverge and we will soon be further separated by the winds of circumstances and the calls of duty. We entertain no fear of not arriving at the haven where we would be, for each has been here fully equipped for piloting his own craft. It is possible that we may be lost to each other for a time, yet later on we will learn of each others victories and defeats, and ofttimes we hope there will be happy meetings upon the sea of life. Could we but dissolve the mist which obstructs our view and peer into the future we would no doubt be pleased and gratified at the result. Some of these vessels we should see heavily laden with the imperishable cargoes of fame and honor; others with the transient treasures of wealth; and not a few we hope like unto Abow Ben Adhem, crowned by angels with that royal diadem, "one that loves his fellow man." Did we possess the power of choosing the pathways which you are to follow, how beautiful and ennobling they would be—not free from all sorrow nd care, for no one would be strengthened by such a life of ease and you would soon cease to enjoy it. The rose would lose much of its beauty were it not for the accompanying thorn. As nations prove themselves strong only after surmounting obstacles, so do we gain strength only in overcoming difficulties. Difficulties we must expect to meet in all new environments. The removal of a tree from unwholesome surroundings is a delicate process and at first somewhat retards its growth, yet later on the tree begins to take new root, showing a brilliant foliage and a strong, healthy and symmetrical development in marked contrast with the stunted unhealthy growth that had marked it as one perishing from want of opportunity. So in life. The passage from one stage into another with new surroundings may seem difficult and dangerous, yet it is just what is necessary for our development and growth. Let us never lose sight of our class motto, "esse quam videm"—"To be rather than to seem;" and no matter in what condition of life our lot may be cast, be earnest, be real and fulfill the highest ideal that opportunity will allow. Duty has been described as the most sublime word in the English language and in following its highest behests we cannot go far wrong. Whatever we do, the memory of our school days should ever be an incentive toward the good, the beautiful and the true. Wishing for each of you a life of honor and influence, of usefulness to your fellow-man, and of duty well done, we bid you one and all farewell and God-speed.

R. hall. All are invited and especially those who are interested in building up the Baptist cause. A goodly number of new members will be received next Sunday.

Mr. Thomas Battle, editor of the Graphic, Texarkana, Arkansas, has found what he believes to be the best remedy in existence for the flux. His experience is well worth remembering. He says: "Last summer I had a very severe attack of flux. I tried almost every known remedy, none giving relief. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy was recommended to me. I purchased a bottle and received almost immediate relief. I continued to use the medicine and was entirely cured. I take pleasure in recommending this remedy to any person suffering with such a disease, as in my opinion it is the best medicine in existence." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Graham & Wells.

Some very good records have lately been made with the bicycle. A Eugene man rode 123 miles in nine hours and forty-five minutes. Last Sunday Roscoe Bryson rode his Victor from Eugene to Corvallis in three hours and fifty minutes.

There will be dedicatory and recognition services at Plymouth Congregational church near Philomath next Saturday at 7:30 p. m. and Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Revs. C. F. Clapp and J. L. Hershner are expected and will officiate. A cordial invitation to everybody.

Harry Hogue spent several days of last week at Eddyville in Lincoln county visiting his sister who is teaching school at that place. He reports that boys have been catching crayfish and sending them to the Portland markets for which they realize twelve and one-half cents per dozen.

Mr. J. C. Boswell, one of the best known and most respected citizens of Brownwood, Texas, suffered with diarrhœa for a long time and tried many different remedies without benefit, until Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy was used; that relieved him at once. For sale by Graham & Wells.

On the Fourth of July William Currin attached a cyclometer to his bicycle and rode from the postoffice in Corvallis to Sulphur Springs around by Tampico, returning by way of the hill road. The cyclometer registered the first distance as fifteen and a half miles and the return trip at nine and three-fourths miles.

The port of Yaquina will continue to enjoy the luxuries of a custom house and a collector, notwithstanding the fact that many reports were circulated to the effect that the maintenance of the port cost far more than the revenue collected and for the abolishment of which, a bill was recently introduced in congress that failed to pass.

The buildings about the college present a vacated air since the close of school. The dormitories with their many windows full of electric light are darkened now and one almost expects to see a sign on the doors "To Let." The bugle too is hushed and its sweet notes as "taps" were sounded in the evening is missed by nearly every one.

Daisy Estes, a notorious character, who at one time lived in Corvallis, died last week at St. Vincent's hospital, in Portland, from the effect of injuries received in a fire, the result of upsetting a burning lamp in her room several weeks ago. She suffered intense pain and died in great agony. Her mother was present during her last hours.

In these days of everlasting hard times it is a pleasure to note that some of our merchants are doing a good business. To do this, however, it is often necessary to sacrifice a portion of the profits, and that is what Krausse Brothers are doing at this time. William Wright their manager in this city informs us that boots and shoes are being sold at prices so low that anyone can afford to buy.

The Y. P. S. C. E., of the Congregational church will hold a special service at 8 p. m. next Sunday instead of the regular preaching service. An excellent program consisting of solos, duets, anthems, select readings and recitations will be given besides other attractions. Regular preaching service at 11 a. m.; subject "A Confession and a Charge." Sunday school at 10 a. m. Everybody invited.

The "Statesman's" courier, C. B. Craven, arrived here on his wheel at 8:30 yesterday bringing a large and welcome bundle of morning papers, which were disposed of in very short order. The distance from Salem is about forty miles and was made in four hours. The push shown by this enterprising paper is more than commendable and is especially appreciated by those who gleaned the news from its valued columns whilst eating their breakfast.

One day last week Ed Davis, who lives on Beaver creek, was coming down the hill from the Coom sawmill with a load of lumber when the brake gave way and the team ran off. Mr. Davis was violently thrown to the ground, as a result of which he received a broken rib and a serious shaking up, but will soon recover. The team was stopped by Mr. Mercer, who was also hauling lumber, before any further damage was accomplished.

The unusual number of runaways occurring lately certainly shows a general disposition to be careless by those having horses in their charge. On Wednesday morning a light rig containing two small children and drawn by a pair of big grays, came dashing down Main street and was only stopped and the lives of the little ones saved by the courageous effort of bystanders. Less than half an hour later a team belonging to H. L. French cut up high jinks and spilled out two of his boys and then only desisted partly because there were half a dozen men at their heads and partly because there was no more horses or wagon left, on which to vent their ill temper.

From Mr. George Mercer it is learned that his son, Albert, who lives on Beaver creek, lost his house and contents last Saturday afternoon by fire. No one was in the dwelling when the fire broke out and when first discovered the blaze was beyond control. He had just laid in a supply of provisions sufficient to last until after harvest, and from the fact that nothing of value was saved, the loss at this particular time of the year is all the more serious. It is bad enough to be left homeless and without clothing and provisions during any season of the year, but just as the busy season opens it is a great inconvenience. The loss will aggregate in the neighborhood of $400 with no insurance.

"Cleanliness is next to Godliness" is a familiar quotation from which our business men seem to have gathered an inspiration. On coming up town last Friday morning one might have seen in front of each business the proprietor or his chief clerk armed with a broom and busily engaged in sweeping the accumulated dust and dirt into little heaps, which latter in the day were hauled away. The result of this cleaning spell is plainly apparent. Main street now makes a very presentable appearance and is almost entirely freed from the disagreeable dust which has been such a constant source of annoyance for the past month. It is to be hoped that the merchants will take such cleaning up spells often.

A BUSINESS THAT PAYS

Scenes at the Pioneer Rock Quarry—Working Day and Night—Large Orders.

An enterprise that is fast assuming large proportions is the quarrying of building stone at the Pioneer quarry in Lincoln county. Last Sunday a representative of the GAZETTE visited to the quarry and from Supt. H. G. Luker, learned that they are unable to fill their orders as fast as they are coming in. The force of men employed was augmented this week until now twenty-eight men are engaged in the work. The men are divided into two shifts and work night and day and Sundays. Their wages vary from $1 50 to $3 00 per day. During the day time the work of quarrying and loading cars occupies the attention of the force while at night the channeling machine is in operation. This machine is a great labor-saving invention. It is operated by steam power which is generated in a boiler about a hundred feet distant; runs on a railroad track, and cuts a channel in the rock to a depth of six feet. These channels or grooves are cut parallel from six to ten feet apart and six feet deep. The rock is split up into convenient sizes for shipment.

The stone is gray sandstone of an excellent quality for building purposes. When first taken out it is quite soft and easily worked but on being exposed to the atmosphere it becomes hardened until it will stand a pressure nearly equal to that of granite. Hereafter with the aid of their channeling machine they will be able to get out from 1000 to 1200 cubic feet per day.

About 170 cubic feet makes a car load of ten tons. For this they receive, as near as can be learned, 40 cents per cubic foot on board the cars at the quarry. This stone is largely being used in San Francisco, although several car loads have been shipped to Portland. Nine thousand cubic feet have been shipped to San Francisco to be used in the construction of the Spreckles building. An order was received last week for 63 000 cubic feet for use in the erection of the Parrott building in the same place. Some of the stones ordered for special purposes are of an enormous size, many of them weighing from ten to fourteen tons each and being sufficient to load a single car. The company now have one ship under charter and hope soon to have another vessel on the line.

The quarry is located about 1000 feet north of Barney Morrison's place on the Yaquina river. The Oregon Pacific has constructed a siding and the blocks of stone are conveyed directly from the quarry to the cars by means of a large steam derrick. The land is owned by J. M. Howell and the company operating the business has secured a nine-year lease on the ground. This company is composed of H. G. Luker, G. W. Davis and W. H. Alexander, all residents of Salem. The location of the quarry is a high bluff on the right of the wagon road and at the intersection of two canons. Several ledges of an inferior quality of rock are found above the stone used for shipment, the removal of which is necessitated to permit of the use of the channeling machine. At paesent the surface upon which the channeling machine can be used is about 100 feet long with an average width of thirty feet. This area will be increased as rapidly as possible to admit of the use of another machine which at present is hardly practicable. For George Lay Anaker, who was recently killed by falling from the top of the bluff down a perpendicular precipice of fifty feet to the ledge below, a monument six and one half feet in height is being constructed by Supt. Luker. The monument is of handsome design and is being cut from stone taken from the quarry. It will be placed at his grave in Salem. A large watering trough is also being constructed on the ground for John Alberts, a resident of Salem. From all indications there is an inexhaustible supply of this stone and when once its excellent qualities become known to builders there is little doubt that it will be largely used. The industry already yields good returns and promises at a day not far distant to be one of the leading industries of the growing county of Lincoln.

Mr. Luker, the superintendent, is a very pleasant gentleman, and to him the GAZETTE man is under obligations for favors extended.

Nearing the Grave.

In old age infirmities and weakness hasten to close the gap between us and the grave. Happily scientific research and pharmacal skill have allied themselves in furnishing us a reliable means of ameliorating the ailments incident to declining years, and of renewing waning physical energy. Its name is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a widely comprehensive remedy in disease, and an inestimable blessing to the elderly, the feeble and the convalescent. Rheumatic ailments, trouble with the kidneys and lumbago are among the more common ailments of the aged. These are effectually counteracted by the Bitters, which is likewise a prevention and curative of malarial complaints, dyspepsia, constipation and billiousness. It is highly promotive of appetite, sleep and the acquisition of vigor.

Our Main-Stay.

The Oregon Racific railroad, that much malaigned and never sold road, that, to quote Judge Whalley, "starts in a mud flat at Yaquina and ends in a snow bank somewhere in the Cascades," stands today as the peer of all Oregon roads. It is the only road over which trains are running on schedule time and to which we have to look for the tidings of time's flight and of the occurrences in the outside world, for it is the only road that is delivering the mails to this and sister cities, and in the line of always being thankful for small things, we are extremely thankful, indeed, when we hear the welcome toot of No. 11, 13, or 16, as the case may be, that we live along the line of this extremely poor, but extremely punctual line.

There are excursions advertised, both east and west, and they will run them too, and they will be well patronized, for many who have planned little outings over other roads at this most auspicious time, have given up in disgust and will take their lunch baskets and fishing rods and light out for some cool spot via the Webfoot Route—the route that keeps Corvallis wheat within a few cents of Portland's.

They want Names.

The Russell Art Publishing Co., of 928 Arch St., Philadelphia, desire the names and address of a few people in every town who are interested in works of art and to secure them they offer to send FREE, "Cupid guides the boat," a superbly executed water color picture, size 10 x 13 inches, suitable for framing, and 16 other pictures about the same size, IN COLORS, to any one sending them AT ONCE the names and address of ten persons (admirers of fine pictures) together with six two cent stamps to cover expense of mailing, etc. The regular price of these pictures is $1.00, but they can all be secured free by any person forwarding the names and stamps promptly.

NOTE—The editor of this paper has already received copies of above pictures and considers them really "gems of art."

The success of Mrs. Annie M. Beam, of McKeesport, Pa., in the treatment of diarrhœa in her children will undoubtedly be of interest to many mothers. She says: "I spent several weeks in Johnstown, Pa., after the great flood, on account of my husband being employed there. We had several children with us, two of whom took the diarrhœa very badly. I got some of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy from Rev. Mr. Chapman. It cured both of them. I knew of several other cases where it was equally successful. I think it cannot be excelled and cheerfully recommended it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Graham & Wells.

Wanted—Agents in each town and county to sell the greatest book of the age, "Errors of the Roman Catholic Church and its Influence on the General Government To day," with history and progress of the American Protective Association (A. P. A.) Over 700 pages and illustrated with 50 full page engravings. Send 50 cents at once for complete outfit and terms. Special terms given on other fast selling works. Address, J. H. Chambers & Co., 914 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo.

Wanted—Pushing canvasser of good address. Liberal salary and expenses paid weekly. Permanent position. Brown Bros. Co., Nurserymen, Portland, Oregon.

Lines by a Bachelor.

A crusty old bachelor residing in Corvallis, on being urged by a friend to marry, sent him the following lines:

Why not live single? The desert of life
Is all the more dreary when coupled with a wife.
Its sunrise is perfect, its beauty we feel,
But, ere midday, the cactus is pricking our heel.

The evening draws on—there is no sign of water;
We carry a load—'tis a son or a daughter;
The sun sinks to rest, the shadows descend,
A cayote is heard and this is the end,

Won't some of our young ladies take this fellow in hand?

School Report.

The following is the report of the school taught in district No. 95, in Benton county, for the month beginning June 5 and ending June 29: Whole number of boys enrolled, 5; whole number of girls enrolled, 8; No. days attendance, 177½; No. of days absence, 23½; No. times tardy, 4; pupils not absent during the month, Willie Minton, Clara Stewart, Floyd and Hattie McTimmonds; visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, Mr. McTimmonds, Mr. H. Wood, Mr. W. Norton, Arthur Hope, Gertie Hope, Clifton Morrow, Clayton Stewart.

LULU HARRINGTON, Teacher.

"LOOK UP, and not down," if you're a suffering woman. Every one of the bodily troubles that come to women only has a guaranteed cure in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. That will bring you safe and certain help.

It's a powerful general, as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, and it builds up and invigorates the entire female system. It regulates and promotes all the proper functions, improves digestion, enriches the blood, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and strength.

For ulcerations, displacements, bearing-down sensations, periodical pains, and all "female complaints" and weaknesses, "Favorite Prescription" is the only guaranteed remedy. If it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

In every case of Catarrh that seems hopeless, you can depend upon Doctor Sage's Catarrh Remedy for a cure.

It's proprietors are so sure of it that they'll pay $500 cash for any incurable case. Sold by all druggists.

Business Change.

We have purchased the stock and good will of Mr. Nels H. Wheeler who retires June 1st. We will conduct a first class grocery business at his present stand from that date, and will be pleased to meet all customers. We assure them of good values and courteous treatment.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

SUMMONS.

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for the county of Benton.

S. H. Dalaba, Plaintiff, vs.
R. G. Simmons and C. M. Simmons Defendants.

To C. M. Simmons, one of the above-named Defendants:

In the name of the State of Oregon, you are hereby summoned and required to appear and answer to the complaint of said plaintiff in the above-entitled suit now on file in the office of the clerk of said court, on or before the 12th day of November, 1894, that being the first day of the regular term of said court next after the publication of this summons, to be begun and held at the court house, in the city of Corvallis, county of Benton and state of Oregon, and you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint, as herein required, the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in said complaint, to-wit: For a decree against Defendant R. G. Simmons for $1000.00 and interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent. per annum from February 10, 1893, and for $71.50 taxes and for $110.00 attorney's fees, and for costs and disbursement to be taxed; and that the mortgage executed by defendants to plaintiff February 10, 1893, to secure said $1000.00 on lots 7 and 8, block 9, in the original town of Marysville, now Corvallis, be foreclosed; and that said mortgaged premises be sold by the sheriff of Benton county, Oregon, in the manner prescribed by law, for the sale of real property upon execution, and that the proceeds arising from such sale be applied to the payment of the costs and expenses of such sale and this suit, and the amount decreed to be due plaintiff including attorney's fees, and for the further sum of $71.50 as taxes, and that plaintiff have the right to become the purchaser at such sale, and that sheriff shall put the purchaser into possession of the premises sold by him, and that the defendants and all persons claiming through or under them, or either of them be forever debarred and foreclosed of all right, title, estate or equity of redemption to said premises, except statutory right of redemption, and in event said premises do not sell for enough to satisfy the decree of plaintiff in full, then execution may issue against any other property of Defendant R. G. Simmons for the deficiency and for such other and further relief as the court may deem equitable.

This summons is published in the "Corvallis Gazette" for six successive and consecutive weeks, and service made by such publication by an order made by an order made by Hon. J. C. Fullerton, judge of said court, made at chambers, in Roseburg, Oregon, dated June 18, 1894, and now on file with the clerk of Benton county, Oregon.

W. E. YATES, Atty for Plaintiff.

Dated July 2, 1884.
